Red China Chiefs, Officials Drive Hard to Make Country The Leading World Power

By WALTON A. COLE

Copyright, 1958, by Reuters

LONDON (Reuters) — Determination to fulfil China's destiny as a leading—if not the leading—world power, is the motive which drives that country's chiefs and officials.

They do not spare themselves, and so set an example to all. It is commonplace for an official appointment to be fixed for as early as 7 a.m. Not infrequently the chief of a diplomatic mission in Peiping is summoned for consultation at 4 a.m. He finds that the senior officials who wish to talk to him have been conferring on the same subject since dinner time.

Like all workers except those on the land, they ostensibly have an eight-hour day and a six-day week, exclusive of meal hours. But such is the fervor for work that no one I met appeared to give the slightest thought to adhering to such daily schedules.

WELL INFORMED

Superficially it might seem that Chinese Communist leaders must be in a vacuum regarding the day-to-day occurrences in the outside world, which have little or no place in press or radio. But by means of news summaries intelligently compiled for official use, and by scrutinizing digests of the world's daily and periodical press, they are among the best-informed individuals on current affairs that I have met.

The world outside, as seen through these digests, cannot appear other than topsy - turvy when compared with the accounts of the always correct and staffed Communist bloc. Capitalism and its hand-maiden, Imperialism, are condemned. The condemnation is epitomized in the form of the government or ruling "capitalist clique" of the United States—never the American people as such.

Britain, too, is criticized for behaving like a satellite of the United States in all matters relating to China, and for permitting "Americans and others to take advantage of Hong Kong as a base to carry out activities hostile to China."

But despite this attitude, one of the highest Communists in the land said earnestly: "What we want in China for the survival of our development plan is peace. Through war everything that we have accomplished to date will be lost."

BACKWARD COUNTRY

And again, during criticism of American military and economic policy: "Properly thought - out economic co-operation between the capitalist and Communist countries could substantially stabilize the economies of the economies of the capitalist countries and advance reconstruction and development in the socialist countries."

I pass these comments on after talking to all manner of people during a 18-day visit to Communist China.

Throughout all the many discussions of international relations that I had runs the undeviating theme of absolute equality and reciprocity. Leaders frankly admit that China is short of foreign currency, is a "backward country," and advocate barter deals as the basis of foreign trade, but assert that in no circumstances would they accept any outside aid to which strings were attached.

Struggling to build up their own industries through a series of ambitious five-year plans, they have selected Britain as the industrial nation whose output must be surpassed, although by the target date of 1972 the Chinese population will be 16 times that of Britain.

Workers are exhorted toward this goal by posters prominently displayed in factories. Typical are: A tweed-jacketed John Bull astride a snorting ox over which leaps a Chinese steeplechaser on a magnificent horse, or Russian and Chinese athletes outstripping in individual races a fat, bespectacled American with cigar draped around his running kit and a barrel-waisted Englishman in a top hat and a garishly-checked tweed rubining vest.

Everywhere the zeal for building the new China is propagated. Giant billboards portray the features of "model workers" who have excelled at their jobs. Others list production targets and performance records of local factories.

A Scottish sea captain from Alexandria, Dumbartonshire, who was staying at the same hotel at Canton told me that never in 30 years' experience in all the ports of the world had he had a 7,000-ton general cargo unloaded so quickly as that week in Shanghai. Working day and night in relays, the dockers did it in slightly less than one-third of the fastest turnaround he had ever had before.

In a turbine factory I visited near Shanghai, a drum beat at noon and workers dashed to hear the latest production statistics. They greeted them with excited cheers as though they were football results.

The factory works three eight-hour shifts, with free meals for night workers. Most city factory workers appear to have an average income of about $23 a month, although the national average for China is more like that a year, the peasant, of course, living in the main off his land.

ONE UNION

In all offices and factories I visited there were bulletin boards for every group of workers showing at a glance by colored flags or other symbols output, attendance and freedom from error. In a newspaper office, black flags symbolized political mistakes. Against one name there were two black flags.

Chung Ming, chairman of the Shanghai Trade Union Council, told me that there are 16,000,000 union members in China. In any plant or factory there is only one union. Union membership is said to be optional but there appear to be few abstainers.

"A function of the trade union is to ensure that the executives of all enterprises carry out the state plans fully and discharge all tasks that have been set," Chung said.

"Where executives make mistakes or have obvious shortcomings the workers are at liberty to criticize through meetings and wall newspapers. The management has to answer openly and frankly all these criticisms and to make self-criticism before the workers.

"Where mistakes are serious and there is no attempt to eradicate them, the workers' council may decide to recommend that the executive should be removed."

OPEN TO CRITICISM

Trade union officials themselves are open to the self-criticism and discipline, which in Chung's words are the "watchwords of trade unionism in China."

On one occasion the workers complained union officials were given tea to drink at their meetings, whereas the workers got only hot water. Now everyone drinks hot water.

Chung said many troubles are settled by the workers themselves. One man was habitually late for work. Solution: All chip in and buy him an alarm clock. Another was depressed and careless. He had wife trouble. Fellow workers reconciled them and "the man now is a model worker."

This criticism is a vital part of the much - publicized "rectification" campaign aimed at increasing efficiency and, incidentally, exposing those who hold "rightist" ideas. Hundreds of big posters plaster the walls, enabling one and all to express their views, which are classified by local officials and, if necessary, passed on for higher action.

"So YOU did this? Take a half-holiday."

Canada's Foreign Trade Deficit Down $44 Million

Due Mainly to Decline In Purchases From U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's foreign trade deficit in January declined sharply by $44,000,000 from the corresponding month in 1957 due mainly to a steep decline in purchases from the United States, the bureau of statistics said today.

The month's deficit—excess of imports over exports — totalled $11,600,000, about one-fifth of the January deficit of $55,000,000 a year ago.

The bureau described its trade figures for January as preliminary and said reasons for the import decline are not yet apparent. Detailed export figures would be issued later but these generally would not be available for several weeks.

The trade deficit with the U.S. in January dropped sharply to $38,200,000 from $127,100,000 a year ago. At the same time the export surplus with the United Kingdom increased as imports — eased to $21,900,000 from $33,100,000.

DEFICIT REDUCED

Canada's foreign trade deficit in 1957 dropped to $180,700,000 from a peak of $842,300,000 in 1956. The deficit in U.S. trade declined to $1,064,600,000 from the 1956 record of $1,282,600,000, while the country's favorable trade balance with Britain fell to $231,400,000 from $333,700,000 the previous year.

The bureau said that imports in January dropped slightly 13 per cent in value to $401,100,000 from last year's record total for January of $460,400,000 but constituted a downward trend evident since last October.

Purchases from the U.S. were down slightly more than 16 per cent at $280,800,000, compared with the all-time January peak of $346,100,000 last year.

Imports from Britain in the month rose slightly to $38,500,000 from $36,200,000 but imports from all other Commonwealth countries dropped to $16,700,000 from $16,300,000. Purchases from other foreign countries were up at $61,600,000 from $60,900,000.

Canadian exports to all countries in January declined by 3.3 per cent to $312,500,000 in the corresponding month last year. Shipments to the U.S. rose to $242,400,000 from $219,000,000 but sales to Britain fell to $60,400,000 from $63,900,000.

Exports to the rest of the Commonwealth declined to $22,800,000 from $21,000,000 but there was a sharp decline in exports to foreign countries, with sales falling to $74,900,000 from $99,600,000.

Bolt Hits TCA Airliner, Only Slight Damages

MONTREAL (CP) — A Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount aircraft with 26 passengers aboard was slightly damaged by lightning Tuesday on a flight between Boston and Yarmouth, N.S., the company said today. It returned safely to Boston.

A TCA spokesman said here today the plane was never in any actual danger, although passengers were frightened when the craft ran into bad weather. They were unaware of any damage until the plane landed.

"I've done a lot of flying and this was the worst flight I've ever been on," Mrs. Evelyn Goodwin of Tewsbury, Mass., was quoted as saying.

DAMAGE MINOR

The lightning bolt burned out two of the Viscount's electrical discharge wicks on the wing tips and burned pinholes in the elevators. The damage, which the company termed minor, was repaired in Boston and the plane took off again, landing in Nova Scotia six hours behind schedule. It later flew to Montreal.

A TCA spokesman said the Viscount probably was not struck by lightning, but built up a large charge of static electricity which eventually discharged from the plane, either in a cloud or the ground.

"It's a common occurrence which does not endanger the passengers or — usually — frighten them," a TCA official said. "But since the wicks were burned out, there probably was a pretty big bang which would be startling to most people."

SOME PANICKY

Pilot of the aircraft was Capt. I. H. Kelsey, 35, of Montreal. William Campbell, of Milton Mass., said some passengers became panicky.

"There was a low ceiling and it was very rough. The pilot said it was a terrible storm," Mr. Campbell said. "The plane was snapping around and I thought one lightning bolt would hit the plane."

Like other passengers, he was unaware the plane had been damaged until it landed.

Wins $128,000 On TV Quiz Show

NEW YORK (AP)—A Louisiana veterinarian whose knowledge of American history has won him $128,000 on a television quiz show until Tuesday night is satisfied.

Dr. Alexander Sas-Jaworsky of Abbeville, La., a native of the Ukraine, could have tried for $256,000 on "The $64,000 Question, but he told master of ceremonies Hal March:

"The kids want me home, mamma wants me home, everybody wants me home, so Mr. March, let me go home!"

March credited Sas-Jaworsky with a cheque for $64,000. The other $64,000 will be paid next year, so the tax bite will not be so severe.

POLLING TROUBLE LOOMS AGAIN IN ST. PAUL RIDING

Enumerators Not Eligible to Act

OTTAWA (CP) — For the second time in successive federal elections, irregularities in connection with preparation of voters' list have been uncovered in Toronto St. Paul's riding.

Chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay announced Tuesday night that he ordered a new enumeration in at least 80 of the 154 polling divisions in the riding.

Mr. Castonguay said both of the enumerators in at least 80 polling divisions were not eligible to act in this capacity because they were not qualified as electors in the electoral district in question. This is contrary to electoral laws.

WORK QUALITY OK

Mr. Castonguay said there have been no complaints about the quality of the work by the enumerators in question. It was a matter of their ineligibility.

The ineligible enumerators were appointed on behalf of Progressive Conservative Roland Michener, Speaker of the House of Commons, and A. H. Rooney, liberal runner-up to Mr. Michener in the June 10, 1957, general election.

The enumerators were appointed by Miss V. E. Tilford, returning officer for Toronto St. Paul's.

Last year, charges of padding of voters' lists in Toronto St. Paul's led to investigation by a royal commission. The report of the commission will not be made public until it is tabled early in the next session of Parliament.

Four persons were convicted on charges of forgery, uttering and perjury.

ACCEPTED BLAME

Mrs. Nora Conacher Gamble of Liberal Liberal party workers accepted full responsibility for a scheme designed to add 500 fictitious names to the voters' list.

She was sentenced last month to six months in jail after she pleaded guilty to forgery. Ewing, 37, Thomas Middleton, 49, and Bernice Price, 27. One woman was acquitted.

The new enumeration for the March 31 general election is to be completed by March 5, Mr. Castonguay said.

Under electoral laws, no person can be appointed an enumerator unless qualified as an elector in the electoral district concerned.

In Toronto, Mr. Michener said it there was any error in selecting enumerators, responsibility rests with the returning officer. Miss Tilford was not available for comment.

Margot Thompson, CCF nominee in the riding, speculated that the enumerators might have discovered some enumerators do not reside in the riding when he refused to issue cheques in payment for their services.

Canadian Forest Industries To Reach New Peaks by 1980

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's forest industries will reach new peaks by 1980 but will occupy a smaller share of the national economy, a survey for the Gordon economic commission forecasts.

The survey, issued today, estimated that aggregate production of all forestry products will reach $4,000,000,000 by 1980, an increase of 87 per cent from about $2,150,000,000 in 1955.

However, it found that the country's forests have sufficient resources to stand the probable increase in the timber cut.

"Indeed," the report said, "it is the resulting impact on prices rather than the adequacy of supply in the physical sense, that is likely to influence the pattern and the share of the market which Canadian producers of forest products will obtain between now and 1980."

The report added: "It is not at all certain that the requisite volume of wood will be available at a cost which will permit it to be sold in competition with other materials and costs the products of forest industries of other countries."

Factors in meeting competition would depend on efforts to reduce depletion by fire, disease and insects and the industry's ability to increase yields and reduce logging, manufacturing and processing costs.

An estimated aaverage annual outlay of between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 for capital investment in the forests. The average outlay in recent years has been about $185,000,000.

The survey is one of 22 special studies made for the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects to help it prepare its final report. The commission, headed by Toronto accountant Walter Gordon, made a preliminary report in June 1957 and its final one is expected to be made public soon.

PREDICT MOON ROCKET THIS YEAR MARS 1965-1970

Must Beat Russia To Space Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — From air force and industry space experts come predictions that a rocket can be fired to the moon this year and an unmanned vehicle sent around Mars between 1965 and 1970.

The timetable for events in outer space was presented in separate forum — testimony by Lt.-Gen. Donald L. Putt, air force chief of research and development, appearing before the congressional committee; and a seminar for industry representatives sponsored by the air force association.

Putt told the committee that the exploratory moon shot could be made this year if the orders were issued within the next few weeks. The committee also was told that the U.S. would like to establish a space way-station on the moon — before Russia moves in.

MANUFACTURERS' VIEWS

A panel of industry missile manufacturers said that a trip around Mars and back for information on what it "sees" should be possible between 1965 and 1970. A rocket to land equipment intact on the moon to radio back information could be launched "this year;" a satellite carrying one or two men in a station around the earth for "a short time" can be ready between 1965 and 1967; to launch a rocket to Mars will require about 1,000,000 pounds of thrust, compared with the 150,000 great rockets under development in the U.S. (at about 300,000 pounds).

Russell W. McFall, vice president of Litton Industries' intercontinental ballistic missiles industrial operations, said a rocket will be available in the latter part of 1958 and that between 1960 and 1970 there will be "new" anti-missile missiles, beyond the present stage, with greatly improved performance of the Nike family of anti-aircraft missiles; satellite stations should come "around 1975."

Robert L. Johnson, Douglas Aircraft missile engineer: The moon rocket "probably" could be ready in 1963; man could make a satellite excursion by 1965; he would go "even farther" out in 1970.

Cosmetic Surgery Booming Branch Of Medicine, Most Patients Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Cosmetic surgery today has become a booming branch of medicine, and three out of four patients are women.

What is because women in our culture are expected to be beautiful," said Dr. Robert A. Fraser, a specialist in the field, "whereas men are expected only to be talented and responsible."

Dr. Fraskyn estimated there were 250,000 plastic (or cosmetic) surgery operations a year in the United States. Breakdown of this was about as follows: nose operations 70 per cent; face lifting—15 per cent; breast operations—10 per cent; others—5 per cent.

"In another few years, if our present bosom culture continues," he remarked, "breast operations will make up 50 per cent of all cosmetic surgery. Formerly, the objective in breast surgery operation was a reduction in the

Frost Announces Budget Surplus Of $547,000

Education and Welfare To Get Increased Grants

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost today predicted that this year's public spending program in Ontario will provide a peak of 230,000 jobs, up 15,000 from last year, once the construction industry comes out of the winter slump.

The provincial budget in his capacity as treasurer, the premier said the work will be on new construction, maintenance and repairs financed by the province, by provincial commissions and by municipalities.

The budget also unfolded another stage in an educational assistance program begun a year ago, boosting grants to elementary, and secondary schools by $33,000,000. It announced no new taxes except one minor tax adjustment. It re-affirmed Ontario demands for a more generous tax deal with the federal government.

The premier, presenting his 14th provincial budget, did not read that 12,350-word speech nor its appendix of more than 30,000 words. Instead, he talked from notes, and extemporized highlights.

He told newspaper men of his plans at a pre-budget briefing. "I'll table it as a historic document. But if I read that I'd paralyze everybody in the House—including the fellow reading it."

The budget announced a surplus of $547,007 "on an ordinary account, the day-by-day cost of government," for the fiscal year ending March 31. This compared with a forecast of $280,000 surplus for the new fiscal year.

The budget dealt with the works program for the coming year as "selling contributions to the inevitable cycle of unemployment."

"And I give this assurance, that should there be unemployment conditions that call for a further extension of our capital investment policy we shall, in cooperation with the federal government and with municipalities, take an even more active part in creating useful assets and employment for our people."

In the last fiscal year, Ontario, its commissions and municipalities spent $875,000,000 on construction, maintenance and repairs, providing on-site and off-site jobs for about 215,000 persons. About $300,000,000 was for provincial projects, $300,000,000 for municipal projects and $275,000,000 for work by provincial commissions.

The premier estimated that the coming year's program would cost $955,000,000 and employ 230,000 at its peak. Direct spending by the province would total $340,000,000, by provincial boards and commissions $290,000,000 and by municipalities, including school boards $335,000,000.

Other steps to combat unemployment were: increased assistance to municipalities for road improvements, increased old age and other assistance benefits, construction to be largely carried out by the province and by municipalities with provincial aid.

Newsprint Output To Be More Than Doubled in 1980

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian newsprint production, now almost double the total world output, may more than double to 12,500,000 tons a year by 1980.

That is the forecast contained in a special report on the forest industries prepared for the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects.

The report, issued today, estimated that world newsprint demand and Canadian newsprint mills will rise from 6,100,000 tons in 1955 to 12,500,000 in 1980.

Most of the present Canadian output—8,085,000 tons—goes to the United States which in 1955 needed a total of 6,450,000 tons. By 1980, the report forecast, Canada would supply some 7,620,000 tons out of a total American demand of 10,450,000 tons.

The report noted a changing pattern in Canada's newsprint exports during the 1950-55 period and forecast that it will continue. In the 10 per cent of total Canadian exports. Meanwhile, overseas markets took a larger share of Canadian sales, mainly due to a greater ability to buy and a rapidly-expanding demand.

Chicago Views Western Show 'Live' Cop Shoots Cow in Self Defence

CHICAGO (AP)—It was round-up time in Chicago for a couple of hours Tuesday as six cowboys and a score of policemen chased eight runaway cows.

The cows, bound for the stockyards, broke loose from a truck which fell apart near a busy expressway.

Squad cars, motorcycle policemen and patrolmen moved in to corral the cattle. The cowboys, on horseback, came galloping from the stockyards.

The cows, bewildered by city sights, took off in all directions. One got as far as the downtown district where startled shoppers and workers in "Windy" offices as they watched the chase.

Traffic slowed and then stopped when the cows roamed. One ran head on into a car. Another suffered two broken legs when it rammed a policeman's motorcycle.

After two hours the city rangeriders captured seven. The other cow was shot and killed by a policeman who said he feared for self-defence when it charged. The seven others were rounded up and taken to the stockyards.

Foremen Hear Address on Salesmanship

Members of the Quinte District Foremen's Club received a lesson in modern salesmanship from C. W. Ness, manager of advertising and sales promotion, Firestone Canada Ltd., Toronto.

It was Circle Night at the club but owing to a number of municipal matters being dealt with in Toronto this month all reeves, mayors and reeves were not able to attend. However, Alderman Claude D. Tice, representing Mayor Gerald R. Ryde, brought greetings from the city to both the club and the county. He wished the Foremen's Club success in the future and commended members on their accomplishments in the past. Richard Spencer, of Frankford, brought greetings from his municipality and invited the club to hold a summer meeting in or near Frankford.

In his lengthy but entertaining and informative address, Mr. Ness, who is a graduate mechanical engineer, said that "the selling profession is a highly respectable and honorable one to be in." He began by attempting to illustrate a parallel between salesmen and foremen and astounded his audience that many people still regard salesmen with mild hostility and opposition.

His definition of a sale was the "meeting of minds, based on mutual benefits prevail." If a modern day foremen are going to be effective in their jobs, there must be a "meeting of minds" between them and their subordinates and superiors.

Like a successful salesman, a successful foreman must set a good example. He must be conscientious about his personal appearance, know his and other departments thoroughly and he must have an expert knowledge of his competitors in the shop and elsewhere.

Gone are the days when a foreman was a man who was feared by his subordinates with a curled fist and harsh words. There is no place in modern industry for such men. Instead, foremen must be understanding, diplomatic and independent of any "ismn."

FOREMEN NO DIFFERENT

Foremen are no different from salesmen, Mr. Ness continued. They are, in a sense, to their subordinates with expectations of foremen to the welfare and business of the company. Whereas a salesman must be considerate in his speech manners, personal appearance and product, so too must the foreman.

Foreman and salesmen — today must be compelled to be lay psychologists. One of the most important things they must know is that emotions and reasoning cannot work together harmoniously.

In conclusion, Mr. Ness pointed out that, in effect, salesmen and foremen have basically the same problems.

He was introduced by Jim O'Bryan and thanked by Charlie McAllen.

Before the address of the evening, Capt. Reginald Gold-frey Cliffe-Phillips of Batawa, winner of a number of public speaking awards and a student at Quinte Secondary School presented a short address to which won him acclaim in a recent secondary school public speaking contest.

The Rev. P. Murphy of St. Michael's Church, gave a sermonette concerning what life on earth would be like without any laws.

Following the business session which was chaired by President Lionel Blaker, many club members stayed for the dinner at which was shown through the co-operation of the Canada Crafts Guild plant at Point Anne and the efforts of Frank Grandame.

The evening ended with a social hour in the officers' mess at the armouries, with the assistance of Lieut.-Col. Angus Duffy.

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds Addresses Safety Rally, Urges Education, Discipline

The role played by industry and business in preventing accidents and promoting social and national security was brought home by Lt. Gen. G. G. Simonds, when he addressed one of the largest audiences attending the local Industrial Accident Prevention Association mass safety rally last night.

"A" Block was jammed with Quinte Secondary School auditorium by noon, the biggest annual rally, an outstanding success, according to chairman of the Belleville-Trenton executive, Alex Grime.

Prior to Lt. Gen. Simonds' address, Mr. Grime personnel manager of Bata Shoe Co., staff of the local IAPA, which belongs to the central Ontario division, has the honour that the number of deaths on the highway has exceeded the number of deaths from every war in which the United States has taken part, since the War of Independence.

"These traffic accidents are caused by carelessness and a willingness to take a chance", he said, "and the public must be responsible for accidents in industrial plants.

"It is only through education and good discipline that this attitude of taking chances can be overcome and the number of accidents minimized", he stated.

Lt. Gen. Simonds, on discipline and the rules of safety must be understood and met in all three fields, of industry, from management down to worker; the importance of discipline in schools and universities.

CAREFUL SUPERVISION

He explained that by discipline he meant careful supervision, not rigid "spit-and-polish" often associated with the word in press reports and political speeches.

Throughout his speech, Gen. Simonds, one of the CB, CBE, and DSO medals, drew on his own war experiences to illustrate his points.

"There is a tendency today for people to get anything for nothing — a price has to be paid," he said, in pointing out there is no safety or security in a welfare state based on Soviet-type socialism.

"Instead of promising handouts which will lead to inflation, government could introduce, for example, the principle of graduated income tax, as a solution to the spreading of national wealth on a more equal basis."

The main feature of the graduated income tax principle is that each person pays an amount commensurate with his salary, he explained.

In speaking of national security, he said the USSR poses a definite threat to the continued existence of the free world.

"We must not underrate the capabilities of the Russians as a military power. We are living in peace only in the sense of the absence of war," he warned.

To preserve our free world, we must be inherited from the struggles of our ancestors, we must be prepared to defend it, he said. A desire for a more comfortable, leisurely existence, the relief from present "soothing" attitude are grave dangers to our continued free existence.

"We must be willing to serve in the armed forces if necessary, if necessary, and make every effort to defend our present freedom, or we will soon find our free world has disappeared," he stated.

Simonds acknowledged that a meeting such as the one in progress was symbolic of the whole process of democracy — and only by meetings such as this of various levels of industry, can good solutions to present problems be hammered out.

The speaker was introduced by Wm. Wickerson, Stephens-Adamson, and thanked by Elwood Wickerson, of Hugh Johnson. A charing dish was presented to Lt.-Gen. Simonds by the Belleville-Trenton executive of the IAPA.

Members of the executive present were: Fred Ethier of Stephens-Adamson, Howard Hamilton of International Harvester, George Stanton of Stephens-Adamson, Bob Hassard of Bakelite, Homer Rivest or Northern Electric, George MacDonald of Corby's Distillery, Sam Colter-John of Central Bridge (Trenton), Duncan MacGregor of Pyrotenax Co. of Canada Ltd. (Trenton), Elwood Wickerson and Mead-Johnson, and Walter Jewell of Stephens-Adamson.

Entertainment was provided by a clever magician, Burton Kaufman, Prior to the talk by Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds, Quinte Secondary School played several selections.

Over 70 prizes, donated by the industrialists and merchants from Belleville, Trenton and surrounding areas, were drawn for.

Moose Members Mark 37th Anniversary

On the evening of February 20th, a large number of the members of Belleville lodge No. 1004 Loyal Order of Moose, and The Women of the Moose, gathered at the Moose Home on Victoria Avenue, to celebrate the 37th anniversary of the institution of the Moose in Belleville.

Most pictures of Moose-heart in Illinois, the home of dependent children of departed Moose members, and of Moose-haven in Florida, the homes of aged members of the order were shown.

There are in residence at Mooseheart, 1,200 boys and girls, children, who will remain there until they graduate, with a high school education and a trade.

Many of the mothers of these children accompany them, acting as paid employees.

There are in residence at Moosehaven, 300 men and women who have retired from their useful couples, who live in their own apartments.

After the pictures were shown, refreshments were served by The Women of the Moose and games and dancing were enjoyed.

PRESENTATION

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of past Governor's pins to Past Governor, Phil Van Dusen, in recognition of his services to the order. Brother Van Dusen replied, assuring the members often established with the world in press reports and political speeches.

Throughout his speech, Gen. Simonds, one of the CB, CBE, and DSO medals, drew on his own war experiences to illustrate his points.

"There is a tendency today for people to get anything for nothing — a price has to be paid," he said, in pointing out there is no safety or security in a welfare state based on Soviet-type socialism.

Kiwanis Governor to O.Q.M. To Visit Local Club Mar. 25

Belleville Kiwanis Club has been selected as the host for O.Q.M. Governor Ken Hibbert's official visit to this division March 25, it was announced at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday.

Plans are now underway to make this official visit — the first time a governor has paid an official visit to the city—coinciding with the club's 35th anniversary, a gala occasion, announced program chairman, Bill Slade.

Approximately 120 to 150 Kiwanians are expected to attend this shindig, which will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Invitations are being extended to Trenton, Port Hope, and Tweed clubs.

President Charles Lusk announced the club will make an estimated profit of approximately $280, from the proceeds of the "My Fair Lady."

"We had hoped to make a larger profit but on the whole it was a successful venture," he said. President Lusk extended thanks to all those who worked to make it a success, among them Ralph Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. B. Quincy.

The program was under the direction of the Trenton Club and guest speaker was Nick Fraser, chairman of Hastings County Tuberculosis Association.

Mr. Fraser presented two films one a "Walt Disney cartoon showing how colds are caught and spread, and the second entitled, "The Inside Story," illustrated how T.B. is diagnosed and cured. Projectionist was Don Mackay.

Prior to the showing of the films, Mr. Fraser noted the great strides made in the past few years in the treatment and cure of T. B.

"A few years ago tuberculosis was a number one killer — today we don't worry or think too much about it," he said. "Where 10 people died of it in the past, only one dies today."

Despite advances in the cure of T.B., an average of 25 new cases are being diagnosed daily and approximately 12,000 people die yearly from this disease, he stated.

Mr. Fraser told local Kiwanians the funds received from the Easter Seal campaigns, etc., stay in Hastings County to provide for additional out-door local treatments, and their families, and to help establish homes for people and they have been discharged from the sanatorium.

He explained the fallacy that former T. B. patients, after they leave the sanatorium are still transmit the disease. "They are completely cured upon discharge" he added.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Slade and thanked by Don Rose.

House Committee Approves City Manager Government, Cut in Council Membership

A request from the city of Belleville for a private bill giving legislative recognition to their city manager form of government and for reduction of council members from the present 11 to eight, was given approval Tuesday by the Ontario legislature's committee on private bills.

Sponsored by W. Sandercock (PC—Hastings West), the bill was passed despite opposition from R. M. Myers (PC—Waterloo South) and a Belleville alderman, Douglas Moxam.

If approved by the legislature, it would require a vote by electors in Belleville to change city council's decision to hire a city manager and reduce the number of aldermen to eight from 14.

Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville said the new system won support from voters last December but showed signs of remaining a bone of contention. He was supported by a former mayor, Mrs. Jane Forrester.

ANNEXATION PLAN

Alderman Moxam said Belleville is contemplating an annexation of 5,000 which would bring an additional 3,000 to 6,000 citizens to the city.

"These people should have something to say about it," he said.

Mr. Myers pointed out that under the Municipal Act councils already have the power to hire city managers without legislation.

"They want to make this irrevocable. That isn't the way civic government should function."

Kingston Minor Hockey Teams Here Tonight

Belleville Memorial Arena will be a hive of activity tonight beginning at 8.30 when the city bantam, midget and junior teams meet their counterparts Kingston in Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns.

These are the first games in a two-game, home and home, goal-to-goal series. The return matches will be played in Kingston Wednesday, February 26th, starting at 8.30 and are expected to attract a large crowd.

The bantams will open this evening's action with the first game getting under way at 8.30 sharp. The midget affair is slated for 9.50 and the juveniles follow at 9.30 p.m.

District hockey fans are asked to attend tonight's games and watch the stars of tomorrow in action.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds led the stock market higher in moderately-active morning trading.

The gold issues bumped 1% points to a 1958 high as a solid line of stocks moved up in brisk trading. Industrials were abased three-quarters of a point on the dex and base metals and west-ern oils had smaller gains. It was the first index-gain for oils in seven sessions.

The 11 a.m. volume of 708,000 shares, although lighter than Tuesday's 756,000 at the same time, was the average by mid-day so far most of the sessions in the last two weeks.

Senior golds added fractions while low-priced issues moved ahead in a 45-cent range. Bankeor and Bralorne added 45 cents at $5.75 and; Preston East Dome, Wright - Hargreaves and Giant Yellowknife gained 15-20 cents. Hollinger was up ¾ to 31¾.

The rest of the market moved in a smaller range and activity was not a great. Hampering sales to a small degree was a list of 36 stocks trading ex-dividend, the biggest total of this year to date. Most of the stocks in this classification were industrials.

Page-Hersey Tubes and Canada Packers B, which was trading ex-dividend, each added a point to top the list of industrial winners. Gains held an edge over losses in the rest of the section.

Uraniums, coppers and base metals were also unchanged as compared with golds and westerns which had few changes of any prominence on either side.

Exhibit of Historic Relics Now on Display

Belleville and district residents are being treated to a display of local historical interest in the windows of Pyke Mercier's old store, just north of the Bank of Montreal.

The display was arranged by the Hastings County Historical Society to acquaint residents with the various types of materials the society requires.

Featured in the large show window are several pictures and maps of Belleville dating back to the early 19th century. The earliest is a copy of a survey of Belleville drawn in 1818 by Samuel Wilmot.At that time there were less than 50 buildings in the settlement, and almost all lay between the Moira River and Church Street. The location of every building is shown on this 1816 plan, together with its use and the owner's name.

A second photostat is of a water colour painted in 1837 by visitor to Canada. It shows the mouth of the Moira River and evidence of the extensive timber trade carried on here.

Also displayed are a street map of the city in 1864, a bird's eye view of the city in 1874, and an insurance plan of the 1880's showing construction details and fire facts about local buildings.

From the early history of Trenton, there is a copy of a painting done in 1837 of the ferry at the mouth of the Trent River, as well as an early copy of the Trenton Courier-Advocate.

Other newspapers include early issues of the Victoria Chronicle, the Ontario, and the Intelligencer (all published in Belleville), dating back to 1846.

In addition, there are an election poster from 1875, a collection of interesting local letterheads, correspondence, the log from Shannon's first jail, and several other historical items.

The show is a store window contains a display of parlor amusements of the last century, and was made possible by the kindness of Tom Ransom.

The display will continue for the balance of this week, through the courtesy of the Bank of Montreal. It is hoped that as many people as possible will take advantage of this opportunity to see some of Hastings County history, and acquaint themselves with some of the local historical society.

LONG COMA ENDS

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—David Leins, 27-year-old soldier, recovered consciousness Tuesday after 18 months in a coma. He was injured in a motorcycle accident. Now doctors will teach him to talk again.

Canadian Standard of Living Higher Than That of Britain

At the latest meeting of the A.O.T.S. of Eastminster United Church, the guest speaker was Dr. Roy Edwards of Hull, England, who at present is working for a year in the Entomological Laboratory on Dundas Street East. He was introduced by George Maybee and thanked by Harvey Elliott.

Dr. Edwards spoke on some of the differences between England and Canadian ways of life. The most marked difference is the higher standard of living which Canadians enjoy, in the higher quality of the food, and in the general air of prosperity. Britain still has not recovered from the effects of the war and although life's basic necessities are cheap, the cost of living is high.

Most British people own a purchase tax which may range as high as 100% on luxury goods. The tax on automobiles is 66⅔, on musical instruments 60%. Cigarets cost 55c for 20 and gasoline is 66c a gallon. Considered in relation to the low level of income tax and the high level of income tax these articles are very expensive.

The average house sells is £1630, on which a single man pays $320 income tax. Canada the average is $3360 (tax $280), British agricultural workers get $1040 (tax $90) School teachers get $1500-3200 (tax $150-$750) and professors get $135,000 the tax would be $115,-000. This crippling level of taxation engenders a feeling of frustation which is an important factor in Britain's present high emigration rate. But it is often overlooked that people are immigrating to Britain almost as fast as they are going from it. Last year there were 187,000 emigrants from Britain, but 180,000 immigrants to Britain from foreign countries mostly such as the West Indies.

Although less than one-third of the houses are owner-occupied it is almost impossible to get an unfurnished house. Rents are pegged at 1939 levels and may be raised by a one-month for a good three-bedroom house. Tenants have security of tenure even when they die the tenancy passes to any children living with them.

It is not surprising that it a house becomes vacant the landlord will sell rather than re-let it, and this is why it is impossible to find a house to let. The Conservative Rent Bill which came into effect last year aimed at remedying the situation by allowing the landlords to make a modest increase in their rents. It has been an unpopular measure which has produced only a tribute to their downfall at the next election. Edwards said the Socialist solution is to nationalize the lot, though as yet they have given no definite any plan for compensating the landlords.

Coal is still rationed to 35 cwt a year and homes are heated by open coal fires. There is usually a cheerful blaze in one room only, the rest of the house is very cold. Bedrooms are seldom heated and one needs three to four blankets in the bed in addition to a feather comforter to keep a hot water bottle.

After its initial teething troubles the National Health Service is very popular with all. Hospitalization, medical and surgical treatment, and all prescription costs 13c, dental treatment costs 6d and spectacle costs 10s and only one does pay sickness and unemployment benefits. The latter amounts to now about $16 a week for a married man. A weekly contribution of $1.25 is collected from each employee, and another $1.25 a week from the employer. At the present time there is a labor force of 23,000,000 and the number of unemployed is only 300,000. Even at this level the scheme has to be subsidized by hundreds of millions of dollars a year from general taxes, and if the unemployment level were to rise financing of the scheme may prove difficult, Mr. Edwards said.

Compulsory full-time education previously between the ages of five years and 15 years. By the time a lad is 20 or 21 he has left is expected to be able to add, subtract, multiply and divide. At the age of 11 years he takes an examination which largely determines his future career, for on the results of that examination he will go either to a grammar school, a technical school or a secondary modern school. Only those attending schools have any chance of getting to a university eventually. Most university students receive government grants and such vacation work is not the economic necessity it is in Canada. University authorities close upon vacations as study periods and paid vacation work is discouraged. University courses are generally of three years' duration but the first degree and this, together with the earlier time of starting school, and finishing at the age of twenty-one or two earlier than in Canada, both standards and costs are high, and the average is probably higher than in Canada. Many British students are those students who are at the provincial universities of Oxford and Cambridge. The best at Oxford and Cambridge is as good as anything in Canada, and the best in Canada is as good as Oxford and Cambridge.

Two Reported Stolen Cars Are Recovered

Two reported stolen cars, one taken last night from a downtown parking lot and the other from Point Anne, were recovered, turned up later this morning, one apparently having been used by "joyriders" and the other possibly having been only "mislaid."

Donald Cox, of Point Anne, complained his car was illegally taken from a parking lot near the Park Theatre. The vehicle had been located at Point Anne. The other car, owned by Hastey-Coleman Ltd., was also said taken from their used car lot but was found this morning on a parking lot near the Bell Shirt plant.

Police reported an unsuccessful attempt to enter the Front Street store of Hastey Ltd., a second door prevented entry into the main part of the store and the owner said he appeared to be nothing missing.

Sudbury Mayor Wants Revision Of Financing

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor J. J. Fabro of Sudbury today called for a revision of methods of financing municipal roads, pleading that they are unduly overloaded on municipal taxpayer."

He said federal and provincial governments are financially embarrassed by their major responsibilities in unemployment, but he voiced apprehension on the municipal plane.

Mayor Fabro was addressing delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association. Members are largely on municipal council or engaged in the construction and development.

Text of his address was released to the press before delivery.

Mayor Fabro said increased concentration of cars will require more highways, and the financing roads in urban municipalities lies with construction standards set to those on the king's highways.

The Canadian designed "RAT," a new light-tracked amphibious over-snow vehicle now being tested near Fort Churchill, Man.

One of the major pieces of Army equipment being cold-weather-tested this winter at Fort Churchill is the Army's new light tracked vehicle known to troops as the "the RAT." The small amphibious articulated vehicle also was tested here last year but the tests were carried out in soft snow below the tree-line.

This year's tests with the vehicle include "cold starting and operating tests" and are being carried out on the barren, wind-swept tundra well above the protection of the tree-line.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

In what is hoped will be an annual affair, the Ranger-Rover hobby show, at Christ Church Parish Hall, last Friday evening was an outstanding success.

Rover skipper, Don Hickson, who engineered the show, is to be highly commended.

The exhibits of the young enthusiasts, ranging in age from eight to 16 years of age, covered many fields of endeavour.

Model planes ranged from the old biplane and even triplanes to the modern bat-type jet. Model boats were also to be seen, including several fine aircraft carriers.

Other exhibits included rag dolls, leather work, woodworking, stuffed animals, fashion styles, various types of needle work and knitting, side by side with copper and aluminum work, artificial flowers, costume jewellery and paintings.

Collections were much in evidence including stamps, paper match cases, buttons, coins, rocks, flower and vegetable seeds and books covered periods in the life of the royal family.

Various works of art from pencil sketches to oil paintings evidenced some very talented girls and boys.

MAP OF CITY

Several maps were among the entries, including one very fine map of the city of Belleville, with all the points of interest marked and indexed.

Another great interest, even though not official entries, were two types of "scrapbooks" one which had been used at the World Jamboree in England last year. In front of the book is a collection of English scout badges covering many of the cities in that great country. Other badges marked previous jamborees and camporees.

Outdoor equipment was displayed in the form of tents with a complete set of homemade cooking utensils.

A tropical scene greeted the visitors as they first entered and was a most interesting one indeed. One of the highlights of the show was a puppet show put on by Rover Barry Hickson, of 6th Belleville. Barry, now 15, has been interested in puppets since the age of seven. His miniature stage has three sets of draw curtains and is equipped with dimming type lights. Some 20 puppets of the hand-operated type are in his collection and are the work of him and his mother. The children were entertained by Barry and some of their various acts.

Prizes will be forgotten was the homecooking and, believe it or not, most of the winners were boys.

The judges had down the job in judging the hundreds of entries and the awards were made as follows: red off their ribbons to show to equally proud parents.

ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of 12th St. Joseph's group committee met on February 12th and elected new officers. The chairman, Andrew Mercier, was unable to attend because of illness and the meeting was chaired by Akela Bill Sweet.

The new officers for 1958 are: B. Smith, chairman; E. Cassidy, treasurer, and D. Orr, secretary. Mrs. Mercier will be in charge of transportation.

Following the election general discussion was taken care of and the meeting adjourned.

'Frostie Bottle' Club Holds Enjoyable Dance

The "Frostie Bottle" club, social club of Coca-Cola Ltd., Belleville, entertained upward of fifty couples at a delightful dance last evening in the Army and Navy auditorium.

Club members, their wives and sweethearts, along with invited guests, danced into the early hours of the morning to the tuneful music of Don Fairman and his orchestra.

A buffet supper concluded the evening. The committee in charge of arrangements included Miss Barbara Bunton, Don Charlton and Jack Armstrong.

Members of Parks Board Discuss Purchases for Spring

TRENTON — Preparations in the purchasing of seed, etc., for the spring was the main discussion at the Parks Board held their regular meeting in the Board Room of the Municipal Building last night.

Bart Boers, recently re-appointed caretaker, was present to answer questions or make suggestions on the activities for the coming year. Mr. Boers told the board the present equipment has all been painted green and that he would like to have a stencil made to paint the name "Trenton Parks Board" on all the gear.

Reporting on the second-hand sprayer the board had purchased last year he said there were several parts needed as well as having the sprayer changed from a horse-drawn vehicle to a trailer. This he said, would relieve the strain on the horses when pole and a trailer hitch attachment so it can be hauled behind a truck.

He said he had dried to start the motor on the sprayer but it would not, and as he was not mechanically-minded in this regard he felt it would need some minor adjustments. The machine will also require a new high pressure hose, he said, as well as a tail-light and a pressure gauge. He told the board he will be using it in about two months and will see to it that it is ready by then.

The board appointed members Gaylord Sayler and Claude Smith to meet with him and look the machine over.

Mr. Boers was also instructed to prepare a list of the various items he would need to get things started in the spring, and present it to the finance committee. This list was to name the amount and type of seeds, fertilizer, grass mats and other articles needed. It would also be helpful if he would indicate which may be required to repair the equipment owned by the board.

EQUIPMENT NEEDS REPAIR

Miss Marion Baker brought the matter of the playground equipment, which the board is responsible for, saying it was in bad shape and should be repaired. It also be readied for summer use.

Speaking on this Claude Smith said he felt this playground gear should be repaired as needed and kept in good condition. It was a shame, he said, to have it maintained in a usable way.

Mr. Sayler, John Saylor and Claude Smith were named as a committee to look after this playground equipment.

Considerable discussion was also held on the building of a retaining wall on Gilmour Hill where it is needed to stop erosion by heavy rains and the spring run-off. A wall there would also enable the resident to change the flower beds to a more attractive location.

Director Smith was named to meet with town Commissioner Brooks, Eric Alderge, in respect to designing a cement retaining wall and to get an estimate of cost. The matter for future so grass seed could be planted this spring.

Present at the meeting were: Mrs. Marion Baker, Mrs. Bert Stroud, John Saylor, Claude Smith, Bill Ireland and Bart Boers, gardener.

Student Kills High School Girl 'To Satisfy Urge'

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Stanford University sophomore Robert Wilson, 21-year-old Phi Alfa high school girl Tuesday night "to satisfy an urge," police told police.

The victim was Dean Ruth Cerf, child of Mr. and Mrs. Jon E. Boon.

Police said Thomas Wallace Cordry III acted as if he were reporting a minor traffic accident when he walked into the police station shortly before midnight and told police:

"I want to report a killing. I shot a girl and she's out in my car."

The girl's body was in the seat of the car. She had suffered a fatal bullet wound in the head.

Cordry told police he "just had the urge to do this," and he had the urge before.

Police Chief Homer Burns of county sheriff's office quoted the student as telling him: "Professor Cisco insurance man as saying Cisco insurance man as saying Cisco insurance man as saying Tuesday afternoon and dropped by to look at my car. It successful, he went home.

At about 10 p.m., Salt Cordry met Miss Boon, a casual acquaintance, told her he had a car trip and asked if she would drive him to the station and bring his car home. She agreed.

He said after picking her up he stopped near policeman's girl's head, then drove to the police station.

THOSE SIDEWALK PUDDLES

"Come on in; the water's fine."

That invitation is a bit premature? Not at all. The bathing season in Belleville starts with the first faint hint of spring. The thing that Ol Sol takes his first warming in preparation for his summer chores is the day when Belleville residents take their first dip -- in the sidewalk puddles.

Wet feet and that heady springlike feeling go together in Canada but here we get more than our fair share of the forsiht ingredient. In a sense it serves us right. If our sidewalk puddles are king sized, it is strictly our own fault. Or rather it is the fault of some of us, either of the lazy among us or of the energetic among us, depending on one's point of view which, we suspect, depends upon which of the two classes claims one's allegiance.

The cause of the sidewalk puddles derives from our treatment of the sidewalk problem during the winter months. In many centres, every citizen has to shovel the sidewalk in front of his property. Here this snow-clearing chore is done by the city, by the use of a sidewalk plow attached to a jeep. The result may not be as neat as that done by some of the more expertly enthusiastic shovel-wielders, but it is a whole lot easier on the back -- and on the heart if it happens to be on the fluttery side. This seems to us to be a sound reason why Belleville should stick to its present policy.

At the same time, it is understandable that some of those residents with a yen for neatness should not be satisfied with the work of the jeep and its plow and should shovel the sidewalks in front of their property. Not only does this make a neater job, but the project is often undertaken earlier than the plow makes its rounds.

The lazy among us enjoy these stretches of well-cleared sidewalk during the winter days. But then comes spring. If any snow at all is left on the shovelled sections of sidewalk, it is not as thick as where the city's plow has done the job. Soon there are stretches of bare sidewalk, between other stretches where the snow left by the plow has turned to mush. The bare sections are rapidly covered by water, first a film, then an inch, then, if the thaw continues, enough to come over the shoe tops. If the weather turns colder, the flooded sections may turn to glassy stretches of ice.

What to do about it? No easy solution suggests itself. Perhaps, though, an effort might be made to get the sidewalk plow around earlier, so that the temptation to shovel is not so great. And perhaps shovellers might reflect that moderation, even in neatness, is a virtue and if they must shovel they need not shovel too energetically. Leave a little snow on top, as long as a stroll down the sidewalk is not so much akin to wandering through a split-level house.

THE PRICE OF AN AIR RAID

France is being bled white by strife in its colonies. Following the terrific drain on its resources in Indo-China, it is now facing another protracted struggle in North Africa.

France already has 480,000 army, navy and air force men in its territories there. The French cabinet has now authorized the despatch of 50,000 more troops as reinforcements. They will go to eastern Algeria, the weakest French position because of rebel infiltration across the Tunisian border.

These 50,000 new troops should just about offset the number of new enemies France acquired when its planes bombed Sakiet Sidi Youssef in Tunisian Feb. 8. This raid took 78 lives. Even if they had all been rebel soldiers, instead of including women and children, one might question the wisdom of military strategy which requires despatch of 50,000 reinforcements as the price for 78 rebel lives.

UNFAIR TO MAGIC

In order to check the rabbit population the State of Victoria, Australia, has passed a law providing a penalty equivalent to $112, or a jail sentence, on anyone keeping rabbits. The only exemption is to research scientists. Magicians have protested against the law, claiming rabbits are essential to the practice of their profession. (St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

SUSPICIOUS

He's been so very nice to me
Of late; I wonder why 'tis so.
Before, when'er we chanced to meet,
He'd very seldom say: "Hello!"
But now he stops to take my hand
And breathes the hope that I Am well.
His manner's hard to understand.
I wonder what he has to sell.

He stopped me on the street today
And asked me if I'd like a smoke,
And many were the pleasant things
He said of my work, did I follow
Spoke.

He patted me upon the back
And said that he admired me much.
I'm really quite suspicious he
Is laying plans to make a touch.

When'e'er a brother gets too kind
Or suddenly becomes polite
I'm prone to think a hidden hook
Is dangling near for me to bite.

I've learned some things upon this earth
And some, indeed, were to my sorrow;
When man effusive grows—
beware!
He wants to sell or wants to borrow.

African Lad Loves Art

By Helman Jameson in UNESCO Features

Osuali was an illiterate lad of seventeen when he entered the office of Pierre Lods, a French artist living in Brazzaville, capital of French Equatorial Africa. He seemed no different from the many boys whom the artist employed, generally, and who had left him because they "wanted a change". He, however, had come, long after a time to see their master sitting all day before a canvas. He said he needed a job and he took this one gladly. He would do anything, he told Lods, so long as he thought, that one who was always "on his back" in the office, as he put it, kept his pots, his paints and brushes in their place, and everything went smoothly in the household.

As time went on, Mr. Lods even noticed something else. Whereas his former boys could scarcely wait for the day to be done to be free of his easel before sneaking out to chatter with the other boys, Osuali would finish his task in the corner and stare at him like a stone image. He often wondered what was passing through the boy's mind, and one day he decided to ask him. But when he could put the question, Osuali disappeared for two days and did not return to see him. Yet his friends from the suburb of Poto Poto said that they had seen him, and that he was in good health.

Pierre Lods had never had any reason to complain of his servants before. Osuali was one of the rarest, and it came as a bitter disappointment to him that the boy should stay away from the office in the absence of the boy's absence he discovered that a whole set of water-colours had been removed from his studio.

He decided to wait and look for Osuali, but he did not have far to go. He found the boy at home, sitting on the floor with his hand, before a great bowl on which he was working in the style of African birds with magnificent, stately plumes, in brilliant turquoise blue.

Osuali did not realize at first that the bowl with its turquoise and smooth ebony face was beaming with wonder at the colorful birds, and the graceful animals. Lods did not confess the scene as one of the greatest revelations of his life. He said: "When Osuali saw me," he recalled, "he was frightened, but then he smiled. I saw in my face and, immediately, he brightened up, picked up his drum, and whistled and finally danced around the boy waving a brush in each hand."

Despite his irresistible urge to paint, Osuali's inspiration had probably been held in check by a feeling of awe before his master, until now that he saw Pierre Lods approved. the tensio was relaxed. Osuali then painted a great vermilion mountain streaked with blue, then his favorite red and black background. Soon Mr. Lods had to put another servant. The newly-created Osuali was cut out to be a painter. He painted every day—sometimes all night — and in spite of a certain clumsiness his work was so highly original that Pierre Lods could not dare interfere. In fact, he became as absorbed in the work of his new servant-boy as the latter had once been when he gazed upon his master at his canvas.

But that is not the end of the story. The birth of "a little revolution" was taking place in Poto Poto. Osuali's little buildings, from studio to Mr. Lods' studio to try their hand at the brush; then his wife, Osuali, and his "little cousins" and his "big cousins", and their friends' friends' "brothers" and "cousins". Soon Mr. Lods' studio was too small to accommodate them all. But this did not seem to discourage them. They contented themselves in the yard outside, set up booths near the entrance to the city, and there they went on painting. They painted with abandon. Anything and on almost anything they could lay hands on. It did not seem to matter to them what they painted something. But they were a visible artist and brought their paintings. Soon they were to be seen in the shops and the local papers devoted long articles to their efforts.

Encouraged by this wave of interest, Mr. Lods decided to devote himself entirely to what he now considered to be his "mission". He approached the Director of Social Affairs who promised to build a school for the group. He kept his promise and, in 1951, Pierre Lods and the ten young painters, who had preserved when the first wave of enthusiasm subsided, moved into their new attached-roofed studio in Poto Poto Needless to say Osuali was among them.

When you ask Mr. Lods about teaching methods and the Poto Poto School of Art, he replies: "None. I provide the materials and, after that I let them work quite freely on their own, for I like to think I discover a technique. Circumstances have proved me to be right. Indeed, all of them made such progress in that first year that by August, 1951, we were able to hold an exhibition in the big hall of the Grand, Council of French Equatorial Africa, in Brazzaville. This strengthened my belief that original African art can develop in the mainstream of modern art provided it is aided by the African's innate sense of composition, rhythm and harmony of colors, and supported by a strong and unspoilt imagination."

Despite its small beginnings, the School of Art of Poto Poto has already had its own exhibitions in both Africa and overseas. In 1954, a collection of the students' paintings was shown in three cities of the Union of South Africa — Johannesburg, Pretoria and Johannesburg — while another exhibition was held the same year in Hamburg, Germany. Two years later, a show was organized in New York. It was so successful that another was held the following year. Since then there have been several exhibitions in Paris. Some of the most recent paintings by the young African artists were on show at the museum of Musee Cantonal Ethnological Museum. And everywhere the press said the public have been delighted in their praise.

As for Osuali, he is now a professional painter, and he has also found the time to learn to read and write at an adult education centre in Brazzaville.

Busy Beaver A Nuisance

Sault Ste. Marie Star

An over population of such a species as the beaver can be detrimental to the forest industry. These busy-bodies can flood vast areas, and while cedars may survive the invasion, the trees do not do so deeply, almost all other growth is rotted and destroyed, and new growth is slow to establish.

Even the vast area of Northern Ontario cannot afford the loss of many acres for this purpose.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 26th 1938

The last span of the Canadian National Railways bridge spanning the mouth of the Moira River and which has been in disuse for some time past, was being lifted by the hook of the travelling crane this morning. Only bare concrete piers are being left in the wake of the gradual dismantling of the bridge.

Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb of Abbey Dawn, Kingston, formerly of Belleville, has received card on the air over the National Broadcasting Company station.

Every day at 7:30 on Saturday morning, February 25th from 6:15 to 8:45, Mr. Robb has been giving a series of addresses in the United States during the winter.

Mr. Carl B. Crosby, who has been associated with the J.B. Boose automobile business for the last fifteen years as service manager and salesman, has resigned and will enter the general insurance business on March 1st. Carl Crosby is well and favorably known and has a host of friends in the city and district who will wish him every success in his new undertaking.

The first spring lamb market today at twenty five cents per pound for the hind quarters, twenty cents per dozen, pullets 19 and 20 cents per dozen and unginded at 22 cents to 25 cents. Butter brought 30 cents per pound and in a two pound roll 75 cents; chickens $1.10 to $1.50 each. Potatoes sold for 75 cents per ninety pound bag off truck. There appeared a fair supply of stock. Domestic potatoes brought 85 cents to 90 cents for a 90 pound bag.

30 YEARS AGO

Two accidents occurred in last night's city hockey games, both resulting in a broken arm. Paul Hibbard, goal tender for the Quinte Electric-ites and playing against the Intelligencer Black Hawks, was hit by a hard shot driven in on the hose and Russell Gerow, playing for the "Y" Men against the Imperial Oil side received a broken nose when hit in a scrimmage on the ice. Both players are reported as doing well today. Both games resulted in a win, the former being 3 to 2, John Canning, Junior Dunn and Johnnie Canning did the scoring for the Black Hawks. In the game between the "Y" Men and the Imperial Oil, Gerow and Armstrong did the scoring for the "Y" Men and Jeffery and Arnott scored for the Imperial team. Derby Jeffery was the man who stood between the "Y" Men and victory and his Junior game was certainly in good form. Ken Colling handled the game in his usual capable manner.

40 YEARS AGO

February 26th, 1918

The mild weather followed by the warm rain has played the great part of the night in responsible for relieving Belleville citizens suffering inconvenience and damage from the ice jams in the local properties. This was especially the case on the west side of Front Street where which is on the Coleman flats. At an early hour yesterday the ice had developed into a torrent which raged down Bridge Street, crossed Main Street and then flooded houses on Coleman and Everett Streets. There was no warning and water rushed into houses and the local plumbers had lower floors were covered with water to a depth of one foot or more. Fires were put out and much inconvenience experienced. By noon the water had subsided to a large extent owing to the weather turning colder. On Jane Street just south of Catherine St. the roads and yards were flooded for as soon as possible civic employees were set to assist unfortunate citizens. By means of planks placed from doorways to dry ground they were soon able to emerge from their homes. The situation was not become more serious if the cold weather continues for a few days, as already the weather forecast follow immediately there will be a renewal of the ice conditions.

50 YEARS AGO

The Belleville water works department according to the auditor's statement shows a net balance for the year 1907 $2,874.41 after paying all expenses including interest and sinking fund. The showing is creditable to the department and its chairman, Ald. Air Vermilyea who has spared neither time nor trouble to advance the interests of the city.

The snow fall last night was accompanied by strong southeast wind had the effect of distributing the traffic to a large extent in this district.

A branch of the Trader's Bank was opened in Tweed yesterday, in the premises formerly occupied by the Sovereign Bank.

The world has never been so aware as it is at present of the racial differences and the vast problems posed by these differences. The world is rent asunder by conflicting groups in Asia, Africa, the Near East, and sections of our own country.

There are honest differences of opinion as to how these differences can be resolved and how the consequences of racial differences solved. Anyone who thinks there is an easy solution is not wise. Anyone who upbraids those who differ with him as devoid of sympathy is uncharitable. Remember what Kipling wrote: "There are six and twenty ways of composing tribes. Says a native of them is right." All the ways suggested for solution of the race problem may not be undesirable are not -- right, but let us always remember that there is honesty of purpose on both sides of the question. Here is a field in which we see little attitude, but an extremist.

On what, then, are we agreed? We are agreed that a serious human problem. Second, that it must be solved, else the results are catastrophic. Third, that sure and women of good will will have to work together, put together, think together, and love together in order to find this solution. It's really serious.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Many of our older policemen are of the opinion that the way to combat the present trend in juvenile delinquency and in bank holdups and burglary is to restore the man on the beat. A generation has now matured that does not know what is meant by the phrase "the man on the beat". In our cities and towns today the police force almost entirely mechanized They are in squad cars, on motor cycles, in radio cars, in communications that controlled by automatic lights on a thousand intersections that cease to require the presence of constables It is, of course, only right that full advantage should be taken by the police of all technological developments.

But we can become too technological in many human relations helps. In the days of the man on the beat, he was a familiar member of community in which he worked He grew to know nearly everybody on his beat. He knew the people in the district and was in a position to observe their growth into bad young men, and to take steps to assist maturation. He was not only within call when holdups occurred, but he detected holdups because of his imminent appearance at any moment. He heard all the gossip. He knew who lived where; and when questionable characters appeared in the area, he asked the questions.

Policemen on wheels, however equipped with gadgets, are strangers passing swiftly by. They hear all the gossip and comforting friends, as they were in the days of the man on the beat.

To Your Good Health

DIET "CRASH PROGRAM" IS NOT THE WAY TO LOSE POUNDS.

"Dear Mr. Molner: I would like a copy of your leaflet, The Secret of Reducing' Could you note at the end of this column on how to obtain it). I am 42 years old, about 5 feet 2, and I weigh 148 pounds.

"I have a murmur, or what they call 'leakage of the heart.' I used to keep my weight around 140 -- no more than that. Not working any more, and the children grown up, I have lots of time on my hands and therefore I put on this weight. I have will power, and therefore I leave it to you whether your plan will help me — Mrs. A. H."

This letter I regard as a most interesting one because it brings out the fact that it is in the 40's that most of us put on some weight. I'm sure, however, we have enough to be able to stay slim for 90 years without any deliberate effort on the majority.

Most of us have to do something about excess pounds. Women, when the children are grown, at last have a chance to take things a little easy, a well-earned rest. And the difference between the energy you used to burn up and the amount you use now turns into fat. I can't help it. There's no other form I put on this weight. I have will power, and therefore I leave it to you whether your plan will help me — Mrs. A. H."

With men, it may not be a matter of the children growing up. No. Because dad keeps right on working at his job. But there is a difference with him. Maybe he used to play baseball in his 20's, now he's content to watch. He used to be a burst bomb. Now he's learned to let his fuse burn at both ends. He walks slower, spends more time reading the paper and less time on the golf course. He mixes a boy to cut the grass and shovel the snow.

The point is that we do waste less energy, and we do move about more slowly as we grow older, or and smarter and sometimes heavier. So we have to find some way of eating just enough less to keep things even.

WEIGHT SCRATCHES SKIN

I have said before and will say again that sporadic episodes of going on diets (a "crash program" is the term these days. I suppose) is not the right way to meet the problem. For one thing, your weight goes up and down, stretching the skin and leaving flabby. These periodic "wonder diets" leave you hungry and tired at times. And worst of all, they don't never last, and you have to do it all over again.

The sound way is to find out how to establish a new eating pattern that won't leave you hungry but will keep your weight even once you get it down to the right figure. It is the only way that is permanent and comfortable -- and safe.

As to the heart, please remember that not every murmur necessarily something to worry about. In this case, it happens to denote a "leakage of the heart," meaning that one of the valves isn't quite as efficient as it should be. Hence the patient should take reasonable steps not to put on an excess weight because that means just so much more flesh that must be served by the heart, it means added work. An impaired heart should be given the comfort of not making its work greater than necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any difference in human blood, regardless of race or color? That is, would a red-hot dispute among a group of narrow-minded persons be any different all alien. — G. S."

It won't settle the dispute, I'm next answer, I guess you can't do anything to convince people who are "right" about things when they are those: With healthy blood, you can't tell what color it is until you scraped out. But why don't you send me a postcard some day and I'll tell me something interesting with anything?

Diligent Reader: No, a constant bowel discharge most certainly is not normal. Why don't you be smart and do as your doctor suggested?

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in booklet, "Reducing And Secret of Reducing." For a copy, write to me in care of this paper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous amount received, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column where ever possible.

Horse-Face A Compliment?

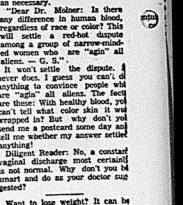
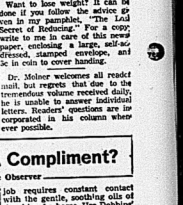
Some intriguing possibilities for the advertising of the future became evident with the statement by a San Francisco beauty specialist that milady may soon discard all present facial creams in favor of a horse grease.



Imagine the day when the words "she has the face of a horse" are no longer an insult but praise of the highest order! Especially Dr. R. B. Rees of the University of California Medical School is the man who advocates horse grease. It is better, he says, for the skin than any man made any of the fancier perfumed ingredients the ladies now use.



The doctor isn't too sure that the ladies will go along with his advice, but he insists horse grease is more closely related to human skin than is lanolin, which comes from sheep's wool.

Secondary School Grants To Be Hiked by $33,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will increase its elementary and secondary school grants by $33,000,000 to $133,000,000 this year, Premier Frost announced today.

In his budget address at the provincial treasurer, the premier said the increase marked the second stage of a five-reaching reorganization of the grant structure. In the first stage a year ago grants were increased by $19,000,000 on an interim basis.

"Education, knowledge, is the most important and absorbing problem," said Mr. Frost. "For every student we now have in our elementary schools, we will have two in another 15 to 20 years."

The premier's budget statement was followed by an explanation of the new system of grants by Education Minister Dunlop.

CONSIDER GROWTH

The new system, also embracing Roman Catholic separate schools, is a complicated "formula based in large part on a province-wide equalized municipal assessment plus a growth-need, allowance attendance, used for computing provincial grants, to be considered plus the previous year's costs.

"The growth-need factor is an innovation," said Dr. Dunlop. "To the best of our knowledge, no other jurisdiction has embodied it in a general grants structure."

Also unprecedented will be increases, said Dr. Dunlop, but they will vary in each case.

Officials said they were unable to provide amounts of grants which each municipality would receive. School inspectors had been discussing the formula in Toronto this week and will now work out the amounts of grants in consultation with local school boards.

ADJUSTMENTS LATER

"Major adjustments, if any are required, will be made next year in the light of experience gained during this year's operation," said Dr. Dunlop.

"If any cases of inequitable treatment are brought to our attention during the year, they will receive our most earnest and sympathetic attention."

The seventh-need factor takes into consideration rapid growth in municipalities which has led to construction of new schools and the consequent heavy burden of debt charges and other extra costs, said the education ministry.

"The application of the growth-need factor raises the basic percentage of aid on recognized costs as well as the basic per-pupil grant, as already alleged," said the statement.

BASIS OF INCREASES

Grants would be increased according to the amount of extra expenditure such as debt charges, capital outlays from current funds and transportation costs.

Increases for elementary schools would be according to the ratio between extraordinary expenditures and the number of classrooms. For high schools attendance instead of classrooms would be considered.

Under equalized assessment elementary school grants would be determined by the ratio of classrooms to the provincially - assessed value of the municipality's taxable real estate.

"The lower this assessment per classroom is, the higher will be the percentage that is applied to the basic per-pupil grant and also the higher will be the graded payment per pupil over average attendance," said Dr. Dunlop.

POPULATION KEY

For high-schools population rather than the number of classrooms is the key considered.

Dr. Dunlop added:

"In certain areas of the province where the full application of provincially - equalized assessment would result in drastic reductions in school grants, a substantial step toward full equalization will be taken in 1953, and thereafter equalization will be attained by successive stages."

Under the new plan greater weight was given to assessment than to population but "population is still retained for grouping purposes to ensure a smooth transition from the old plan to the new."

This had resulted in a series of grant schedules rather than a single one, Dr. Dunlop explained.

Grants would be computed according to population.

Assistance Will Be Given in All Categories

TORONTO (CP)—A record increase of $45,300,000 in Ontario's assistance to municipalities was reported in the provincial budget today.

Premier Frost, who is also provincial treasurer, disclosed that $260,100,000 is earmarked as aid to municipalities "and other local agencies," accounting for more than 40 per cent of the total estimated revenues. The fiscal year begins next April 1.

Increased assistance was listed in nearly all categories, such as education, roads, unconditional per capita grants, various welfare projects, unemployment, medical aid for unemployed and community services.

"The money we make available to them out of our revenue is equal to more than half the total municipal tax levy in this province," the premier said.

LARGEST INCREASE

The largest increase was in the field of local capital works. A budget provides for payment of $133,000,000 to boards of education—an increase of $30,000,000 over the previous year.

"In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1952, we will have paid out $37,700,000 in municipal road subsidies. We propose to increase that amount next year to a total of $61,400,000."

Per capita grants would amount to $21,600,000. Mining municipalities, which share in the general grants, will receive $2,000,000 of each $5,000,000—a $1,100,000 increase.

FOSTERS GROWTH

"In many ways, the province has fostered the development of community services," Mr. Frost said. "It has set up the Ontario water resources commission to undertake on behalf of the municipalities the construction and operation of water and sewage facilities."

Commission-built water supply systems are in operation at Port Perry, Sunderland and Havelock. Others are under construction in Bancroft, Harrow, Richmond Hill, Dresden and, Essex. Other projects, involving cost of $6,000,000, are near the "agreement-signing stage" in Frankford, Brantford, Tillsonburg, Alfred, Korah Township, North Bay, Widdifield and West Ferris.

SURVEY TRADE

PARIS (Reuters) — The West's restrictions on selling strategic materials to Communist countries Sunday were reported undergoing a "comprehensive survey" by the 15-nation committee administering the embargo. Officials also reported Britain was the prime mover in urging free western trade with Communist countries.

Ontario Premier Frost Holds Record As Treasurer

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will receive an additional $22,000,000 from the federal government next year, but the province will continue to shoot for an extra $100,000,000.

Premier Frost in his provincial budget today said Ontario would continue to press for a "15-15-50" formula, making the province's share of the main direct tax fields "not less than 15 per cent of the federal personal income tax, 15 percentage points of corporation income and 50 per cent of federal succession duty collections. . . .

The next fiscal year begins April 1. Last year, under 10-9-50 formula, the province received $46,400,000 from the three sources, an increase of $11,000,000 over the previous year.

Premier Frost, who is also provincial treasurer, said the 15-15-50 formula was a bare minimum and would increase revenue received from the federal government by $100,000,000.

For this year Ontario negotiated a flat tax increase to 13 per cent of federal income tax, expected to yield an increase of $22,000,000.

RELIEF AGREEMENT

On unemployment relief, the province had undertaken to reimburse municipalities for 50 per cent of their expenditures, under an agreement whereby the federal government contributes 50 per cent of the cost of direct relief in both employable jobless and needy aged, blind and disabled.

Ontario's revenues "should not continue to increase," he said.

"We should not be forced into the untenable position of supporting expensive by regressive types of taxation. . . . Our revenue needs are expanding, which is why I say 15, 50."

The interim increase, tied to the federal government's 1951 figure, prevented a loss to Ontario of $7,000,000 which would have been caused when the federal income tax rate was reduced last month.

"While next year our revenue from these three sources will be somewhat higher by reason of the increase in the assessment on individual income tax, all this revenue and more will be paid over to the municipalities and local school boards."

Thirty Million Being Set Aside For Conservation

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario spent $25,000,000 this year on conservation and has set aside $30,000,000 for the same purpose for next year, Premier Frost said today.

The premier, also provincial treasurer, disclosed in the provincial budget plans for conservation projects in Ontario — completed, under way or planned—to aid $103,000,000.

Nearly 300 municipalities were participating in 19 conservation authorities with a combined area of 12,994 miles.

"Proposed undertakings comprise $10,000,000 flood control scheme on the Upper Thames River; a $2,700,000 plan to prevent flooding on the Ausable River near Exeter, and a similar project on the Moira north of Belleville with an estimated cost of $400,000.

The Thames River project formula also provide recreational facilities.

MARCH OTTAWA

Ottawa valley was prepared to match any contributions from Ottawa following reports of federal engineers' reviews of flood controls. The two senior governments would share three-quarters of the costs, with the authorities absorbing the remainder.

Flood control projects under way include those at Grand Bend on the shores of Lake Huron and on the Middle Maitland, together with channel improvements at Goderich, mouth of the Good-ueal near Toronto and at Wallaceburg on the Sangeen. Funds are provided for $3,000,000 to continue the work during the coming fiscal year.

"Plans have been completed to put the Ausable River basin on a flood control projects entailing an expenditure of $2,000,000, and preliminary plans and investigation have been completed for other flood control works involving construction cost estimated at $45,000,000."

Ontario's Net Debt Nearing Billion Mark

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's net debt, on basis of recommended spending estimates, may approach $1,000,000,000 on another year, provincial officials said today.

They were amplifying figures in the provincial budget, tabled in the legislature by Premier Frost, which reported that in the fiscal year closing next March 31 the net debt had risen by $99,638,899 to $857,916,501.

The ordinary capital spending estimates indicate that another $141,-054,000 may be added to net debt in the year that will begin April 1.

New borrowings in the coming year, aside from refunding operations, will amount to $239,000,000, one official said. This figure included borrowings on behalf of provincial commissions.

Premier Frost, at a pre-budget press conference, said $100,000,000 in current revenue in an effort to hold down net debt. Since the net debt had increased $320,000,000 but another $667,000,000 from current funds had been applied to capital works.

The $100,000,000 sentence mentioned that 14 years ago the province's net debt was equivalent to 14.4 per cent of annual personal income of Ontario residents. Now it represents only 9.4 per cent.

In 1944, it would have taken four years provincial revenue to retire the net debt. Now it would take 1½ years.

The tax rental agreement with the federal government, which was the third - ranking revenue producer in the present fiscal year, is stated at $27,000,000 in the year ahead. Liquor profits came next at $24,000,000 in the new year and the same amount estimated for the present.

EDUCATION AT TOP

Education topped the spending parade as government estimates of $143,187,000 this year and an expected $177,739,000 in the next. Highways ranked second with $124,719,000 and $93,200,000.

Other capital expenditures for future highways was well out in front. Total construction costs in the current year were $37,319,-000. Next year they would reach $79,663,000.

The province's capital construction program led to an increased net of $29,638,000 in the net debt, now $857,916,501, although $116,000,000 in capital work has been financed from capital account.

Although the debt had risen, the ratio of income of Ontario people and the province's revenue to it had declined. Between 1944 and 1944, it would have taken more than four years provincial revenue to retire a much smaller net debt of $482,494,000. Now 1½ years revenue would retire the larger net debt.

The fiscal year's surplus was achieved after distribution of nearly $20,000,000 in supplementary grants to municipalities for 1951 plus provision of $17,800,000 for the municipal retirement funds, $37,500,000 for a highway construction fund and $20,000,000 for payment of the province's share of the year's capital expenditure.

HOSPITAL AID

The supplementary grants included $200,000 grants to all municipalities having hospitals and valescent hospitals totalling $6,-075,000. Another $2,000,000 was to grants to assist hospitals in training nurses, based on $300 for each graduate nurse in training on Jan. 1, 1958.

Higher education got $2,192,000 in grants to the University of Toronto for a new dental building, $1,000,000 to McMaster University at Hamilton for an engineering building and $900,000 to the Royal Ontario Museum, $92,000 to the Ro, al Botanical Gardens at Hamilton and $100,000 to the Society of Upper Canada. The teachers superannuation fund got a special grant of $1,000,000.

The Ontario Heart Foundation received $600,000 and the Ontario Cancer Institute $600,000.

The supplementary estimates also provided help for three new Ontario mining towns—Bicroft in eastern Hastings, Elliot Lake in the Blind River uranium field and Manitouwadge, north of Lake Superior. An amount of $1,700,000 was provided to buy debentures to enable assistance to the communities which "are meeting with exceptional developmental problems because of their rapid population growth."

SCHOOL GETS UP

The boost in school grants to $133,000,000 from $100,000,000 marked another phase in the province's effort to provide equality of educational opportunity. A new grants system was announced on an interim basis by $19,000,000, with the new set of grants to be distributed on an entirely new formula.

The province long felt that equalized municipal assessment for tax purposes was the key to equity i neducational grants. This problem was tackled three years ago, and it now appears it is possible to establish a provincewide equalized municipal property assessment for tax purposes.

The new grant scheme would go beyond assessment. Average attendance, the previous year's costs, a "growth need" factor and the growth-need factor all would enter into computations, the premier said at a press conference that he could give no figures on amounts of grants for individual municipalities which would be worked out later, but the grants would be lower than now.

Ontario would gain by the new grants since local would help relieve burden of taxation on real estate, provide more teachers salaries and educational facilities.

MUNICIPAL HELP

Municipal road subsidies would be increased to $61,400,000 from $37,700,000. Unconditional per capita grants to municipalities would total $21,600,000, which mining polities would receive special grants totalling $2,000,000, an increase of $1,100,000.

The premier served notice that Ontario intends to go in the market for a larger tax rental payment from the federal government, understanding it should be what is known as the 15-15-50 formula—15 per cent of federal personal income tax, 15 per cent of corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties.

"We stand with Premier Duplessis of Quebec on this—that we ought to get what is ours," Mr. Frost said at a press conference before his speech. "We're sick and tired by the constitution to hold these revenues. It's our money. We're not asking for anything."

The budget estimated total Ontario revenue by $100,000,000. The province needed the money to meet mounting costs and other pressing needs. Now it was payable to the municipalities, school boards and other agencies all the money it derived from personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties.

The budget closed one minor tax adjustment to remove any chance that a corporation doing business in Ontario and other provinces might have to pay double corporation tax.

Premier Wants Greater Share Of Federal Tax

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario, who holds the long-service record for Ontario provincial treasurers, said today he plans to set another—for the shortest term.

The premier served as treasurer for 12 years, 1943 to 1955, before appointing Hon. Dana Porter to the post. The previous longest term was served by Liberal Peter Heenan of Wetland, from 1890 to 1899.

In his 12 years, the premier set a record for number of provincial budgets introducing 13. Today he tackled his 14th after a two-year lapse, having taken up the treasury post again a month ago when Mr. Porter resigned to become chief justice of Ontario. In all 14 budgets, Mr. Frost reported a surplus for the closing fiscal year and forecast one for the year ahead.

The short-term record? Mr. Frost said that will come about because someone else will become treasurer at a post-election affair the current session of the Legislature. He'll have about a two-month turn.

Ontario. to Spend $25,000,000 on Universities

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will spend nearly $25,000,000 on its universities during the next year, Premier Frost's budget speech today disclosed. Most of the funds would be provided in estimates for the fiscal year beginning April 1. Some would come from supplementary estimates on which debate completed.

Supplementary estimates, 1957-58, would provide for Toronto for extra dental building and McMaster University at Hamilton for new Reform Institutions, Royal Ontario Museum, $150,000 maintenance grants; University of Toronto, $2,532,000; College of Education $645,000; Queen's University at Kingston, and Kingston School of Mines, $250,000; Ontario at London, $920,000 each; McMaster, $650,000; University of Ottawa, instruction in engineering and sciences, $450,000; Carleton University, $1,000,000; $223,000; Assumption University with Windsor, $1,000,000; Waterloo College, $300,000; Waterloo College associate faculties, $150,000; Lakehead College of Arts, Science and Technology, $100,000; Ontario College of Art, $100,000.

1958-59 capital grants: University of Toronto, $3,000,000, Queen's University, McMaster, Ottawa, Carleton, Assumption, and Waterloo, $1,000,000 apiece.

Reconstruction and expansion at Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto will cost $1,500,000 next years.

Another $4,000,000 will be spent in 1958-59 on construction at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph.

Helpful suggestions were given in relation to the study clubs and the season of Lent was discussed. It was remarked that the "Vocation Tridum," recently held in St. Joseph's parish was most successful.

The president thanked Father Buckley for his instructive talk, and the meeting adjourned.

Longines Symphonette Concert Has Strong Local Appeal

By EUGENE LANG

Last evening the very popular Longines Symphonette under the direction of Mishel Piastro made its second appearance before a local Community Concert audience at large proportions. The orchestra has perhaps been heard by more people than practically any other instrumental group of its size, for it has been continuously broadcasting over nation wide radio networks since its first broadcast in 1943. Its personal appearances in concert has taken it to nearly every part of the U.S. and Canada where the program of popular music that it features always adds new fans to its ever increasing number of listeners.

Before the concert began, Miss Leona Biggs, president of the local Concert Association spoke to the audience in connection with the forthcoming campaign in March for the 1958-59 series. This fall will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of regular subscription concerts held in Belleville. The first series beginning back in 1934. In reviewing the many concerts held in the past quarter century Miss Biggs commented on how one person would have been without the many fine attractions of musical value that have appeared here. She described these events as "gems in our golden chain" that "each of us would have our own particular memories." She concluded how many were in attendance last evening who had been members continuously for the full 25 years, and got a response of about a dozen members.

These silver anniversary members were then have a group picture taken after the concert. She urged all in attendance to support the membership generously and make a concerted effort to bring in new members for next year.

VARIED PROGRAM

The program was one of a varied nature and one that would please all tastes. A most unusual selection was the Symphony No. 53 in D, known as the "Imperial" Symphony of Joseph Haydn. This recently rediscovered work was given a careful and lively rendition by the orchestra, with robust virility showing in the last movement combined with 18th century pomposity in the Minuet. The Petite Suite of Debussy was given an impressive reading that brought the entire orchestra into bold relief in regards the conductor's handling of the various instrumental choirs. Brilliant teamwork was shown in this Suite.

As a special attraction Mr. Walter Brewus, the Concertmaster of the orchestra appeared as soloist in the last two movements of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto in E Minor. The beautiful slow movement was performed with velvet smoothness and richness of tone by the soloist, while the vivacious finale closed up with virtuoso gusto that abounded in technical pitfalls that were hurdled with digital proficiency. The many embellishments were garnished with polished finesse and the soloist scampered along in definite step with the orchestra in hot pursuit.

JOINED VIOLINISTS

Mr. Piastro joined the two first violinists in an agile performance of the capricious "The Bee" of Schubert (not Franz Schubert) and an overtipe interpretation of the slow movement of the Rimsiwski Violin Concerto. Precision among the three fiddlers was exact, but there was a feeling of more sensuality than serenity in their projection of the hymn-like melody.

The "Adagio for Strings" of Samuel Barber was a very idyllic performance and was a perfect opus to entertain the strings. Refinement and wholesomeness showed in every measure of the interpretation of this work. The "Tango" of Albeniz did not fare as well, as there seemed to be a lack of underlying spirit to this selection. The ground cost of notes were there but the second coating of lustre was lacking. The "Waltz Triste" of Sibelius was very capably played with a finer sheen than the "Tango", "Country Gardens" of Grainger and "Cagliostro Waltz" of Strauss were all well indulged in with rhythmic pulsings in the former and swaying clarity in the latter.

DID NOT PLEASE

The "Barber of Seville" Overture did not please as it should have, owing to the fact that Rossini simply calls for more power and verve in his climaxes than this orchestra could muster. Mozart's Symphony would have been more appropriate for this size group. Rossini needs brass and drums. The orchestra could not give that amount of vigor with its delicate brass and woodwinds. Two encores were given to heavy applause from the listeners, the well-known "Clear Track" Polka of Strauss and the orchestra's theme, the first movement of the "Moonlight" Sonata of Beethoven. The Polka was delightful.

Stage lighting was atrocious during the first half of the concert and not much improved during the remainder. This should be seriously looked into for future orchestral concerts. It is a shame that the conductor had to be in semi-darkness during a portion of the program. Also, in the violin number, all participants were heard but not seen. Lighting is an important part of any concert. Therefore, let us see that the lighting of the stage is handled better in the future.

This - - - and That

GOING SHOPPING?

Poking into a few stores on Monday was a pleasure because people looked as if they had settled the first smell of spring that was definitely in the air. It doesn't last, it at least can't be far away.

The bright colors of dresses and suits and flowered hats carried our thoughts almost to Easter. And it is early this year. That, is Easter is early so don't forget Shall Start to plan early too.

Taking another look a yard goods, one saturday said, "Aren't these clear colors lovely. Spring goods are always like that. Even the prints have all their component colors in clear tones. It is in the fall you find the off-shades."

We discovered materials from England, Scotland, India and Japan as well as our own and American brands. We are amazed too at the usefulness of some of the heavier fabrics. One colorful striped cotton intended for girls' slacks and skirts or men's sport shirts had a whole bolt sold for a bedspread. There is no limit to what these materials can be made into.

Looking over some dishes, we just happened to see a lovely old-fashioned pattern being sold at a reduction to clear it for further ordering. Not new and modern, but it might make you remember your grandmother's dining-room. If you have the leisure to browse at this time of year you may pick up many bargains in this way.

New articles in this same shop were a new style chopper, and a new size oblong loaf pan with cover. This makes it very handy for storing in the frig.

Time-was when a pail was a pail, a pretty plain utensil. Now there are square pails in pliable pastel plastics to glamorize housework chores. There are also new pastel plastic containers for holding bottles of facial tissue.

And for a high and fancy angel food cake, there are huge plastic plates and covers to keep them moist.

Not many bargains in food about the only one was bananas which are about thirty cents a dozen cheaper than usual.

This may not be directly connected with shopping, but it fits in with the modern trend of advertising, exaggeration and the use of the superlative. On looking over a menu, we noticed that all the potatoes, the mundane, common, vital vegetable-of-all-work, were "creamy" mashed or "golden" fried, the cold slaw was "crisp", the gravy was "rich", the meat was "tender", the rolls were warm, the butter was fresh and the tea was hot.

Good shopping!

Referring back to menus we have to admit that the above example is very mild. It does however lead us directly into a thought that has given us our moments for some time. Are the experts expecting themselves into a dreamworld of expert perfectionism and completely away from us the people when they so confidently believe they know what we desire or at least from their graphs, what we should want.

We read within the past few days comments by a columnist in a metropolitan paper on two television programs. He saw them both in the company of run-of-the-mill folk like you and me. He described how during one program the audience sat quietly and lost interest. During the other programs the same people talked and were not interested. Subsequently, we read a report by a TV producer who deplored the technical shortcomings of the program which kept the common man's attention, and praised the technical perfectionism of the program that just had the interest of the same audience.

Incidentally, according to the expert the listener's to programs would not appeal to people but the ones it was inspected. The same applies to so many appeals to the masses. Most of us are not glamor stars but plain housewives and hope to be good ones. Then we hear superlative after superlative and claim after claim being made. As the old saying goes, we may be stupid but not so stupid to be disgusted with the obvious in astinlity. If ordinary folk say this is not honest we expect admonishes us for our naiveté. Maybe so, but we believe there are still more ordinary folk who still appreciate simple reality.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Preceding Education Week, a timely meeting will be held at Moira Secondary School next Monday night at eight o'clock under the auspices of the Home and School Association. A panel discussion on the need for health services in our secondary schools in Belleville will be chaired by Mr. Freeman who is president of the Home and School Association of BCIVS. Guest panelists will be the medical health doctor, Dr. Kelly from Kingston and the school nurse. Parents of school children are urged to attend, because there is a serious vacancy in this regard. Recently, through the co-operation of teachers, seventeen pupils in one of our secondary schools were found in need of eye examinations by qualified examiners. This is only one phase that would be corrected automatically if there were health services. The whole field will be discussed at this important meeting.

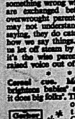
Alpha Lambd Plans 'Black, And Gold Ball'

The Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its regular meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Irvine, Bertram Blvd.

Mrs. Murray Johnson gave a most interesting address on garden, both formal and informal. Patience and constant care is needed if the full value of the garden is to be gained and enjoyed. One should enjoy his garden, but in too many cases it is often the neighbors who enjoy the beautiful surroundings most.

Mrs. Charles Lovett gave an informative talk on "Nature's Landscape", tying her address in with that of Mrs. Johnson, saying that "nature has provided us with many land contours against which many of nature's pictures may be painted".

Mrs. Vincent McLean, president, conducted a business meeting following the programs given by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Lovett. Final arrangements for the forthcoming Black and Gold Ball late in February were made, and once again a good time is planned for everyone attending.



An invitation from Exemplar Chapter to a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Spence Wonnacott was graciously accepted.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by hostess, Mrs. Irvine and co-hostess Mrs. Bernard Downman.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

GROOM-TO-BE HAS AN USHER PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been an usher at four weddings, and have been on friendly terms with all four bridegrooms. At my wedding I'll be r e will be only two ushers. Would it be proper for me to ask to be the two ushers at my wedding the first two fellows who asked me to be an usher at their weddings? I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings. — A.L.T.

If possible, the very best plan would be for you to have four ushers at your wedding, and invite these four good friends of yours as the Usher-Foursome. Even if your wedding is to be comparatively small, and even if four ushers aren't necessarily needed, two pairs of ushers are far more "impressive" than one pair of ushers, makes a more effective and balanced wedding party. Even if your bride-to-be is to have only two bridesmaids, it is still a good idea to have f o u r ushers; in the recessional, having two bridesmaids walk together, as in the processional, and the four ushers walking in pairs, as in the processional. However, if these plans aren't agreeable to the plans of your bride-to-be, then two ushers would be practical: for you to invite the two friends who were the first to invite you to be an usher.

ENGAGEMENT RING NOT NECESSARY TO "SHOW" ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it necessary for a girl to have an engagement ring to show that she is engaged? My girl friends insist that it is. But my mother says that having an engagement ring is not at all necessary to announce the engagement, that all that is necessary is to announce the engagement in the newspaper.

Right now my boy friend is paying his own way through college, and although he wants to give me an engagement ring eventually, because the other girls have them, I know he can't afford one now.

Really I don't want an engagement ring, not only because I know it would be a hardship for my boy friend to give me one now, but also because I particularly like the wide band wedding ring and with this kind of a wedding ring it is difficult to wear an engagement ring.

Rainy Day Treasure

By VERA WINSTON

North or south, no matter where, here's a coat that is going to look pretty while it works out as a rainproofer. White silk treated with a water-repellent finish, it is cut in a chemise line. Navy and white polka dot fabric edges the collar, high – placed revers, front and pocket flaps—a touch that accentuates its line. For good measure, there's a matching umbrella to give complete coverage.

"show" that you are engaged, or to announce your engagement. When you and your fiance have decided to announce the engagement, have decided on the date, you and he tell the news to near-by relatives and intimate friends (taking them to keep it secret until "the date), write to far-away relatives and friends, and then, on date decided on, your parents announce the engagement in the newspaper. That's all that is necessary . . . and never mind what your girl friends say, or what extreme importance they give to having an engagement ring.

Today many an engaged girl hasn't any interest in having an engagement ring. There may be a economic reason, as in the case of your fiance, vastly more important than having a ring. And also as in your case, they have definitely decided to have a wide wedding ring and realize that wearing an engagement ring with a wide wedding ring on one figer doesn't make for a harmonious or comfortable combination. Y o u r letter shows you have such a sensible point of view about this that I urge you to explain it devotedly and forthrightly to your fiance, making him proud of your good sense, your independent thinking your understanding

Desserts — Fairly Easy Fairly Economical

By Mary Moore

Mardie has such a treasure of desserts and mouth – watering recipes in her head or her mother's old cookbook or from brand new sources, that I never have been in their happy home without coming away loaded with warm thoughts and delicious grist for this column. This time she was on a dessert rampage. The first one here is what she served for dessert to us, and I give it in Mardie's own words.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Asparagus -Omelette (see Tuesday); Stuffed Baked Potatoes; Diced Beets; Sliced Green Pepper, Tomato and Cucumber Salad with Garlic French Dressing; Lattice Cherry Pie with Baumert Cheese; Coffee.

LEMON DESSERT

("Mary, you can think up a fance name if you want!") One large can (about 14 oz.) evaporated milk chilled in refrigerator for 3 or 4 hours, 1 package lemon jello, 1 3-4 cups boiling water, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar, 1 package chocolate wafers (about 2 or 2 1/2 cups when rolled into crumbs). Dissolve gelatine (packaged jelly) in boiling water. When partially set whip until fluffy. Add sugar and lemon juice. Whip chilled milk and fold into gelatine mixture. Place half of crumbs on bottom of large cake pan (about 9 x 13), cover with all the whipped cream and gelatine mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Allow to chill two hours or until firm. This may be decorated with maraschino cherries, or I have thought of mixing chopped nuts with the crumb mixture but haven't tried it. This will give you 10-12 generous helpings.

JOSEPHINE SOUFFLE

("Don't ask me/ why Josephine?" I wouldn't know!) Two lemons, 2 eggs, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 1/2 pint whipping cream, 1 tablespoon gelatine, grated chocolate. Grate and squeeze lemons into saucepan with sugar, water and egg yolks. Dissolve gelatine in water and add to rest. Bring to boil, strain. When nearly cold fold in well – beaten whites and whipped cream. Sprinkle chocolate on top. Mardie adds: ("This is as I seem to have it copied down and it has the usual uncertainty of many recipes handed down from mother's generation. Whether you take a few extra tablespoons of water to dissolve the gelatine in or put it in the cup-ful already mentioned. I can't remember. I think it could be dissolved in the cupful already included quite safely though).

EASY JIFFY DESSERT

Four and one – half cups sugar frosted cereal, 1/3 cup soft butter, 1 1/4 cups milk, 1 cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, 1 package instant pudding. Crush cereal into fine crumbs; combine well with soft butter. Press 2/3 crumb mixture firmly on sides and bottom of a refrigerator tray. Chill. Pour milk and cream into bowl. Add almond flavoring and instant pudding. Beat until smooth, about 1 minute. Pour into tray. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Fast freeze about 4 hours. Cut crosswise into wedge – shaped pieces.

Mother's Helper

SMALL GIFTS have a way of getting lost in the shuffle after they're unwrapped on Christmas morning. Mark a generous sized empty box with each child's name, and have them handy to bring out at opening time. Little items can be dropped in, for safe keeping.

BETHANY W. A.

The first meeting of Bethany W. A. was held on February 13, with Mrs. Easton reading the theme, "The First Step in Prayer," giving a short prayer as an example.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. M. Treverton.

In charge of the program were Mrs. H. W. Hawes and Mrs. R. Ritz. The several numbers consisted mostly of readings by the following: Mrs. H. Casey, "Being Nice to Live With"; Mrs. V. Hamilton, a poem, "Perhaps"; Mrs. H. Pound, a poem, "Tomorrow"; Mrs. R. Ritz, "Some Rules on How to be a Good Neighbor"; Mrs. G. Sills, "Kitchen Meditations"; Mrs. G. Cole, "I Haven't Got Time"; and Mrs. J. Ritz, a short selection.

The next meeting will be held in May at a bulb and plant sale, the date of which will be set at the next W. M. S. meeting.

It was decided to send flowers to the members of the W. A. only and cards to the non-members; also that Mrs. R. Ritz and Mrs. W. Easton buy dinner plates, soup plates, bread and butter plates, and small individual tea pots to use at the sales barns; that the W. A. purchase a communion cup filler; new chair for the choir and get new seats to repair the old ones. Mrs. H. Casey and Mrs. G. Sills were nominated to look after these purchases.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two doctors. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marian F. — Mother pushes me around.

Mrs. L. F. — She should get into the limelight.

Marian F. — I am 16, too old to be pushed around the way my mother treats me.

I am doing fairly well in school and have some nice friends. I go on dates occasionally, but not very often. My mother isn't satisfied with me. She keeps telling me to do this, that and the other thing so people will know I'm around. She keeps complaining that I'm too quiet.

The worst of the whole thing came when she actually went to school to talk to one of my teachers about me. Now I t h i n k teacher likes pestering me to stop being so quiet. Sometimes I just don't feel like saying things.

Mrs. L. F. — When I was a young girl, I was just like Marian — shy, awkward, never saying a word. I missed out on so many things, I don't want her to be the same.

In my case, I was uncomfortable because I was very tall for my age. But Marian is just right. I keep telling her that she is so pretty she should have all t h e confidence in the world. She should just come out and shine.

It happens that Marian is a very good dancer. She has taken lessons for years. But she'll never volunteer to do anything. If she is asked she does it, but I feel she should use this asset to get into the limelight. She needs self-assurance.

The Council: Mrs. L. F. is worried in her idea that h e r daughter's "quietness" must indicate a lack of self-assurance. It could be, but it is not necessarily the case. Many quiet youngsters and adults have a good deal of self-confidence and many who enjoy "the limelight" have very little.

Mrs. L. F. appears to be far too much identified with h e r daughter to be able to judge the case objectively. She seems to be trying to make up for her own unhappy girlhood by forcing Marian into the kind of role she would have liked.

Mrs. L. F. would have liked to shine because she felt so completely inadequate, but Marian may have no such feeling. The fact that she has friends and dates and is willing to perform when called upon are indications that she has inner poise. Possibly she lacks the temperament that demands attention and applause.

We can think of no better way to undermine Marian's poise than to nag her into a feeling that she is behaving strangely or inadequately. If Marian does actually lack self-confidence, she will certainly gain none by being told at home and at school that she is "too quiet."

Adolescents gain confidence through proving themselves in various realms. The confidence that their parents often gives them the courage to strive for more and higher goals. Criticism and nagging saps their courage.

Shannonville WMS Observe Day of Prayer

The meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held in the Church hall on the afternoon of January 21st with 12 ladies two children in attendance. The president, Mrs. Charles Wood, welcomed all and took charge of the business.

Supply work was discussed. It was decided to get sheets and help the W. A. make quilts for overseas relief work. Any good used clothing would be most acceptable to send in the bale next June.

Mrs. W. D. Robertson, delegate to Presbyterial at Trinity Church Napanee, gave her report of the sessions for which she received the thanks of the president. Mrs. Wood dedicated the offering and led in the World's Day of Prayer service.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey, pianist, accompanied for all the hymns used.

Mrs. Everett Stratton, Mrs. Russell Wessett, Mrs. Sam Elliott, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, Mrs. Asa Cook and Mrs. Robertson took the prayers used in the service.

Mrs. Will Ross gave a reading, "The Faith of Isabel Brown". Mrs. Woods dedicated the offering and thanked Mrs. Gerald Stratton and her group for the delicious refreshments.

The president closed with the benediction.

A social time was enjoyed.

Mt. Pleasant United Holds Day of Prayer

RAWDON — The World Day of Prayer service, prepared by the Women's Inter-church Council of Canada, was held on the first Friday in Lent at Mount Pleasant United Church with 20 ladies in attendance, representing the three appointments on Rawdon circuit.

The theme was, "The Bread of Life," and was adapted from the service prepared by the women of Australia.

"The World Day of Prayer invites all nations to go up to the house of the Lord to learn His ways and to pray for His guidance. In a world threatened by death and destruction, let us share 'the bread of life'."

Mrs. Herbert Smith, president, Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Society, gave the call to prayer and several quotations from the Bible were read, based on the world, "In Thine own service make us glad and free", followed by "The Bread of Life."

Mrs. Thomas Laycock, president of Bethel W.A., was in charge of the praise and repentance.

The praise was based on the psalms and "The Lord is King," while the "petitions" stressed that Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

Mrs. John Carlisle, president of Wellman's "W. M. S., took charge of dedication, "with a wide vision of Thy kingdom we seek to fulfil the command that the poor and hungry be fed."

Mrs. Don Johnson, W. A. president of Mount Pleasant, conducted the period of intercession.

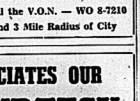
PRAYERS

The prayers were: for royalty and the great Commonwealth, given by Mrs. John Mulberon; for the world and its peoples, and for homes and children, given by Mrs. Jack Dunham; for the world's 20 million refugees, offered by Mrs. Milford Wright-man; for world peace and the welfare of all, offered by Mrs. Edgar McGeown; and for the church universal based on true security, offered by Mrs. Carleton Potts.

A special leaflet was read by Mrs. Herbert Smith, telling the story of the beginnings of the World Day of Prayer 29 years ago when the seed was sown in a small prayer group.

A film, "The Voice of Prayer is Never Silent," depicted scenes in Australia, Japan, Korea, Burma, Singapore, Pakistan. There were pictures of famous medical colleges, views of literary students going out to teach others, scenes in Afghanistan, Egypt, Athens, Rome, Geneva, Paris, Bolivia, and Chile, then on to Bible camps and children's centres in Arizona and views of overseas students in America.

Friendly relations in Canada were pictured in Toronto, Sudbury, Hamilton, and other points in Ontario; also St. John, N.B., Fle Hills Indian Reserve, and prayer groups with the Eskimos in the Arctic Circle and Alaska. The film closed with "as o'er each continent and island the dawn leads on another day, The voice of prayer is never silent, nor dies the strain of praise away."



SOLO RENDERED

Mrs. James Pollock, of Wellman's, sang, "Just For Today." The offering, amounting to $5.35, was gathered by Mrs. Ernest Spencer and Mrs. Stanley Williams, and dedicated by Mrs. Percy MacMullen with a prayer for the missionaries and all those who translate and distribute the gospel so that it is available to all people. "May the result of the 1958 Day of Prayer aid greatly in the distribution of the Bible and its message and may the world-wide missionary work of the church continue to spread the message of love and salvation."

A lovely Easter lily was placed in the church for this service by Mrs. Carleton Potts, and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver was in charge of the film strip.

The service closed with the thought that "Thy Kingdom stands and grows forever, and may the hope of a better world inspire each one to do her best to promote Christian literature around the world."

Teen-Agers Must Be Won To Christ, Says Y.F.C. Director

"Unless we reach their hearts today, they will break our hearts tomorrow," said the Reverend D. H. Beldin, Regional Director of Youth for Christ International in Ontario, as he addressed the assembly of approximately 300 at the third Y.F.C. annual banquet, Monday evening in the Masonic Temple.

Mr. Beldin, who has a tremendous burden for Teenagers, gave an impassioned, but brief message on the great responsibility of Christians to win to Christ these young people whom the church cannot or does not reach; to snatch them from the perils which are round about them; to stand in the gap, and to stem the tide of Communism which is after the young whose lives can so easily be molded to the Communistic plan.

On the opportunities which are available now, depends the future of this country. The programs must be linked to God and eternity, for unless God is in the work, all will fail. The foundation must be made secure, if not, what can the righteous do?

HINDRANCES TO THE WORK

The speaker mentioned some of the hindrances to the effectual work of adult Christians in winning the teen-agers to Christ: their lack of prayer; they have not because they ask not, because they ask amiss; because they have unclean hands and unclean hearts. Each Christian is bound to be a messenger of the Gospel of Christ, to bring the youth to Christ; if not, their blood will be upon their hands. Worldliness in the Christian is a hindrance to leading the young to the Lord. The success of the Youth for Christ movement depends on how close we draw to God, for "If we draw nigh to God, He will draw nigh to us," and "apart from Me you can do nothing," said Jesus.

By 1960 Mr. Beldin noted that there will be double the number of teen-agers than at the present time, and in five years' time the increase will be 100 per cent, so the number of workers must be augmented.

GENERATION IN PERIL

This is a generation in peril. Statistics show that 85 per cent of delinquent young people were under 25 years of age; that 49 per cent were under 18 years, and one and one-third million under 15 years in the United States are under police supervision and on a per capita basis the number was about the same level in Canada.

Forty per cent of teen-agers never darken a church.

To get the Gospel to these young high school students Bible clubs have been started, bringing the story of the Cross to them, and through these Bible Clubs many lives have been won for Christ.

The program is a voluntary one with three main objectives in view; to reach the unchurched teen-agers; to raise the moral standards to a higher level, and to propagate social fellowship on a higher Christian level. To do this trained leaders are needed. Other means of reaching the youth of today are through rallies, and Christian films such as the Billy Graham films.

Previous to the address a delicious turkey dinner was served by St. Andrew's Gilbert W.A. that was followed by a splendid program with Mr. J. Blackwood, area director, Coboconk, addressed several vocal numbers, two by Mr. Carl Cochrane, trumpet by Mr. Ivan Daniels brothers from Quinte Secondary School, and Miss Parks of Grand Rapids, Michigan, a guest; girls duet from Lindsay high school, and one from Quinte High school; also a trio, instrumental, from Picton high school; a Bible quiz was demonstrated by Napanee, Picton, Quinte and Deseronto high schools, showing the firm grip these teen-agers had on the Word by their ready response to scene answering before Mr. Blackwood had completed his questions, all of which were based on the first six chapters of Acts.

Beside the other numbers, a three-part talk on the past, present and future work of the Y.F.C. was taken by Mr. Glenn Wood for the past; stating that the work had begun in 1944, and that it had completed his steady growth, and that the first Bible quiz had taken place at that time.

Mr. Blackwood dealt with the "present" status of Y.F.C. saying there was much for which to be thankful; that God's blessing had been manifested in the Bible Clubs which had been established in nine high schools in the area; that a youth guidance had been instituted, and many teen-agers saved, so that on a real revival coming among the youth of today, he trusted God for great things in the future.

GREAT THINGS IN STORE

The 'future', said Mr. Beldin, who quoted Isaiah 54:2, . . . "Spare not; lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes" the Y.F.C., was making gains each day and year. Goals to reach included a summer conference in August at Glen Rocky; a Centennial conference at Lorne Park College; contests with regional teams competing; new areas to be developed, new interests and opportunities.

Several of the leaders of the high school Bible clubs spoke briefly telling of the work being done in his individual high school, of the teen-agers being won to the Lord; but the highlight of the program was the up-to-the-minute testimonies of the young people who had but lately accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord, and their testimony was a joy to see.

A telegram was read from the International Y.F.C. president welcoming the Belleville group every moment in the Lord, and a message from Mr. Lee Grills, M.P. Quinte, was also read, Mr. Grills regretting not being able to be present on this special occasion but wished the Y.F.C. continued success in the work. An ensemble song, led by Mr. Ernie Balch, completed the program.

APPRECIATIVE THANKS

Appreciative thanks were tendered Mr. James Blackwood by the Regional Director for the fine work he is doing in winning teen-agers to Christ, and especially to the industry in Belleville, one of the brightest spots for God; to the Colonel, St. Andrew's W. A. for the bountiful banquet they had served; and to the 'Press' for coverage.

The invocation was given by the Reverend W. E. G. Dovey, and the benediction by the Reverend Robert Snyder, of Ellis Baptist.

Those at the head table, introduced by Mr. Blackwood, included: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Brooks; Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Balch; Mr. William Balch the Reverend W. E. G. Dovey; Mr. Wilbur Leaved; Mr. Paul Powers; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green; the Reverend and Mrs. D. H. Beldin; Mr. and Mrs. James Blackwood; George Fairhead; the Reverend Sackville-Palmer of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and Mr. and Mrs. Hosking.

TRINITY UNITED W. A.

MADOC — Trinity W. A. held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Moon, on Thursday afternoon, with a good attendance. Mrs. Fred Rodgers was in charge, owing to illness of the president, Mrs. Percy Brosnan's father, Mr. Casey.

The business period and items relating from same were discussed. Plans were made for a tea and apron sale to be held in the church parlors in March. Several of the neighboring W. A.'s to be invited.

Mrs. Rodgers took charge of the program, using two popular hymns, "In the Garden", and "He Leadeth Me", and gave a reading "You Can Never Walk Alone" as told by Louise Rich, of her own experience from girlhood up to the mature years of her life.

After the close of meeting, Mrs. Rodgers conducted a contest which was interesting. The hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

Career in Scarlet and Gold

The recruit first collects his kit: a service dress of brown or blue slacks and tunic of RCMP brown, fatigue uniform, an assortment of hats and boots, and a revolver. Within the next 8 months he must work relentlessly if he is to earn the right to wear the famous "scarlet and gold."

The recruit spends long hours on the shooting range, in the gym, in the boxing ring. He must master lifesaving and judo, learn the Criminal Code and numerous Federal Acts over which the RCMP has jurisdiction, and carr out the inevitable, seemingly eternal, drill.

Every year some 2,500 eager young men apply for service in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They come from all walks of life, from all parts of Canada, their motivations range all the way from a lust for adventure to a desire to serve their country. From the many who apply, less than 500 are accepted, and for them there is no guarantee that they will make the grade; there is only the opportunity and the challenge to test their mettle in one of the world's toughest training courses. Above, a recruit tackles the "diminishing clearance test"—manoeuvring a vehicle through 4 sets of stanchions, the first, 8 inches wider than the car, the final set only 2 inches wider.

Although chances are on graduation he will never be required to ride anything friskier than a motorcycle, the recruit is put through a rigorous course in "equitation". The Mounties operate on the theory that "horses build character", if a man has hidden flaws, a horse will find him out.

Throughout the 8 months course the recruit is closely watched; his alertness, temper, tact, perseverance and patience noted. Depending on his personality and interests, he may be assigned to the Security and Intelligence Branch, Crime Lab, Marine or Air Division or to some far-flung Arctic post.

Recruit T. L. Srewardson of Windsor, Ont. is sworn in by Inspector John A. Stevenson at the RCMP Training School, Regina, Sask. There is one other training centre at Ottawa, Ont., where headquarters is also located. Recruits must sign up for a five-year period.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

The Mounties have only 5,000 men to police an area of three and a half million square miles. Responsible for federal offences in all parts of Canada, they can never afford to send 10 men where one will do. That man must be fearless, versatile, self-reliant—able to act on his own authority and accept full responsibility for his acts.

Five 'Goods' of Housewife Practised Faithfully by All Members of Communist State

Editor's note: The editor of Reuters, Walton A. Cole, has just returned to London from a round - the - world trip including 12 days in Communist China where he travelled nearly 4,000 miles. Cole, who preserved in shorthand notes a record of the sights he saw and the people he met, sent a series of articles, of which the following is one.

By WALTON A. COLE
Copyright, 1958, by Reuters

LONDON (Reuters) — Discovering the human beings who exist behind a fantastic caricature is rewarding as it is refreshing. One finds people who have the same basic aspirations and problems as one's neighbors.

It is no different in China, where 600,000,000 persons are being organized into a giant Communist state. During my 12-day visit there this year, I did not confine my contacts to officials and dignitaries, but was able to talk to and ask questions of men, women and children in diversified walks of life.

Apartment living as such has become as much a part of urban life in China as anywhere in the Western world. The apartments are sanitary and strictly functional, but unfailingly the occupants all said that for them housing never has been so good.

SHARE APARTMENT

I talked to Ma Ming-chin, a housewife of 30 who has three children. She and her husband share a three-room apartment with their mother-in-law in a new building not far from a turbine factory outside Shanghai. Two of the rooms are used for sleeping, the other for eating. Ma Ming-chin has to share a kitchen with a neighbor, and there is a joint lavatory. But let her tell her own story: .....

"My husband is one of the master workers at the factory earning 90 yuan (about $36) a month and he is paid every two weeks. I make out a strict budget, allowing 60 yuan a month for food.

"I practise the five 'goods' of the housewife and member of the new China. It is good to encourage the husband in his work. The housewife must be good to her husband. It is good to attend literacy classes. It is good to have friendly relations with neighbors and 'mutually' assist them. It is essential to make a good budget and adhere to it.

"In the block there is a group leader for the housewives. The theme of the discussions of the group is to help housewives practise the five 'goods.'"

WOMEN'S FUTURE

Women enjoy much more freedom than they ever did in the old China, and observers think that they are one of the main props of the regime. Glamor is eschewed and even the simplest jewelry is worn. They work alongside men in the factories and are given two months' paid maternity leave. Some have risen to prominent posts in government and industry.

My business in China naturally kept me to the cities, but I did visit a village about 40 miles outside Shanghai, and there I talked to Chung Chia Chih, a 39-year-old veteran who volunteered to do a two-year stint as a farm worker.

This volunteer program is part of the government's effort to increase agricultural production, check the drift to the cities, and take culture and the state's philosophy to the country. It is aided by organizations who release a percentage of their staff for such work. The volunteers are given spectacular "benefits" with bands and mass demonstrations.

Chung and his companions teach the peasants to read and write, and give lectures on various subjects including hygiene. In return they acquire knowledge of the peasants and land problems which are closely related to the success of industrialization. The peasants, living off the land, form about 80 per cent of the population.

The peasants are just as closely organized on a community basis as city dwellers, mostly in co-operatives. They now are being drawn into the "rectification" campaign, the system by which everyone in the community is invited to make public personal criticisms and suggestions.

While I was in Shanghai I met in his luxurious home, set in magnificent gardens, one of the flying class of Chinese capitalists, Australian - born David Kwok, whose many interests include the wing on textile manufacturing company. I say "flying class" because, while they are still drawing dividends from their businesses, this is only a temporary arrangement.

What the Chinese Communists did was to assess the value of a business, and then agree to pay a five per cent annual interest on that valuation for a period of seven years to the former owner.

Kwok, a Presbyterian, said he and his fellow-capitalists had been done and a successful joint state enterprise system had been worked out in many fields.

"The government has welcomed our co-operation and we have been granted a reasonable period to readjust ourselves to the knowledge that in the near future we capitalists of China will no longer depend on dividends, but will be remunerated for our contribution to management on the basis of our work."

KHRUSHCHEV SPEAKS.
Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev is dressed in the uniform of a lieutenant-general, the rank he held in World War II as he speaks at the Red army's 40th birthday party in Moscow. Newsmen counted 17 ribbons and decorations on his chest. His speech included a boast that the USSR possessed new weapons of horrifying destructive power.

Pupil's Prank Explodes, Two Boys Injured

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—A bottle of silver fulminate, brought to school by a pupil "for a lark," exploded Monday in the science room of the district high school here, injuring two students.

Gary Harding, 16, of Whitby, Ont., said he carried the explosive to school in his pocket, was treated for a badly gashed hand. Lorna Turnbull, 15, also of Whitby, who was standing beside Harding, received facial cuts when she was struck by flying glass.

Harding said he made the silver fulminate at a friend's home by mixing nitric acid, alcohol and silver nitrate. "When you put it on the floor and rub some powdered glass in it with your foot, it explodes like a small firecracker," he said.

Teachers believe some powdered glass was in the bottle's threads when Harding screwed the cap on and it exploded.

Conservative Membership Of House Split Down Middle Over Expropriation Bill

TORONTO (CP) — The expropriation bill was debated today in the legislature's committee on private bills, splitting Progressive Conservative membership down the middle.

After an hour-long argument a standing vote—14 to 11 — was needed to approve a bill granting Queen's University power to appropriate adjoining land of 11 Kingston homeowners.

The university wants the land, including a lot and boarding house in which a grandmother supports a crippled grandson, to build a women's residence, commerce building and social science building.

Strong opposition to expropriation was lodged by committee members Hollis Beckett (PC—York East), C. E. Jaques (PC—Lambton-East) and R. E. Sutton (PC—York Scarborough).

"If I voted for this bill I wouldn't dare go back to my constituency," said Mr. Jaques.

On hand to support the move were Queen's Principal Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, chairman of the C. Gill and lawyer D. G. Cunningham. Supporting the homeowners were lawyer A. Britton Smith, for the Kingston Alderman Leroy Grant and a group of about 60 farmers.

Mr. Grant said the university has demonstrated an arrogance which destroyed "the friendliness between town and gown."

Mr. Cunningham said the university would do "everything in its power" to avoid expropriation. But it had already added 20 per cent to an independent price evaluation and apparently some of the property owners would hold out forever.

Mr. Smith said several of the homeowners are elderly people and needed time to get new homes and adjust to a new life. In six months a settlement could probably be reached, he said.

"Legislation permitting a price set on property to expropriate is opening a very wide door. The legislature is being asked to do intervene in a private quarrel."

Mr. Gill said the university offers yearly allowances to elderly residents whose income would be reduced if they sold their boarding houses.

"This is the most regrettable situation ever to come before this committee," said W. Sandercock (PC—Hastings West) after counsel were lawyer A. Britton Smith, for the

Would Add Two Judges to Supreme Court

TORONTO (CP) — Two more judges would be added to the trial division of the Ontario Supreme Court under government legislation introduced Tuesday in the legislature.

Attorney-General Roberts presented a bill amending the judicature act to raise to 21 from 19 the number of Ontario Court judges. Appeal Court judges would remain at nine.

Another bill introduced by Mr. Roberts would bring radio and television stations into a new Label and Slander Act, at the same time altering the burden of proof in some instances.

"This bill has been given a great deal of study by experts in this field," said the attorney-general. In some cases the burden of proof had been shifted in favor of plaintiffs, others in favor of defendants.

Ray Connell, minister in charge of the Ontario Municipal Board Commission of Ontario, introduced a bill raising to 60 from 50 the percentage of assessment used for municipal grants paid to homeowners instead of taxes.

INDIAN ALLOWANCES

Welfare Minister Cecile obtained first reading for a bill giving mother's allowances to Indian women with dependent children if they are widows or their husbands are unemployable.

Another clause in Mr. Cecile's amendment to the Indian Welfare Services Amendment Act would permit Indians to receive unemployment or direct relief under agreements with the federal government.

Mr. Cecile also introduced bills which would bring mother's allowances and disabled persons' allowances under the administration of a new welfare services branch in the government.

An amendment to the Fire Departments Act would permit municipalities to sign two-year instead of one - year agreements with fire-fighting associations.

The Public Parks Act would be amended to let municipalities allocate area parks areas for recreational purposes without reference to the municipal board.

The only private bill introduced was one by T. D. Thomas (CCF—Ottawa) which would amend the Municipal Act to permit municipal residents of a year to vote on all but money matters if they are 21 or over.

Ike's Foreign Aid Program Faces Tough Congress Fight

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Eisenhower administration's emphasis it may find itself faces a tough fight to have its 1958 foreign aid program approved. Traditionally, this annual request for money meets with opposition.

President Eisenhower is asking for nearly $4,000,000,000. There's more doubt than usual that he can get this much.

Two main reasons are worry about the economy and misgivings that so big a part of foreign aid is for military spending.

In the last few years a combination of Eisenhower Republicans and liberal Democrats have been able to muster enough votes to have the request approved. Last year, old-guard Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats sliced half a billion dollars from Eisenhower's request.

This time more congressmen from both parties are looking for ways to trim all government spending.

More than half the $3,942,100,000 in foreign aid is for military aid. There is criticism that not enough is spent on technical and economic assistance.

In a magazine article, Henry S. Reuss, Democratic representative from Wisconsin, says if the government continues the mile-by-mile aid mid-March.

Wood Carver's Mother Helps To Launch Quebec Industry

Largely because of her, more than 130 industrious French-Canadian craftsmen work at wood carving today.

Jean Julien Bourgault tells the story.

It goes back to 1927 in the village of St. Jean Port Joli, 100 miles northeast of Montreal, when Jean Julien was a lad of 16 and Ottawa historian Marius Barbeau was wandering around the Gaspe Peninsula looking for antiques.

Instead, he found the Bourgault family, ship fitters and cabinet makers for eight generations. The mother of Madame Bourgault's sons carved things out of wood for their own amusement — decightful portraits of rural habitants, rugged as the wood itself. Her husband recalls the curator to say until her sons returned from work to show him their carvings, tempting him with a hot bowl of porridge.

"Monsieur Barbeau told us to put the carvings on a table in front of the house so people could see them and buy them," they did. Tourists bought them and the Bourgault fame spread until they took up woodcarving full time. Today, Jean Julien and his five children all turn out wood carvings by hand — Mendard, now 60, also carves, specialising in religious objects.

And 30 other residents of St. Jean Port Joli make their living by whittling, gouging and sanding 100 craftsmen work in other parts of the province.

It's generally agreed that the master of them all is Jean Julien, a jovial, bespectacled man with a grin. His work is true folk art, authentic images of the rural . . .rock and roll!"

paesant of Quebec.

He carves in bas-relief, creating a scene with all the characters as if petrified in the wood itself.

"I like to carve scenes I know best—the checker game at the village store, the old people around the big stove," says Jean Julien.

The provincial government helped him start a school to teach young people the craft. It takes young craftsmen who show talent and instructs them in his large workshop without charge "just for my satisfaction."

When he began carving, he made chisels out of files. Now he has more than 250 special tools—chisels and big broad blades, and a power planer. He prefers mostly Quebec lumber but imports some mahogany from Africa. America, always working with the oldest wood in stock because it's driest and easiest to carve.

One bas-relief scene, six feet by four feet with 23 figures in it, was presented by the Quebec government to the late President Auriol of France. Jean Julien earns anywhere from 50 cents to $2,000 per carving, and his work now hangs in homes and collections around the world.

His advice to would - be wood carvers:

"Do what you know best—the life around you."

Jean Julien puts this into practice with his own children, ranging in age from 15 to 21. They started playing with chisels when they were two and before they cut their second teeth they were carving wood.

"My son is doing what he wants to do. He carvings show young people. . . how young is it . . .rock and roll!"

Chrysler Missile Factory Near Detroit Booming

DETROIT (AP) — Business is booming at Chrysler Corporation's missile factory.

I visited this big government - owned plant about 20 miles north of Detroit last November after the Russians startled the world by putting up Sputnik I.

Things were humming then, but in a quiet way. The plant workers went confidently and purposefully about their task of producing Redstone ballistic missiles for the United States Army.

Afterward, officers of the army put up the American Explorer satellite revealed a little difference. There are more workers. The operation is spreading from buildings at that plant soon will take over all the 2,130,000 square feet of floor space. And every body seems more relaxed.

Also noticeable was the deepened sense of urgency.

PRODUCING JUPITERS

Going into production is the Jupiter 1,500-mile-range missile, big brother of the 200-plus-range Redstone.

The workers are jubilant over Jupiter. It means the present work force of some 2,500 soon will be increased to 9,000. About one-fourth of the employees are engineers and most of the rest are highly skilled.

Chrysler also was awarded a new $52,000,000 contract in January for production of Redstones and Jupiters.

Missiles require precision workmanship—they don't roll off assembly lines. But, as near as they can, mass-production techniques are being applied to turning out Redstones and Jupiter assembly areas are being set up to turn out Jupiters in the same manner.

The 63-feet-long, six-foot thick Redstone is forerunner to the 59-feet-long, eight-feet thick Jupiter.

The Redstone goes out of the plant a complete package—everything from the antenna-pointed nose to launching pad and looking like something set up for an exploratory trip to the moon.

Two Men Killed As Boat Plunges Over Falls

PORT ALICE, B.C. (CP)—Two men were killed Monday when their small boat plunged over the fast-flowing falls at the north end of Victoria Lake, in northern Vancouver Island.

A third man survived after the roaring, 25-knot rush of white water washed him 200 yards through jagged rocks and snags to a back eddy near the bottom of the falls.

Bruised and semi-conscious, he clung to a log for more than an hour while he gathered strength to wade ashore.

Dead are Lloyd Wallace, 27, and Herbert Sarrelly, 45, both of Port Alice, a small logging township about five miles west of the lake. The survivor is Ernest Sarrelly, 36, also of Port Alice.

Money Recovered

DETROIT (AP)—A gun-wielding young man robbed a motor licence bureau in suburban St. Clair Shores of about $10,000 Tuesday night.

Held were Daniel E. Jedlenski, 20, son of Inspector Stanley Jedlenski, and Ignatius J. Schirus, 21.

Those Eligible Should Vote on Marketing Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow has introduced his annual omnibus bill to amendments to farmers' marketing plans to permit adoption of farm marketing plans without a majority of those voting rather than eligible voters.

He told the legislature Tuesday that approval of 65 per cent of eligible voters is needed to establish or operate marketing schemes in England, compared with 51 per cent in Ontario.

"I have an open mind on the subject, but I feel in the interests of farm commodity groups they must be assured of overwhelming support if they want their plans effected with the least possible opposition."

Earlier in the day a change in the legislation was urged before the legislature's agriculture committee by the president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

WANTS MAJORITY

Fred Hamilton of Ottawa, in a brief submitted to the cabinet last December, said:

"We cannot stand that a clear majority of 60 per cent in favor of a marketing plan has no stipulation as to the percentage of eligible voters who must vote. It should be difficult to bring a marketing plan into existence or to retain an existing one."

Two bills amending the Farm Products Marketing Act in this respect now are before the legislature.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald's bill would have the required majority computed on votes cast, ing instead of those eligible to vote. A second bill by Ross McClellan (CCF—Toronto Riverdale) would set the majority at 51 per cent.

Both bills must get second reading before committee.

Racer Kidnap Gives Batista 'A Black Eye'

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA (AP) — The bold kidnapping of the world champion auto racer, Juan Manuel Fangio, has involved many Cubans that President Fulgencio Batista is virtually powerless to stop the daring operations of the Fidel Castro's rebels.

The abduction Saturday of the Argentine racer Sunday night, on the eve of the Gran Premio race, gave Batista a black eye and a severe political effort. They hoped to lure classification of the race as a demonstration of their power. The race was held—six months late—but it obtained very injured when one car skidded off the course—but the kidnapping still gave Batista a black eye at home and abroad.

Fangio's abductors were still at large today, and the government was determined not to let Castro embarrass it in connection with the next big sports event. Police threw a guard around world lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans to avert any attempt to sabotage his bout tonight with Cuban champ Orlando Echevarria.

MIXED EFFECT

Fangio's abduction had a mixed effect on Cuban public.

An intellectual branded it a "spectacle of shame." A worker shrugged and said it was just another proof that "the rebels can do anything they want." The influential newspaper El Mundo says that as a result of the kidnapping Cuba's fame in all the world has been berilboned with scandal."

Kidnapping is nothing new in rebel-harried Havana. But it was considered fantastic that a world famed racer could be abducted while talking with friends in a hotel lobby. The public also was struck by the fact that the thousands of police and informers could find no trace of Fangio. He was released after the rebels got in touch with the Argentine Embassy.

The rebels themselves boast that the act proved that Havana under Batista is not a safe place for tourists or foreign businessmen. They feel that by enough such plus sabotage and killing of government sympathizers, they can force the government out.

SMASHES REVOLT

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government, celebrating the 10th anniversary of its coming to power, reported in newspapers received here Tuesday that it has smashed an armed plot to "overthrow the government." The newspapers said security police had arrested a group of former army officers and "Nazi collaborators."

Mining Production Reaches New Record of $739,219,218 Report Given to Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario mining production reached an all-time high of $739,219,218 last year, $93,305,856 higher than in 1956.

Mines Minister Spooner disclosed the figures Tuesday in the legislature when he tabled his department's report for 1957.

He said uranium showed the biggest single increase with six new mines in production. Production value was up by $69,000,000 for a total of $225,259,000. other six mines were expected to open this year.

"Ontario's production of uranium in 1957 exceeded by more than $3,000,000 the year's production of all the uranium mined in the United States."

The value of Ontario's mining production, 34 per cent of the Canadian total, had been lowered by a market for base metals, as Copper, for instance, had recorded a production increase of 75,000,000 pounds but each pound was down by $31,000,000.

Nickel-copper mines were closed in 1957, some temporarily. An other 30 were expected to open in 1958.

In other proceedings Premier Frost announced debate on the budget, to be tabled in the House today, would begin next Tuesday.

Britain Uneasy Over Wisdom Of Adding Nuclear Weapons

LONDON (CP)—Since the beginning of the year, Britons have watched with somewhat envious eyes Russian satellites go up and seek between the American and Russian satellites.

But any latent enthusiasm over their country's first steps toward the space age, through the Anglo-American missile agreement, is more than counterbalanced by uneasiness over the wisdom of adding another weapon to the arsenal of nuclear warfare.

From one viewpoint, the agreement announced Monday with her deterrent power at bargain-basement prices. The United States is to provide upwards of 100 The intermediate-range missiles to the Royal Air Force, while Britain provides the bases for the rocket sites. The bases are expected to cost about £10,000,000, a tiny fraction of the development costs of the rockets.

Many Britons, however, ask whether any agreement that may make the crowded British Isles more of a target for nuclear attack can really be considered a bargain, no matter how relatively small the expenditure involved.

LAUNCHED ABOVE GROUND

There is also considerable criticism of the Thor missile itself, which many feel will soon be obsolescent.

Another argument against the Thor is that it must be launched from "soft" bases, above ground, which would be vulnerable to attack in the event of global war.

Britain is developing a ballistic rocket, Blue Streak, which is advanced type, designed for launching from underground. But the New Scientist, usually well-informed on such matters, estimates the British missile will not be ready for operational use until 1961 or 1964.

Overshadowing the missile controversy is the grave problem of the nuclear deterrent—and the part Britain should play in maintaining it. It is doubtful if any potential enemy would give to the proposed missile bases—probably about 20 in number—any higher priority than that for the American and British land forces bases liberally scattered across East Anglia and the Midlands.

GIVE MORAL LEAD

But there is considerable support in Britain for the view that the most valuable contribution the country could make for preservation of world peace would be to give a moral lead by complete renunciation of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The general feeling of uneasiness in Britain over this question was clearly indicated last week when more than 10,000 people turned out to hear speakers like Bertrand Russell and A. D. Price-Jay address an H-bomb protest rally in London.

A four-foot section of the 100-foot long east wall thundered to the pavement.

TORONTO (CP) — Police said a man wielding a knife entered an east-end beauty parlor Tuesday and forced a housewife to remove all her clothes. She screamed for help after disrobing and the man fled.

Mr. Coldwell charged that the royal commission on energy resources is designed to "smother" demands that the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline be publicly owned.

He said the association of Henry Borden, commission chairman, and of Brazilian Traction, world's largest private utility, would lead to a recommendation that the pipeline be privately operated.

Mr. Low said the calling of an election was irresponsible and will prove extremely costly when Canadians will resent.

Mr. Pearson said at a noon rally of 400 persons that the time is "ripe" to start developing free trade among North Atlantic alliance countries.

HOPES FOPP WINS

As prime minister he would hope to make "much progress" on that front, to knock down trade barriers and to knit the NATO alliance into a closer economic group.

"If this is not done soon, it may be too late," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker, addressing an audience of about 850, hinted at speedy action to broaden Canada's social security system.

"I believe it will not be very long before we will be in a position to introduce in the new Parliament a contributory social security system," he said.

At Regina, Tommy T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said the Conservatives have done nothing to relieve unemployment and have not introduced parity prices.

Mr. Douglas said that apart from the fact the Liberals have a new leader, there is not a single plank in their platform that the CCF has not advocated for years.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson says there will be no capital gains tax and no interference with the operations of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited under a Liberal administration.

Answering questions from an overflow audience of some 1,500 persons Tuesday night, the Liberal leader said he might look into some aspects of control of the pipeline company, but he would not interfere with its operations.

The important thing, he told a questioner in a local theatre hall, is to get the 2,200-mile pipeline built so that Alberta's natural gas could be shipped eastward.

The 60-year-old Mr. Pearson, accompanied by his wife, has set himself a gruelling pace in his search for his first mandate. Every minute of the day is taken up. The campaign, he told reporters, is "quite a tough one. You have to be in good physical condition to bear it."

The evening rally at Victoria followed a day-long tour of Vancouver Island. Mr. Pearson held a morning press conference at Nanaimo; a noon rally there, another brief meeting at Duncan along the Island highway stretch to Victoria, another press conference on arrival at Victoria and then the evening meeting.

The theatre hall was filled. Attendance at the tour of Vancouver Island was better than some persons away because of lack of space. Loudspeakers were installed so that pedestrians could listen from the sidewalk during the mild, rainy evening. Mr. Pearson said he was gratified with the attendance, observing that he was competing with a hockey match in the city.

To one questioner's view that the Liberals did not grant Communist China diplomatic recognition because they might lose the Quebec vote, Mr. Pearson replied this was not so.

There were a number of reasons. One was the deep split in Canada over the issue, not only in Quebec but in a number of provinces. Another was the opposition of the United States.

Earlier at Nanaimo, he told a free conference he did would review the recognition issue once he became prime minister but would not agree to China's claim to the island of Formosa.

He also said here that any government he formed would immediately ask the United States to sign a formal agreement on continental air defence.

What is more, he would make clear to the Americans they had to provide Canadians with economic co-operation if they expected full defence co-operation from Canada.

Would Introduce New Social Security System

HULL, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, speaking optimistically of Progressive Conservative election chances March 31, has hinted at speedy action to broaden Canada's social security system.

"I believe it will not be very long before we will be in a position to introduce in the new parliament a contributory social security system," he said here Tuesday night.

He said, too, he has found everywhere "a groundswell of feeling" that his Conservative government should be returned with a majority mandate because it has carried out its promises and deserves a chance to implement its larger program of national development.

"I ask the people of Canada to finish the job I began with us."

Mr. Diefenbaker last month appointed Dr. Robert F. Clark, University of Saskatchewan economist, to make a study of the United States social security program.

NEEDS ALTERING

The prime minister told his Hull audience of some 850 persons that past features of the American plan would have to be altered before it could be fitted into the present Canadian program of $55 monthly pensions, starting at age 65.

He detailed the payments which he said are made under the U.S. plan to those on average incomes: Between $98.50 and $98.50 a month for workers retiring at age 65; $132.80 a month for a husband and wife retiring at age 65; death benefits of $255; disability payments starting at age 50.

He said these payments, made without a means test, are financed wholly by contributions from employers, employees and the self-employed. The cost per person was less than the present Canadian plan.

The Hull audience took up less than one-quarter of the seats in the big arena in this city of 40,000 population across the Ottawa River from the capital. A few of them sat on chilly chairs set up on boards on top of the ice.

MAY EXTEND

Mr. Diefenbaker hinted at a possible extension of his period in which supplementary winter unemployment insurance benefits are paid.

Says Canadians Looking for Social Credit

EDMONTON (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit party leader, says the only difference between the "two old parties" is that "one is in and the other is out trying to get in."

Mr. Low said Tuesday night in an address over a national television network that Canadians are "looking for the Social Credit program because it is honest and sincere; and sacrover it is responsible."

The March 31 federal general election is unnecessary, irresponsible and extravagant, the Social Credit party leader contended.

Mr. Low accused both the former Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments of burying as analysis of Canada's economic situation in March, 1957 prepared by M. W. Sharp of the federal trade department and containing "many warnings of the serious downtrend in economic activity."

Social Creditors were in a position to place before Canadians facts that "both Liberals and Conservatives will be inclined to hide."

Mr. Low's impressions of the parliamentary session which began Oct. 14 were:

1. "The complete collapse of the once powerful Liberal party in its new role as official Opposition;" and

2. "The sudden autocratic attitude of the Conservatives in office."

Low was lengthened by two month to run from Dec. 1 to May 15. He said Tuesday night he might ask the new Parliament, scheduled to meet May 5, to extend this by another six weeks.

He also indicated prompt action on holding "informal" meeting between the federal government and municipal representatives—he said it would occur after the election—to hear municipal views on their financial problems.

Such a meeting, he said, would allow the federal government to draw up proposals to present to the next federal-provincial conference for easing "excessive" municipal real estate taxes.

Urges Public Ownership of Gas Pipe Line

REGINA (CP) — CCF Leader Coldwell said Tuesday night that the royal commission on energy resources is designed to "smother" demands that the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline be publicly owned.

Speaking on a live television broadcast from Regina over a national CBC network, Mr. Coldwell said the commission will remove from the government responsibilities it assumed while in opposition.

He said the association of Henry Borden, commission chairman, as head of Brazilian Traction, world's largest private utility, would lead to a recommendation that the pipeline be privately operated.

He also doubted that Mr. Borden, as head of a huge foreign-owned utility, could be considered the American control of the line.

The CCF leader said that if the line were to be privately controlled there should at least be a federal capital gains tax on profits of the pipeline.

He described the royal commission as "suspect." He asked whether Mr. Borden, Toronto financier, could express an unprejudiced opinion when he directed the world's largest privately-owned utility.

The present government had done nothing to right a situation it had criticized bitterly in the Commons when in opposition.

Nothing had been done to give the Canadian people control over a great public utility.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking about diffrent things sutch as the weather and why it has to rain offener on Saturdays than any other it does on school days, and the Happy Days Inn corners dove past with his music going, and nobody had enough money to stop him and I said, Heck, I wish we could think of some good way to make a lot of money.

We could kidnap somebody and hold them for ransom if it wasn't against the law, Puds Simkins said, and Glasses Magee said, Well hay, we could kidnap a dog. There's no law against that, especially if the fellow that owned the dog was in it with us, he said.

And we all looked at Sid Hunt on account of him being the only one with a dog, saying, How about it, Sid? How about kidnapping your Teddy? That's a swell idea, Sir. We could send your father a ransom note in dislized writing and demand 50 dollers, and you could have as big of a share of it as anybody eits, just for looking innocent how about it, Sid? we said.

I'm willing, but I dont think it would werk, Sid said, and we said, Aw, why? Why not? Why?

Because I dont think my father's one Teddy ever bites, and once he ran away and my father kept on saying he hoped he never came back, and he wouldn't let my father pay a ransom to some lady found him with his name sewed in his shirt collar and called up and asked if there was a reward, and my father told her he would only give her a reward if she kept him for good. That's why, Sid said.

Being the end of the idea.

FRENCH SOLDIERS REMAIN IN HOSTILE TUNISA

In Tunisia, French garrisons are surrounded by a hostile, armed populace which may at any time ignore the cautionary words of President Bourguiba and start shooting. Following the air attack on a Tunisian village in which many civilians were killed, French troops were ordered to leave Tunisia. The dispute is now being considered by U.S. and British diplomats, who hope they can achieve some sort of agreement before more blood is shed. Here is a French unit at one of the desert outposts being inspected by Gen. Fernand Gambiez, commander-in-chief in Tunisia.

Day of Prayer Held at Holiness Church

MADOC— On Friday afternoon the women of the different organizations of the churches in Madoc united for the World Day of Prayer in the Holiness Movement Church, to pray for the peace of the world using as their theme, "The Bread of Life" from a pamphlet prepared by the women of Australia.

Mrs. Albert Empey played quiet music while the ladies assembled. Mrs. Pressy, of the Holiness Movement Church presided and gave the call to worship, and prayer.

Miss Vankleek of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, the call to Prayer; Mrs. A. Empey of Trinity United, the call to Repentance; Mrs. C. Barton the call to Dedication; Mrs. Johnston of the Pentecostal Church the call of Intercession, assisted in prayer by Mrs. Tuft; Mrs. Allan; Mrs. Pressy; Mrs. O. Jackson, Miss Trotter and Mrs. Brentnell.

The address was given by Mrs. Lane, of Trinity United Church, who, in her address, gave a resume of the past 50 years and the progress of the world at large, but stressed the fact that "as we had progressed did we remember the need of the church among the vast populace where there is so much need among the starving peoples of the world. We can help with our prayers and our givings can be a great assistance to help to bring and keep peace throughout the world." She cited where the money was used in helping out.

Mrs. Brentnell and Miss Cecilia Heslip received the offering. Mrs. Earl Armstrong sang a solo, "Teach Me to Pray", with Mrs. Johnston at the piano.

Mrs. Pressy closed the service with prayer.

VENEZUELA PREPARES FOR 1960 FAIR

Looking more like an architect's model than reality, this gargantuan housing development will provide the backdrop for the World's Fair planned for Caracas, Venezuela, in 1960. More than 8,000 slum shacks were razed to make way for these 59 apartment buildings, built at a cost of $90,000,000. Oil revenues provided the money for the mammoth project. The buildings are finished in a riot of colors—red, blue, black and yellow. There are 15 shopping centres, schools, clinics, theatres and playgrounds—all reached by 10 miles of paved highway.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

Tonight in Hull, Quebec, the habitants will likely be out in force when the apples of their hockey eyes, the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens Juniors, tangle with the Cornwall Cheviks in the last scheduled game of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" league.

The Chevies must, and likely will, go all out to win this one for it means third or fourth place in the final standing of the league. If they win they will meet their northern rivals from Pembroke in the best-of-seven game, if they lose they will form the loyal opposition to the Hildebrand's first-place McFarlands. As far as the standing goes, the game does not mean much to the Canadiens. It would merely strengthen their hold on fourth place, if you include the Whitby Dunlops.

But the Baby Habs have their collective eyes on something else. An Ottawa paper announced it in a sports page headline, "Boucher Has Outside Chance for Senior Scoring Title." That, mentioned casually, is what the young Canadiens will probably concentrate on this evening.

At the moment young M'sieu Boucher has 61 scoring points, five in arrears of the league-leading Billy Colvin of Kingston. If he can garner six precious points tonight, he is in. And five pegs you ten he will be fed more manna than a pitcher machine gets baseballs at spring training.

But while the Chevies will be concentrating more on victory than anything else, they too have a threat to Colvin's title. Mac Boucher has 56 points and Paulin is driving at a total of goals and assists for Moe could well snatch the scoring title from the Kingston ace.

Should the youthful Hull forward manage to win the league scoring honors, his performance will be much more creditable than that of the opposition. He has taken part in 17 games this season, the same number as his closest counterparts, has scored 21 goals and has 40 assists.

The scoring race of the league with the wire just ahead developed into a frenzied race for titular honors with various clubs going all out to help their candidates achieve the honors. With the exception of course, of the McFarlands, who apparently could do nothing to help Bart Bradley, who last Saturday night held a two-point lead.

The most daring bid to date, and it almost paid off, was that of Bert Glowchenki of the Pembroke Lumber Kings, who came up points off the pace going into last Friday night's game here. Bert was held penitless by the McFarlands in Memorial Arena, and he had two games left to make up the deficit.

In Pembroke, in that 10-8 debacle over the McFarlands, Glowchenki came through with three goals and two assists, just half the required amount. In Hull, Quebec, on Sunday, the Kings from Wally Lamothe on the pitching pillbed behind their stellar scoring ace and did almost everything but pass or poke the puck in the net for him.

He was on the ice for the greater part of the sixty minutes' playing time and was used on two lines. He scored twice and had two assists, one short of tying Colvin. On one occasion brother Jack ignored a yawning net, with the goalie ten feet away, and passed to brother Bert, who shot wide. So Glowchenki, denied a fighting chance, still finishes second with 65 points unless Boucher or Savard or both line up enough points to beat him.

Nor did Colvin get his record singlehanded. A report from Cornwall says the young Canadien star was satisfied with getting assists that passed his mates in a successful effort to pass Bradley of the Macs. Perhaps with a little more teamwork and less personal effort, the CKLC's would also have crept home with a 10-5 defeat hanging to their drooping tails.

A scoring triumph for petite-garcon Bobby Boucher would just about put him on even terms in the Hull popularity polls with young Claude Richard. Claude, of course, we know well. Young "Richard" is kid of the Hull faithful and his appearance on the ice is greeted with cheers while a goal or assist rings the welkin.

The win increased Shawinigan's points to 60, but left Cataracts seven points behind league-leading Chicoutimi as Sagueneens dropped Quebec Aces 3-2.

Broadway Blues Fiery Mentor 'Turned Bunch of Castoffs Into a Second-Place Club'

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If the National Hockey League chose an all-star coach Phillipe Henri Watson of New York Rangers would top a strong contender for this season's honors.

The former Ranger centre's solid abilities have frequently been obscured by his fiery outbursts against players who don't meet his high competitive standards, but Eddy Shaver, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, summed up many Rangers' feelings recently when he said:

"Watson's been doing a wonderful job. He's taken a bunch of castoffs and players nobody wanted and turned them into a second-place team."

Perhaps it is not fair to Watson or his coaching techniques to say his public castigation of players has overshadowed his ability, since his knife-edged tongue may have been the most important factor in moving Rangers out the NHL doldrums.

LACKS STARS

When the 44-year-old Frenchlrish coach took over the coaching duties at Madison Square Garden at the beginning of the 1955-56 season Rangers hadn't been in the playoffs since 1950.

With many of the same players and no promising rookies except Andy Bathgate, Watson has got them there every season since.

In his outspoken way Watson, whose fluent speech is still enlivened by a trace of Parisian accent he grew up with in Montreal, helped Rangers to success by telling his team, and each player, exactly what he expects.

And woe to the player man who fails short of that level.

He'll make it known he says: "Win this many games; this number on the road, this number at home, and he'll make the club.

EXPECTS MORE

To his players he says: "You scored this many goals last season. I expect this many more this season."

Then he sets out to cajole, encourage or cram them into attaining the goals he has set.

When Watson took over the Rangers he had a tradition of playing pretty pattern-passing hockey saving their shots until they'd picked their spots.

He vowed he would change them into the sort of player he was, the kind that stayed nearly all season—Bill Hill, at 40 except one with New York, on sheer scrappiness and dogged determination.

He was never great—his best season was 1947-48 when he was picked as second all-star centre—but he helped lift a team by its teeth bootstraps.

He has done the same for the Rangers, who finished fourth. The highest scorers are Bathgate and Camille Henry, noted for graceful play and accurate shooting.

British Heavy Gave Pastrano Scare of Life

LONDON (AP) — A big, bruising moulder with a proud British fighting name came out of nowhere Tuesday night to give one of the United States' top heavyweights a scare of his life.

Brian London, hard - winging son of a former British champion, hustled Willie Pastrano around the ring for a good part of their 10-round bout. And through the boxing stylist from New Orleans was awarded a points decision, a majority of ringside observers thought the verdict should have gone the other way.

Even in defeat, London—virtually unknown outside these shores—gained a lot in stature. Although only fourth ranked in this country, he put up the best showing by a stubby, 6-foot fighter against a top-class American.

SEEKS COMING

Pastrano admitted later:

"It's very lucky that I did not take London lightly. He is a crash and bang fighter who keeps coming at you."

London, 23, was never overawed by the third-ranked contender for the world heavyweight crown.

London finished so strongly The Associated Press scorecard had him ahead on six rounds to Pastrano's four—but British referee Bill Williams thought otherwise.

For all his extra advantage of 17 pounds at 204½ to 187½, London could not land a knockout punch.

London's performance moved him into top contention for the British title, now held by Joe Erskine of Wales.

After the bout, Dr. Alexander Robbins said he found no appearance of rib fracture in Perez but recommended that the boxer be x-rayed.

Cuban Cops Guard Building Where Champ Fights Tonight

HAVANA (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, an old pro end a U.S. Navy veteran of seven Pacific invasions, wasn't too perturbed today to see the forces of police guarded the new $2,000,000 Sports Palace where he fights Cuba's Orlando Echevarria tonight.

Brown, Echevarria and other fighters on the inaugural program for the 18,000-seat arena also were protected by special police details.

The cops moved there would be no repetition of the Fangio incident. Juan Manuel Fangio, Argentina's famed auto racing champion, was kidnapped by Fidel Castro's rebels on the eve of the Gran Premio race. Fangio was released unharmed later.

"I haven't received any threats but I don't expect any," said the 32-year-old champion from New Orleans. "Anyway, there's plenty of police around and I am being watched all of the time."

DRIVERS BLAME CUBAN REBELS AS 6 DIE IN CHAOTIC AUTO RACE

Six deaths and suspicions of foul play marred Cuba's biggest auto race, the Grand Premio. Drivers claimed oil poured over the course through Havana streets caused the car driven by Armando Garcia Cifuentes to crash into the crowd. Besides the six deaths, 34 suffered critical injuries, including Cifuentes. Declared winner of the abbreviated race was Stirling Moss, left, husband of the former Katherine Molson of Montreal. He was in the lead when the race was called off and collected $3,000. Moss, ranked No. 2 among world racers, did not have to compete against last year's winner, Juan Manuel Fangio, who was captured by Cuban rebels and was not released in time to compete in the race.

Dunlops Trample Swedes Bobbie Attersley Scores Six

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Canada's world hockey contenders rolled up another big score over a Swedish team Tuesday night in a warmup for the International tournament starting in Oslo Friday when they defeated a provincial Swedish combination 19-2.

The game, played in a heavy snowstorm on an outdoor rink, Tranaas Stadium, was marked by an exchange of goalies after the Whitby team had rolled up a 13-0 lead.

Canada's Roy Edwards went into the nets for the Swedes and got ample opportunity to show his real ability and please the crowd. In the Canadian goal was Sweden's Lage Jaergerhelm.

Sweden got both its goals while Edwards and Jaergerhelm were exchanged, Roland and Gicsta Patterson scoring against their own netminder in the Whitby cage.

Bob Attersley was top scorer for the Canadians with seven, playing coach Sid Smith had three and Jack McKenzie and Gerry Brooker both got two. Single goals went to Harry Sinden, Charlie Burns, Frank Boucello and Bus Gagnon.

The result was a record high for the Canadian scorers during their exhibition tour of Sweden during which they have complained that their games with the Swedish clubs have been too easy to provide a real warmup for the world tournament.

In 14 exhibition games in Britain and the Continent, the Whitby club now has scored 158 goals to 17 against.

Another record set up last night was the crowd of 5,250 at the Tranaas stadium — the biggest hockey gate ever in Sweden's southern Smaaland province.

Lindsay Team Seeks Injunction To Stop Round

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — The Lindsay juvenile hockey team has asked the Supreme Court of Ontario for an injunction to stop the Bowmanville juvenile team from advancing in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoffs.

Mel Cunningham, sponsor of the Lindsay team, said the application was filed following the OMHA's refusal to take action on a Lindsay game protest against Bowmanville.

The application is expected to be heard in court in Toronto Monday.

The Lindsay protest arose from a playoff game in Lindsay last week in which Bowmanville beat Lindsay 4-3 and thus ousted them from the playoffs.

Cunningham said Lindsay played the game under protest because the OMHA assigned two referees to the game instead of one referee and a linesman as agreed upon between Lindsay and Bowmanville.

Bowmanville was to enter the next playoff round against Cobourg tonight.

Senior Hockey Attendance Down From Last Year

Schedule games attendance of the McFarlands senior hockey club was down from that of a year ago, although the overall box office receipts including exhibition games slightly exceeded that of the 1956-57 season.

Manager Drury Denyes in an official release yesterday revealed that 42,876 patrons attended the 26 schedule games this season, an average of 1648 as compared to an average of 1765 a year ago. Total schedule attendance last year was 45,925.

The Whitby Dunlops proved the best drawing card here with an overall attendance for four games of 8,855 or an average of 2,214. The Ottawa Canadiens proved the poorest attendees from a box - office point of view attracting 8,564 for four games, an average 1,355.

Kingston was the second best attraction, pulling in 10,414 for six games, an average of 1,735. Cornwall was next with a six-game total of 9,339, an average of 1,558 while the Pembroke Lumber Kings were fourth with 8,791 for six games, an average of 1,385.

The largest attendance of the season was one of the games with the Whitby Dunlops which pulled 2,339 patrons through the turnstiles.

Swedish Heavy Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's 12th round technical knockout of Britain's Joe Erskine earned the Swedish European heavyweight champion a Ring magazine's "fighter of the month" award today and a boost in the ratings.

The undefeated, 25-year - old Swede was raised from 10th place among the contenders to the seventh position.

Argentina's Alex Miteff and Germany's Willi Besmanoff, who also scored important victories during the last month, were also promoted. Miteff, conqueror of Cuba's Nino Valdes, was boosted from ninth to fifth. Besmanoff, upset winner over Pat McMurtry, was moved back in the rubber list with a No. 9 rating. Valdes fell from sixth to eighth and McMurtry, of Tacoma, Wash. from fifth to 10th. In other heavyweight changes, New York's Wayne Bethea advanced from eighth to sixth and Mike Dejohn of Syracuse was dropped out of the rankings because of illness. He hasn't fought since he knocked out Miteff in the first round last October.

Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., remained at the No. 1 challenge to champion Floyd Patterson with Zora Folley, Chuvalo Arlz., Willie Pastrano, New Orleans, and Roy Harris, Cal. and Shoot, Tex., following in that order.

Chadwick Gets Another Chance; Marcotte Hurt

TORONTO (CP) — Goaltender Jacques Marcotte, scheduled to make his National Hockey League debut with Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night, will be spending the next 10 days in hospital.

Marcotte, purchased from New York Rangers last Sunday, was hit under the right eye by a rebound shot from the stick of rookie Kenny Girard in practice Tuesday and suffered a cut that required nine stitches. The L-shaped gash extended in around the corner of his eye but the eyeball was not damaged.

Leafs' club doctor, Hugh Smythe, said:

"Marcotte will have to lie completely still for eight to 10 days. His chances for a complete recovery are very good."

Coach Billy Reay had intended to use the 23-year-old netminder, who had been on loan by Rangers to Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, against Montreal Canadiens, "even though I've never seen him in my life."

Reay has been dissatisfied with the work of regular netminder Ed Chadwick, but Girard's rebound shot after Marcotte had dropped to his knees means Chadwick will have another chance.

"He (Chadwick) can give this club a big lift if he plays well in Montreal and he'll never get a better chance to show what he can do," Reay said.

Olympic Champ Will Coach Tribe Runners

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Olympic champion Harrison Dillard is going to try to give Cleveland Indians more speed on the baselaths.

Indian manager Bobby Bragan said Tuesday he had watched Randal Rich, Cuba's Olympic track coach, do wonders with baseballers in Cuba this winter and had decided the Cleveland Cub could use the same kind of training.

Bragan didn't have to look far for a track coach. Dillard, who sprint and hurdle medals in two trips to the Olympics, is a member of the Indians' front office staff.

MOTORS BANNED

Motorboats are not allowed on Algonquin Park waterways without written permission from the parks superintendent.

Six More Leafs Back in Fold

TORONTO (CP) — Six more players, including veterans Sam Jethroe and Mike Golat, have returned signed contracts for the 19 85 International Baseball League season, the Toronto Maple Leafs announced Tuesday. Leafs now have signed 18 players.

Besides Jethroe and Golat, the team also came to terms with catcher Ebba St. Claire, infielder Bob Johnson and pitchers Johnny Schmitz and Harold Bybus. Schmitz and St. Claire were with the team last year.

Outfielder Jethroe, still fleet on the base paths despite the 38 years he admits to, agreed to a small salary cut. Jethroe is a dubious starter because of an injured throwing arm. He batted .277, hit 15 home runs and stole 24 bases last year.

Golat, was given a small raise. He was the league's all-star left fielder-baseman last year but will be tried in the outfield this year. Golat had a .296 average and hit 23 homers in 1957.

Schmitz, a southpaw with many years of major-league experience, had a 7-9 record in his first year with Toronto last season. Bybus, a 24-year-old righthander, won 17 games and lost nine with Winnipeg Goldeyes of the Class C Northern League last season.

St. Claire hit only .235 in 72 games with Leafs last season and may not be carried this year. Johnson hit .222 for Augusta in the Class A South Atlantic League and is expected to be farmed out this year.

Mosel Leads Golf Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Stan Mosel of Essex Falls, N.J., stroked a two-under 70 Tuesday to take medalist honors in the qualifying round of the Hilton Baton Rouge Open golf tournament.

Only six golfers shot par or better over the soggy 6,450-yard course, rainsoaked after more than a week of wet weather.

Tournament play opens Thursday.

Toronto's Jerry Magee was one of four to be knotted at par 72.

Some 83 professionals and four amateurs were exempt from qualifying, which required a 78 for professionals.

Career of Kuldip Singh Wanes But Is Again on Upswing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens to a Cinderella boy after the ball is over?

In the case of Kuldip Singh, the story may well have a happy ending, though there have been moments when he may have doubted it.

Singh is the handsome, 26-year-old native of Kashmir who made a big splash in the entertainment world a year ago. The setup was perfect for one of those success stories with which Hollywood abounds.

Born in India, Kuldip left his native land at an early age and lived throughout South America and the Caribbean with his family. His father had a travelling job. As a boy, Kuldip always decided to be a doctor. He entered the United States to study medicine, and his main problem was money.

WANTED MONEY

"I wanted to get on the Groucho Marx program, not to perform, but to make some money," he said. "So I called the office one day and asked about my chances. The girl was so intrigued by my accent that she asked me to come in to see them."

He went on the show and made a big hit with the audience, even singing a ballad, though he had never sung in public before. He made only $50 in the quiz, but his first realization of the impact of his appearance was a phone call from 20th Century - Fox, which wanted him to return for a film test.

He was offered a contract starting at $450 a week, but he was signed up by a big agency which turned down the offer. Bigger things were in store, he was told.

He was signed to appear with George Sobol and voluntarily went to immigration service to renew his status. He was told he would have to leave the country and re-enter with a work permit. The news was released with a rash of bad publicity.

"Reporters called up to ask why I was being deported," he said. "It was even doubled that I was a native of India. One report said that I actually came from Brooklyn."

Kuldip went over the border to Mexico and returned with a work permit granted allen performers. But the first impetus of his career was gone.

IN DOLDRUMS

"For three months, I didn't do anything, not a thing. I got lost in a big agency and missed out on jobs because no one was pushing me."

During this period he thought of returning to the study of medicine, but he decided not to give up. He did what all actors do when they want action in their careers: change agents.

His career surged back with a Matinee Theatre performance which drew the second biggest mail response in the TV show's history. He did another matinee last Friday. On April 18 he stars as the son of Aladdin in Land of Green Ginger for the Shirley Temple storybook.

With his career prospering again, he has given up his ideas of being a doctor and wants a lifetime in show business.

Superlative Cast Unfolds TV Drama Moment of Truth

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In Moment of Truth we have finally seen a television drama that had something to say, that said it without condescension, and that brought together a superlative cast in a fascinating production.

The drama, written and staged by Peter Ustinov on Omnibus (NBC-TV), also starred Ustinov as a senile, revenge-ered man who became the unwitting figurehead of his country's conquering enemy. As that tragic marshal, Ustinov gave as compelling a performance as he did in The Life of Samuel Johnson on Omnibus a few weeks ago.

The theme enabled the small screen of television to become a broad field for tragedy and humor, for irony and passion. The comments on people and politics were trenchant.

As the worldly-wise prime minister, Jason Robards Jr. gave an outstanding performance. By playing him wryly he gave casualty to the wise political fiver. Robard readily communicated the personality of his role.

Rosemary Harris was splendid as the marshal's daughter. Her function did not simply serve a vehicle for himself; each member of the cast vied for one's attention: Fritz Weaver as the photographer; Nancy Wickwire as the marshal's nurse; David Kingwood as the general; Karel Stepanek as the victor; and Wood Romoff as the foreign minister.

Ustinov wrote the play in 1950, and it was produced in London in 1952. How it has eluded theatrical production here is surprising.

Storm Continues To Wreak Havoc In Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Shivering Britons floundered through waist-high drifts today as one of the worst winter storms in 40 years spread havoc throughout the country.

Scores of towns and villages were isolated by snowdrifts up to 15 feet deep as the storm continued into its third day. Some communities were reported running short of food as snow-clearing equipment battle to reach them through the drift-clogged roads.

Motoring organizations reported "chaos everywhere," with more than 100 m.p.h. roads blocked and thousands of cars abandoned. Trains were hopelessly behind schedule, some arriving as much as 11 hours late in London on runs from Scotland.

Scotland and the north of England bore the brunt of the storm, but almost every part of the British Isles got a share of the snowfall.

Buses had to be abandoned in the snow. Hundreds of children slept in their schools when their buses were unable to get through to take them home.

Telephone and power lines were wrecked by the gale and a 56-year-old woman was killed near Dover when wind sent the chimney of her home crashing down through the roof.

Meanwhile snow, sleet and floods cut a path through west-ern Europe, disrupting road, rail and air traffic and sending ships in the English Channel scurrying for port.

Villagers near Paris barricaded their doors and prepared boats as the Seine and its tributaries, swollen by heavy rains, rose sharply. In West Germany the Moselle River was rising by more than two inches an hour, threatening the town of Zell and a number of villages.

Quinte and BCI Capture League Court Titles

By DONN MARTINSON

Q.S.S. juniors became league champions yesterday as they defeated B.C.I. juniors in the second game of a home-and-home points to count series at Q.S.S. The homesters won yesterday's game 46-30 and took the round 82-62.

B.C.I. visited Q.S.S. quite confident holding on to a 13-point bulge in the points to count series. The first half of the game was close checking and by half time the visitors were still leading in the round but were behind in the game 22-16. B.C.I. couldn't get untracked in the second half as Quinte took advantage of B.C.I.'s miscues and Richie Locke led Quinte in outscoring B.C.I. in the second half 22-14 to make the final score 46-30 for Q.S.S. Congratulations should be expressed to Mr. Wooley and his team and best of luck in their remaining games.

Rickie Lolke led the winners by netting 15 points while Brian MacKenzie rattled in 17 points for B.C.I.

The B.C.I. seniors won the league championship yesterday in Trenton by defeating the Trenton seniors in the home-and-home points to count series 98-86.

The Trenton seniors held a slim four point lead going into yesterday's game, which was the best played game of the current season. In the first quarter B. C. I. held a slim 11-10 lead on the strength of Roger Walter's five field goals and "Pork" Irwin's one foul shot. B.C.I. rolled up a good lead in the second quarter with an amazing display of teamwork and making sure of their passes as they outscored the homesters 15-6 to take a 26-16 lead at the half.

The last half of the game was very close as Trenton outscored the visitors 20-18 in the third quarter, but the latter was very exciting as one time during the quarter, B.C.I. had a 15 point lead but Trenton fought back to dwindle that lead down to nine points by full time. The final score was 63-56 for B.C.I. The B.C.I. seniors will play Napanee for the Bay of Quinte District championship in a sudden death game on a neutral floor or in another home-and-home points to count series this week or early next week. Roger Walters led the winners as he looped 29 points followed by Gord "Pork" Irwin with 17 points. Dowden and Reid were tops for Trenton with 12 points each.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reeding her book on Modern Child Reering, and she said to pop, "Benjamin is reeding. William. Dr. Kronkheim says one of the grate problems of children is, they dont realize when they are wasting time.

Haven't we all got that problem? pop said, and ma said, Well naturelly, but when we get to be our age, it's too late. For instance when children are instentive in school, the fact should be brought to their attention before it becomes an irrepairable habit. According to Dr. Kronkheim, every instentive child should be told the story of the old Greek fillosopher who was asked what he would do if he could live his life over again, and he replied that he would get all the hours he used to be had frittered away uselessly and put them to some useful use.

Did you ever worry about what the Greek fillosopher, Benny? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, and that is just the way I feel, too, G rooalem, even'if I only had this afternoon to live over again, I know it

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Wednesday, Feb. 26

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Uncertain whether to get the monotonous work done that you have promised to do, or dashing about out of doors on other pursuits, the best way to solve problem is to plan time to take in both. Be a cheerful supervisor.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Although a coldly logical financial expert would have you proceed along his or her line, be sure to be true to fine friend who also has your interests at heart. Follow your heart and happiness, also with family.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be very careful you do not hurt ones in power or who has considerable influence over your affairs today. Follow regulations to the letter and show complete cooperation, admiration. P.M. have fun with dear friends.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Whether to carry on with old and tried methods, or get off with more modern friends using up-to-date methods has you quite confused. Remember that if you take the best in each and combine, you will be blessed.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — It is your belief that you must be extravagant with your gifts to make the loved one react more affectionately toward you. An astute plan, however, today gives you a better idea. Follow it. Also, be sure to use histrionics.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — There is a possibility of your getting in between a highly volatile argument between your sensitives and emotional associate and a hard - riding partner. Don't get involved, be neutral and you will be the winner.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Get the advice and information needed for more successful modus operandi from better intellectual and scientific sources today, putting aside old - fashioned methods. Ask for the assistance of a wise friend.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Be sure to retain a happy attitude although a possible tax, wage cut or other curtailment could cause you much worry. Remember that there is much latent courage within you. Use it and your financial position is greatly improved.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A close family tie could give you many an uncomfortable moment today if you pay any attention to the sour grapes attitude he or she has adopted. Do not give up good friend because of ill or lose mental balance. Be wise.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Leave behind all those fanciful tasks you keep so terribly busy with and call your job today. Look into the paper, be with persons who can place you in your right niche in life. Find better way to success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Whatever seems impossible to solve by temperament today can become easy to conquer by the simple expedient of a charming smile, and you stand to gain much materially, too. Improve others with your kind regard.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be sure to get away from any selfish reasons and actions today within the home. Think of and do for others instead and you raise your consciousness as you help those you love. Then the victory is yours.

If your child is born today... The child born today will actually be wearing a boxing glove at birth, or so it would seem from the way he or she early begins to gain a point by using his or her little first instead of the sweetness of a smile and politeness. Better get your child into sports as early as possible, for the force is there and such mentality can be guided properly. Set a good example yourself for...social life.

And the 2 little kids kept on going looking scared, and me and Puds tried to see if we could get the box over both our heads just like we seen them doing it, but it's libel to get in the face at the same time and all of a sudden I was a

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They burn and toss—they're "up-and-down"—what's the matter? Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. France Attacks American Policy In Arab World

PARIS (AP) — A sweeping attack by Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on American policy in the Arab world was seen today as a deliberate warning that France will not be pushed into any conspiracy with Washington.

Pineau's blast Tuesday night was one more indication of the difficulties facing United States diplomat Robert Murphy and a British colleague named by their governments to exert "good offices" in ending France and the former North African protectorate back together.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba said in Tunis after his first conference with Murphy that any French-Tunisian settlement must take the Algerian rebellion into account. The French already have said flatly that the only Algerian angle they will discuss is how to cut off Tunisian aid to the rebels.

The French Parliament's upper house, after hearing Pineau's attack on U.S. actions, voted 271 to 14 for a resolution that "resumption of normal relations with Tunisia should have regard to" do with the Algerian sedition." The Communists were the only opponents.

Cuban Rebels Make Daring Raid on Bank

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban rebels made a daring raid on the National Bank of Cuba in the heart of Havana today, tied up the bank's employees and set fire to thousands of cheques. There was no effort to scoop up the bank's cash.

From four to six men mingled with about a score of employees and customers entering the bank at its 8 a.m. opening.

Then inside, they brandished cheque clearing room, tied up the employees and proceeded to set fire to pockets containing the cheques.

The rebels then fled without attempting to grab any money.

Police on patrol in the district noticed smoke pouring out and called firemen.

A report said most of the cheques were destroyed. The bank said there was no damage to the premises.

Union Plans To Seek Federal Conciliation

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) were to meet today, to discuss likely plans to seek federal conciliation on the union's deadlocked contract dispute with the CNR.

Union - management negotiations broke down Tuesday and the CNR notified the union as saying during the discussions that it plans to seek federal conciliation on "all issues in dispute."

W. E. Gamble of Montreal, Canadian vice-president of the brotherhood, said after the meeting that "neither side could find any point from which to negotiate." He declined to comment further until after today's union meeting.

During the negotiations, the union submitted a 16-point proposal including an 18-per-cent pay increase while the company sought to discuss first its proposal to eliminate on a gradual period all firemen from freight and yard diesels.

ISSUES STATEMENT

W. T. Wilson, CNR vice-president in charge of personnel, said in a statement following the breakdown:

"The company reiterated its readiness to negotiate on the principles outlined in the Kellock report.

"The brotherhood's representatives, however, made it clear from the outset that they were not prepared to discuss at all the question of eliminating firemen from diesels in freight and yard service, as proposed by the company . . ."

The statement said the demands represent the equivalent of "an additional 30 to 40 cents per hour" per employee, and would add an estimated $6,700,000 to the CNR's annual operating expenses.

Firemen, said a railway official, now earn $16-818 daily, depending on mileage, hours of work and the type of equipment on which they work.

Province Plans Road Program Equal to 1957

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan old Ontario contractors today the province will have a road-building program in 1958 equal to that of 1957, when a record amount was spent on roads.

Though details of the 1958 program could not be announced before their presentation in the legislature, Mr. Allan told the Ontario Roadbuilders Association:

"We are prepared for another record year of highway construction throughout the province. There is more work in sight than there was a year ago."

The department's budget for the fiscal year ending March 31 was $234,000,000, a record high for the third successive year.

Mr. Allan said his department had expected to end the fiscal year with an expenditure of $90,000,000, but present estimates were that it would be considerably less since many contracted had finished work ahead of schedule.

10 Dead, 70 Hurt After Tornadoes Hit Mississippi

Editor Says One Town Is 'Literally Torn Up'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Quick-hitting tornadoes killed 10 persons and injured an estimated 70 others Wednesday night as they skipped across Mississippi behind rain-laden winds and hailstorms.

Devastation dotted a 140-mile-wide area in the central and eastern parts of the state between Canton, 20 miles north of here, and Byrdville, 140 miles south. Other tornadoes struck in Oklahoma and northwest Florida.

Five of the dead were in the Richton area. Rural areas between Richton and Waynesboro, a 20-mile stretch in southeast Mississippi.

Mrs. Leland Bolton, a 77-year-old housewife of the Lackney community east of here, said she was setting the table for supper when the tornado hard winds came.

NARROW ESCAPE

"It sounded like a million bells," she said. "All I could think about was my babies and family. Only the good Lord saved us. An icebox held off the falling debris when the roof fell in."

The twister killed three-year-old Cathy Lowery of Richton Dec. 17 the Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Bolton.

Percy H. Clark, 56, said his pickup truck was carried 100 feet and deposited in the top of a pine tree.

George Keith, editor of the Carthage, Miss., newspaper, said the town was "literally torn up" with 30 or 40 houses damaged or the twister hit the middle of the community.

Sudanese Hold First Election

KHARTOUM, Sudan (Reuters)—The Sudanese, many of them probably still having to do their best glass beads, began voting today in a general election against a backdrop of tension with Egypt over disputed border territories.

The election is Sudan's first as an independent state, but the hastily-illiterate electorate has shown little interest in the campaign despite the tension that has arisen over Egypt's claim to 10,000-square miles of border territory. Wednesday after a pretty house-wife told police of threats to send her husband to jail unless he voted according to her neighbors unless she gave him $1,000.

Charged were John William Cox, 29, and Edward Samuel Hall, 30, both bearing Toronto addresses.

Police said the pair got in touch with the 28-year-old mother of three children, saying they had seen her modelling clothes in a store. Further meetings several weeks ago and wanted her to pose for pictures. Police said she posed for them wearing underclothes.

Police said, the men demanded $1,000. The arrests were made at a midtown intersection after the woman arranged a meeting there.

Mining Executive Says Commissions Were Split Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — A mining company executive who once worked for a firm accused in the Sommer bribery-conspiracy hearings goes on the stand again today against a background of testimony about alleged falsification of records and arrangements for commission on government business.

George Davenport gave the testimony Wednesday as he went into the witness box in the preliminary hearing of charges against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, three other individuals and four companies. He worked for the C. D. Schultz Company Limited between 1952 and 1955 and now is secretary-treasurer for Bralorne Mines.

He affirmed for prosecutor Stewart McMorran more than a dozen instances of "alterations or obliterations" in a record of the Schultz Company. And he said that the Schultz firm had an arrangement with another of the accused—Pacific Coast Services Limited—to split a five per cent commission on all government business, or private business touching government departments.

Mr. Sommers resigned his portfolio last April to sit as MLA in the legislature as a private member. The Crown charges that while minister he accepted more than $15,000 in bribes in connection with issuance of forest management licences.

Charged with him are C. D. Schultz, H. W. Gray, John Gray, the C. D. Shultz Company Limited, Evergreen Lumber Limited, Pacific Coast Services and B. C. Forest Products Limited. The Crown alleges they were part of a bribery conspiracy.

Bourguiba Urges NATO Intervene In Algerian War

TUNIS (AP) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba called today on the NATO powers to intervene to end the conflict in Algeria, where France is fighting to put down a nationalist rebellion.

In a broadcast Bourguiba suggested that a French-proposed France-Tunisian committee patrol the border between Algeria and Tunisia be broadened to include other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bourguiba's speech made no reference to any further demands for total evacuation of French troops from Tunisia and surrender of the great military base of Bizerte.

RAIL AND PHONE RATE INCREASES BEING HELD UP

P.M. Announces 2-Month Extension

OTTAWA (CP) — Increases in railway and telephone rates have been held up until at least May 1.

The increases in rail freight rules and in Ontario - Quebec phone charges — aggregating about $25,000,000 a year—initially had been suspended until March 1 by the cabinet.

Tuesday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office announced a two-month extension well beyond the March 31 general election date pending hearings on appeals taken against the boosts authorized by the board of transport commissioners.

No dates for hearings were announced, but it appeared unlikely they would be held before the election. The prime minister—now out of the capital—said Tuesday he did not know when they would be held.

The suspensions involve a 3.6-per-cent general freight rate increase for the railways—estimated worth $15,000,000 a year. And $10,200,000-a-year boost for Bell Telephone Company in the Ontario-Quebec operations, plus the company an average three-per-cent increase in annual revenue.

The transport board authorized the CNR increases Dec. 20, effective Jan. 13, on a railway application in which the companies sought a 10-per-cent boost.

It was opposed by eight provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec — which appealed the board's decision to the cabinet.

The board authorized the phone rate increase for Jan. 31, on a Bell application in which the company had sought an average seven per cent boost. The opposition before the board and the appeals to the cabinet were conducted by 36 municipalities.

The cabinet's power to change or nullify the board's judgment, or refer either of the cases back to the commissioners for reconsideration.

Pretty 'Model' Foils Attempts At Extortion

TORONTO (CP) — Two men were charged with extortion Wednesday after a pretty housewife told police of threats to send her husband to jail unless she gave him $1,000.

Charged were John William Cox, 29, and Edward Samuel Hall, 30, both bearing Toronto addresses.

Police said the pair got in touch with the 28-year-old mother of three children, saying they had seen her modelling clothes in a store. Further meetings several weeks ago and wanted her to pose for pictures. Police said she posed for them wearing underclothes.

Police said, the men demanded $1,000. The arrests were made at a midtown intersection after the woman arranged a meeting there.

Soviet Biologists Transplant Dog's Head Onto Pup's Body, Kept Alive

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet biologists claim they have transplanted a dog's head onto a puppy's body and kept the resulting animal alive for six days.

They also claim to have kept another dog's amputated head alive for six hours after amputation and successfully sewn back another dog's paw in its original place 25 hours after amputation.

These and other experiments were described at the first national conference ever held on transplantation in Moscow late last year. Accounts of them were published today in the science magazine Science and Life.

The experiments are aimed ultimately at solving the problem of transplanting human limbs.

"The results so far achieved provide grounds for the assumption that some of these operations will be successful with human beings under special conditions in the near future," said Academician Vladimir Petrovsky of the Soviet institute of experimental surgical apparatus and instruments.

Biologist Vladimir P. Demihov, reported that when a dog's amputated head was transplanted onto the neck of a body the animal behaved normally until it died six days later.

Said Demidov: "It lapped water, reacted to light, sounds and pricks of pain and displayed fullness."

Another biologist, Sergei S. Briuhonenko, a co-worker of Lopchinsky, said he had successfully transplanted a dog's lung. The animal behaved alive for several hours after amputation. He said:

"The head placed on a plate could swallow food placed in its mouth, open its jaws wide, and register a number of reflexes."

ACHIEVES MAJOR MEDICAL ADVANCE

Dr. Mario Stefanini is shown at work in his research laboratory at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Boston, where he has created one of the major medical advances in the past decade. He has produced a mould product which "hunts down and destroys fresh blood clots anywhere in the body in a matter of minutes." The preparations has been used on 23 human patients, with excellent results in each case.

Firemen, Engineemen Seek Federal Conciliation in CNR Contract Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—The labor department today received a request from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) for federal conciliation service in their contract dispute with the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways.

The request from W. E. Gammon of Montreal, Canadian chief of the union, was received in the mail by Bernard Wilson, director of the labor department's industrial relations branch.

Dominion action here did not appear in prospect. It would have to be authorized by Labor Minister Starr, now out of Ottawa campaigning for the March 31 general election.

It was understood also that the union did not specify whether it wanted the appointment of a federal board of conciliation or the services of a government conciliation officer.

The unions said it appears it will be up to the department, if Mr. Starr authorizes action, to determine whether to set up a formal board or send in an officer to give advice to the disputants.

The dispute centres around the CNR's proposal to cut down use of firemen on diesel locomotives, the union's opposition to this and the union's counter-demand for an 18-per-cent wage increase and improved working conditions.

Negotiations between the union and the CNR reached a deadlock Tuesday at Montreal.

Liberal Leader Brews New Issue in Election Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has brewed a new issue—with an international flavor—for the election campaign pot.

At Edmonton Wednesday night he said Nasser if he becomes prime minister he will create a market at Montreal for western Canadian oil if the United States continues to restrict oil imports from Canada. Most oil marketed in Eastern Canada now is imported.

Mr. Pearson said the United States cannot seek Canadian cooperation in defence matters and at the same time restrict imports of Canadian oil, a product that means dollars.

Mr. Pearson also said the Progressive Conservatives, in a "slap-happy, casual way," had entered into an arrangement to place the RCAF under command of the American general in the North American air defence purposes.

At Ottawa Hon. J. Hamilton Airiairs Minister Sidney Smith, Mr. Pearson's successor in this portfolio, said the Conservative government will see that Canada remains in control of their political and economic destiny under"term of the air defence agreement.

"We are not going to allow ourselves to be shoved around by the Americans," he said at a press conference.

At Winnipeg on Wednesday night, Mr. Diefenbaker made his most pointed appeal for Quebec support in the March 31 election.

He hinted at increased Quebec representation in the cabinet if there is strong backing for his party in the province. There now are three Quebec representatives in the government.

"You have it in your power . . . to surround me with the talented lieutenants I need to direct the destinies of our country," the prime minister said. "I know that you understand me well when I say this."

CCF Leader Coldwell said at Kimberley, B.C., in opening a provincial election tour that the Conservatives and Liberals are busy trying to blame each other for unemployment that stems economic facts of the situation are being assiduously ignored.

"The fact is that periodic large scale unemployment is an integral and continuing part of the type of unplanned economic to which both old-line parties are wedded and unless a fundamentally new approach is taken, unemployment will continue to plague the economy."

Rebel losses were put at 199 in the battle in which French troops, backed by aircraft and artillery, fought hand to hand with the rebels all day Wednesday.

RUSSIAN ENVOY WANTS U.S., RED VISIT EXCHANGE

He Also Urges End Of Barriers to Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov has told The Associated Press in an interview that he would like to see Soviet leaders visit the United States and American leaders go to Russia.

His unexpected assertion included Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev and Vice-President Richard Nixon of the U.S.

"I think personally that the more exchanges we have on all kinds of levels—from the very top to the bottom—the better," Menshikov said.

He reported the Soviet government considering a proposal by President Eisenhower for exchanges of thought and influential citizens come from Russia to get a better understanding of America's can life.

RAISES SPECULATION

Eisenhower said Wednesday that this was not intended as an invitation to Khrushchev or Premier Bulganin, but there has been speculation he might lead to their visiting here.

Menshikov, who arrived in Washington on 29 businessmen boarded the plane at Isle of Man airport for the 100-mile flight, some waved goodbyes to friends and children. There was a crew of three aboard.

SMASHED TO PIECES

Thirty-five minutes later, with visibility cut by heavy clouds and the blizzard, the plane smashed to bits against "Winter Hill," near the bleak moorlands of Lancashire and only 400 yards from a lonely farmer tenanted by five engineers.

Stewardess Jennifer Gerrie stumbled out of the wreckage. Shocked, exhausted and hurt, she staggered uphill into the TV station and gasped:

"Our plane has crashed."

The snow was so deep that no vehicle could get within a mile of the wreckage.

STRUGGLE TO RESCUE

But bulldozers and snowplows fought through four-foot drifts, opening the way for ambulances, when the call for help went out to the station. Recovery, lugging stretchers, blankets and medicines, struggled the last distance on foot.

Three helicopters took off from the nearby RAF base with doctors and nurses. Men at a quarry some distance away helped carry survivors to the ambulances.

The twin-engined aircraft was chartered by Silver City Airways, a British cross-Channel car-ferry service.

Company chairman E. C. Mercy told a press conference nine survivors had been reported from the crash site, but names of the injured later died.

The helicopters ferried doctors to the scene as ambulances battled snow-choked moorland roads. A witness said when the plane crashed, close to a northern England.

Several survivors managed to walk to the tower station.

The British Commercial passenger-freighter left the Isle of Man Wednesday with a party who were to attend a business conference in Manchester.

The last radio message brought first news of the crash to the TV tower station, which broadcast calls for help. The station did not specify whether it wanted the appointment of a federal board of conciliation or the services of a government conciliation officer.

The unions said it appears it will be up to the department, if Mr. Starr authorizes action, to determine whether to set up a formal board or send in an officer to give advice to the disputants.

Plane In Flight From Isle Of Man To Manchester

39 Passengers All Auto Dealers on Day-Tour

BOLTON, England (CP) — A chartered British airliner with 42 persons aboard smashed against a snow-covered mountain today only five minutes from its destination. The death toll was 34.

An injured stewardess, the only woman aboard, and the co-pilot struggled through to the deep snow to a television relay station on top of the mountain and groped out the first word of the disaster.

Helicopters, snowplows and mountain rescue teams sped through a blizzard to the scene.

AUTO DEALERS' TRIP

The twin-engined Bristol Wayfarer, operated by Silver City Airways, was carrying automobile dealers from the Isle of Man in the Irish Sea on a one-day junket to Manchester, only 35 miles from here, to inspect a battery plant.

"Oh, my God- My God!" cried a shocked official of the battery firm when he heard the news.

Wisecracking and jovial, the 39 businessmen boarded the plane at Isle of Man airport for the 100-mile flight, some waving goodbyes to friends and children. There was a crew of three aboard.

Visit by Princess Margaret to U.S. While in Canada Under Discussion

LONDON (AP) — A visit by Princess Margaret to the United States during her Canadian tour is being discussed with under-top-level consideration here. She is due in Canada July 12 for a five official visit.

No British-American consultation on the U.S. visit are known to have taken place on any official level, but there is never anything in still an idea rather than a project being actively planned. Political considerations and other aspects are already being thought about in high places.

Under consideration are such questions as:

Would common wealth countries which the princess has not yet visited feel slighted if she visited the U.S. first?

Since she is a head of state, but has high status as the sister of the Queen, where should protocol originate?

Would teen-agers and other groups whose sympathy for her grew after she announced Peter Townsend stage frantic anti-royalty demonstrations that would embarrass the princess and the monarchy?

On the other hand, would there be any unwanted effect on American opinion if the princess was in Canada without paying a courtesy call across the border?

Such questions would be weighed carefully here before any move could be made to arrange a visit.

If the decision goes against the U.S. visit, British officials could always claim that the princess had prior and conflicting arrangements which could not be altered.

Water, Sewage Project Planned For Frankford

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario water resources commission today announced it has signed an agreement to carry out a $243,775 combined water and sewage project in Frankford, near Trenton.

The project would include a deep well, pumping equipment and a reservoir plus sanitary sewer and a treatment plan.

100 crew joined in rescue work. Snowplows followed by ambulances cut through drifts on roads leading to the area while rescue workers on foot floundered through thigh-deep snow across two miles of fields to the crash scene.

The whole midlands area has been in the grip of a great snow for the last three days. Giant drifts have blocked roads, isolated villages and brought chaos to road and rail transportation.

The plane crashed on Winter Hill—three miles from Horwich—1½ miles northwest of here and 18 miles northwest of Manchester—and broke into three parts which were strewn over a wide area.

A fire was lit in the main street of the little town of Horwich to guide ambulances and helicopters and nurses to the scene.

Three Quinte Curling Rinks To Enter Spiel

Three rinks from the Quinte Curling Club will take part in the RCAF bonspiel opening today at the R. Dempsey rink. This spiel is an "Around the Clock" affair and will end sometime on Sunday. The draws have been posted and the Belleville entries will start at six o'clock this evening.

From then on in the rinks will be playing all hours of the day and night and before they finish they will know they have been through a tough grind.

Theatre Guild Working Hard On New Play

In line with the flourishing theatre movement in all parts of Canada, Belleville too, is playing its part. The members of the Theatre Guild are now in rehearsal for "The Shining Hour," a three-act drama to be presented March 5th and 6th in the Park Theatre.

This play, in which our own Raymond Massey has taken the lead, has had plaudits from all the legitimate stage in both London and New York.

Betty Sadler, a charter member of the Guild, who has acted in many of their productions, is the director, and has chosen for her cast a number of skilled and true veterans of the Theatre Guild — Nicky Thomas, Flo Vanover, Sid Mullen, Bette Rose and Harry Mulhall, none of whom need any introduction to Belleville audiences. David Evans, is a newcomer to the city, who has acted previously in one-act plays, is making his first appearance in a major production.

"The Shining Hour," an absorbing drama by the English playwright, Keith Winter, involves around a heroine who has betrayed her highest ideals by marrying a man she does not love. The swiftly ensuing tragedy and her solution of an unbearable dilemma should not fail to hold the interest of the audience. The play is one of deep emotion, sustained suspense and strong characterization. If you enjoyed "Rebecca", we are sure you will like "The Shining Hour."

Dr. R. Scott Praises Midway Role at Fairs

TORONTO (CP) — A compliment was paid today to an often maligned feature of rural fairs—the midway.

Dr. Russell Scott, president of the Belleville fair, in an address read by his vice-president Carl Thompson, said: "No fair is a fair without a midway and no midway is complete without cotton candy and peanuts."

Dr. Scott could not attend the convention of the Canadian Association of Agricultural Societies because of an automobile accident injury.

"Many persons judge a fair by its midway," he said. "Even when our good rural people come to fairs they say some people head straight for the midway."

Dr. Scott urged the best midway possible be employed and said: "If it makes money, so will you."

Farmer Finds Old Coins

An Ameliasburg farmer who has been in Canada about seven years and who has moved to various farms in the district, tells about the same number of times, seems to have a knack of finding old coins.

About three years ago, W. Fleegerin found a Bank of Upper Canada half penny dated 1854 and an ancient silver penny, about the size of a half dollar, dated 1820, while digging in the garden at his Consecon farm. Some time later he moved to Moira where once again digging in a garden he unearthed a Bank of Lower Canada half penny dated 1837 and a small five-cent piece dated 1907, which was a common coinage in the reign of Edward VII. Three of the coins bear holes as though someone carried them on a string.

Mr. Fleegerin is living in the vicinity of "Little Spain," Mr. Fleegerin's neighbor is Eldorado. Prince Edward County has just about everything else, has it not?

GREAT FISHERIES

The Grand Banks fisheries of Canada's east coast were familiar to French fishermen as early as 1550.

New Power Supply Facilities For Kingston-Belleville Area Announced by Ont. Hydro

Construction of a new transformer station and high voltage transmission line facilities to provide adequate power supply for the rapidly growing needs of the Kingston-Belleville area was announced "Wednesday by the Ontario Hydro Chairman James Buchan. The estimated net cost of the program is $2,641,250.

While these facilities will be required to meet loads in 1959, the commission has also taken steps to improve supply to this area this winter by making temporary connections to provide a 115,000 volt circuit from the new St. Lawrence transformer station to the Frontenac and Belleville transformer stations and by advancing its original transmission lines construction schedule by one year.

The new transformer station authorized yesterday will be built in the Kingston area and 16 miles of 220,000 volt circuit steel tower line will be erected from Hinchinbrooke switching station to the new station. In addition 8.5 miles of 115,000 volt double circuit steel tower line will be built from the Kingston area station to the existing 115,000 volt circuit running from Frontenac transformer station to the Belleville transformer station.

The transmission lines are scheduled for service by October 1, 1958, and the new transformer station by Sept. 1, 1959.

Quinte Board Agrees Not to Hire Teachers Until York Dispute Ends

The Bay of Quinte High School Board will not hire, interview or advertise for any additional secondary school teachers until a dispute in North York township near Toronto is resolved.

J. J. Tredgen, chairman of the board, said this morning a telegram from the Ontario School Trustees' Council requesting this action was received in Belleville on Tuesday afternoon. He added that the board has replied saying it will comply with the request.

North York board of education has rejected demands by secondary school teachers for a $300 salary increase and a $300 annual increment.

The board, which countered with an offer of $400 increases in minimum and maximum salaries and a $300 annual increment, has not budged.

The term is used to warn all boards of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that teachers are not to negotiate with the board.

GETTING SUPPORT

Percy Hall, trustees' council executive director, said Wednesday night the telegrams were sent out Tuesday. Seventy-eight replies had been received supporting the council.

Increases asked by the North York teachers would bring maximum salaries to $6,000 and further to $8,400 annually and for specialists to $9,000.

Mr. Muir said the telegram also asked school boards to refrain from advertising for teachers until a decision is reached in North York.

Moira River 'Looks Good' Says Engineer

Despite the added ice thickness as a result of last week's zero weather, the Moira River "looks good" with a good current running and no frazil ice to cause potential trouble during the spring freshet.

This was the opinion expressed today by City Engineer Charles Mott who said that the recent mild weather had softened the ice and open current was sending upstream from College Street to Cannifton.

Also small open stretches were now appearing below College St. as a result of the recent mild spell.

"The river looks good, but you never can tell what two or three days rain might do," he said.

Prior to the recent cold spell ice thickness on the river was measured in three different places, being 18 inches of ice at 20 inches of ice below the CPR bridge; at the footbridge there was 12 to 14 inches and further upstream opposite the Belvedere Hotel there was 18 inches to 20 inches. Since that time the cold weather added a further thickness and now this there is a liberal coating of snow.

It is over 20 years since the spring break-up caused serious flooding conditions in downtown Belleville and city merchants as well as residents with homes in the flats along the river, keep their fingers crossed each year at break-up time.

"Things look good and we are keeping our eye on the river," noted Mr. Muir.

Weightlifting

It is once again nearing time for the Belleville ogden weightlifting championships. This meet is to be held at the YMCA on Saturday, at 7.30 p.m. Lifters have been entering forms from Smiths Falls, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton, and Belleville. Improvement in lifting in this city has placed new champions in lightweight class formerly held by Jack Edmonds now of Montreal, and the middleweight class previously held by the late Jim Pepper and the late Bill McQuaid both of whom gave their lives overseas in World War II. In the remaining classes Leo Shortt, Tom Pedder and Bill McMurter of Belleville district and Jack Cooper now of Toronto, have held the records since 1939.

Defeated PC Candidate Will Protest Choice

QUEBEC (CP) — A defeated candidate in Monday's Progressive Conservative rally to choose a Quebec East riding candidate for the March 31 federal election told Wednesday he will protest the choice of Emilien Simard.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, who polled 358 votes to Mr. Simard's 660, said the convention was "illegal" and that he is collecting proof of irregularities committed in the voting by official delegates. He declined to describe the alleged illegalities but said he would protest to district organizer Robert Perron.

Meanwhile, four Progressive Conservative candidates who unsuccessfully contested nomination in the riding of Quebec West have sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker protesting "irregularities" in selection of the winning candidate. The telegram gave no details of the alleged irregularities.

The nomination meeting, held Sunday, chose Wilfrid Dufresne who won the seat in 1953 but last year was defeated by Liberal Rene Begin.

Salvation Army Officer First 'Pounded Beat'

From police constable to Salvation Army officer — that's the switch made by a big, burly Swedish giant who visited Belleville yesterday.

Senior Major William Ross, of Montreal, who is in charge of Salvation Army work in the eastern Ontario-Quebec region, was the guest speaker at a regional Holiness rally held last night at the Salvation Army citadel.

Corps from Trenton, Tweed, Picton, Napanee, Kingston and Gananoque, along with local corps attended the monthly rally, which this month was under the direction of Brig. Morgan Flannigan of the mid-Ontario division office. Next month the rally will be held in Kingston.

Major Ross was born in Kilmarnie, Scotland, in the northern highlands, and emigrated to Canada 31 years ago. After a brief spell of farming on the prairies which was "long enough to make me realize I liked city life better," he joined the Regina police force.

He "pounded the beat" for almost four years before he became converted to the Salvation Army.

When asked why he made the switch, the robust Scotsman said with a merry twinkle in his eye, "Aye, I was saved, lassie."

TRAINED IN WINNIPEG

He added that he received a vocation, a "way of life," and this is what the Salvation Army offered.

He was commissioned as an Army officer in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Major Ross since then has visited every province in connection with Salvation Army work. Now living in Montreal, he took charge of the Eastern Ontario-Quebec region last May.

The burly Scotsman, who has lost none of the burr in his voice despite the fact he has been in Canada 31 years, spoke of the work being done in the Salvation Army rehabilitation centre in Montreal.

"The centre is used primarily by alcoholics get readjusted, so they can go out and earn their own living," he explained. "We employ, what is called an elevator work system, where they start at the bottom and work up. When they reach the top rung they are able to get and keep a job."

At present there are 60 alcoholics at the centre engaged in making or mending shoes, clothing, and other articles, he said.

"The only real help for alcoholics comes from God," Major Ross concluded.

Floods Harass Western Europe

LONDON (AP) — Floods today began to harass Western Europe, already blanketed by a third day of snow and ice, bitter cold and storms.

As a gradual thaw and heavy rain brought improvement to road conditions in many snow-bound areas of Britain, the threat of flooding was with the rising waters.

In parts of the continent, the river already have caused damage and inconvenience to winter-bound residents.

The Rhine is seven to 10 feet above normal level. In the West German capital of Bonn the basement of the Parliament building has been flooded.

Rivers, laden with melting snows, continued today to rise dangerously in the Paris area. Renewed snowfalls brought giant white flakes over the French capital today.

Inland traffic was paralyzed in Holland on the swollen Rhine and Meuse.

'Choir Training' Subject of Talk

Mrs. Muriel Gidley Stafford, president of the Canadian Colonist Society, spoke on "Choir Training" at the February meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, held in St. James Parish House.

In his introduction, Mr. Robert Bell said that Mrs. Stafford was making history as the first woman president of C.C.O. and had already set a record of this in the capacity of choirmaster of Park Road Baptist Church, Toronto.

The subject could not be covered in a finished manner in one short evening, Mrs. Stafford confined her talk to a presentation of her ideas on rehearsal techniques. She presented these ideas under five headings, with a detailed explanation of each. They were "Choir Training", "Detail — Tone Production", Balance, "Use of the Organ at Rehearsal" and "Learning the New Work."

A choir of twelve had been recruited for the occasion from the local choirs of C.C.O. members. Following the talk, Mrs. Stafford conducted an actual rehearsal, using four contrasting anthems as the subject matter. The anthems were "My Eyes for Beauty Pine" by Robert Bridges and Herbert Howells; "Lord our Lord our God" by Adrian Batten, "An Easter Carol" by Hardy Mead and "Thee We Adore" by Richard P. Bevan. As Mrs. Stafford met and oversame each problem and situation, the members of the audience were given innumerable ideas on choir training.

As she concluded the demonstration, Mrs. Stafford thanked the choir for their co-operation and the audience for being so attentive.

S. Alec Gordon thanked Mrs. Stafford for coming to Belleville to conduct the session. A well illustrated talk Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Centre to complete a very enjoyable meeting.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market drifted lower during slower morning trading, much of which was profit-taking following a fairly strong gain Wednesday.

Leaders in the decline were banks, which had staged a strong rally in the last two weeks. Canadian Bank of Commerce lost 1½ points at 43¼ on an 800-share turnover. Toronto-Dominion, Nova Scotia and Montreal were each off nearly a point but trading was light. Royal Bank, light. Royal Bank, which Wednesday announced it will give rights to shareholders to purchase additional stock, was off ¾ at 39¾. Imperial.

The industrial index lost a point with individual losses rang-ing to 1¼ points in groupings other than banks. Calgary Power, Canadian Pacific A and Page-Hersey Tubes each lost at least a point. Declines outnumbered losses in the whole section by a wide margin.

The gold, base metals and western oil indexes showed little change and trading in the oil list was light.

Placer Development, one of several mining holding companies listed, was active at $9.50 on a few shares. New Dickenson, Rio Rand were down 10-15 cents among base stocks. International Nickel and Noranda lost fractions among senior issues below as but Sherritt gained 15 cents to $4.30.

McCarthy Theatre to Hold Premiere of Film Describing Escape of German POW

"The One That Got Away," a tense film dramatization of the story of the only German prisoner taken in England during the last World War to escape and make his way back to Germany is coming to the McCarthy Theatre in Belleville on March 5th.

The picture stars Hardy Kruger as Franz von Werra, German Luftwaffe pilot, shot down during the battle of Britain and after two unsuccessful escape attempts was sent to Canada where he was to be held for safekeep by diving through the window of a train coach at a Smiths Falls, Ontario.

The film is based on the true story of the escape by Kendal Burt and James Leasor which has appeared as serialized and condensed form in American and Canadian magazines.

The March 5th date of the opening at the McCarthy Theatre here will coincide with the premiere of the film in North America. It will open simultaneously in ten centres in Eastern Ontario and in Oggdensburg, N.Y., locale for the escape.

BEGINS WITH BATTLE

The film epic begins with the Battle of Britain at its height as out of a vapor-traced sky a stripped Messerschmitt spins to earth. Its pilot, Franz von Werra, is captured.

After two unsuccessful escape attempts in England Von Werra is included in a party of prisoners for Canada. Then as the train speeds across Eastern Ontario he begins the most German's escape career occurs.

In the dead of winter as the train stops at Smiths Falls, the guards are lured away and von Werra slides open a window and dives into the snow. Follows a frantic cross country trek to the frozen St. Lawrence. But half way across he finds the ice broken by a clear channel. Back on the Canadian bank he finds a boat lying in the snow and with rapidly dwindling strength he manhandles it to the water's edge. He leaps in and collapses.

He is drifting boat finally comes to rest but whether on the Canadian or American shore, von Werra does not know.

"The Commandant" he asks an immigration guard on the river bank.

GE and Sunbeam End 'Fair Trade' Price Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Retailers battered slashing prices of General Electric Company small appliances today heard a manufacturer spokesman said: "There isn't a darned thing we can do."

Until now GE has rigorously enforced minimum retail prices of its toasters, clocks, radios and other small appliances in the 31 states with fair trade laws. Merchandise priced below the fair trade price were frequently dropped.

In Chicago, Sunbeam Corporation Wednesday night ordered elimination of fair trade practices on small Sunbeam products for "competitive" reasons.

C. C. Mendler, sales vice-president of Sunbeam, said telegrams had been sent to all Sunbeam distributors in the U.S. ordering the action, effective today.

Sunbeam products affected include many of the same items covered in the GE move.

CUT PRICES

Within minutes after GE scrapped its fair trade policy, New York area stores started cutting prices. Reductions averaged 30 per cent below list in the morning hours and many stores said they might slash prices 40 per cent. By noon as followed price war was well under way.

In Ottawa, officials said price fixing is forbidden by provisions of the Combines Investigation Act. The act, however, does not prohibit manufacturers from suggesting retail prices provided they do not go further.

In New York, Master's Incorporated, a discount chain, placed an $18.71 tag on a GE electric coffeemaker that had carried a fair-trade price of $29.95. An

'Splinter Group' By Labor Leaders To Be Challenged

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor party leaders today planned action against the left - wing "splinter group" challenging their official line on the Nassau bomb and missile co-operation with the United States.

The sudden split came at a moment when many in the party believed victory over the conservatives in their grasp in the next general election. It also gave the Labor leaders acute embarrassment.

They are reported particularly angry that the split has come out into the open in the middle of Parliament's defence debate, thus confusing the whole line of Labor's victory over the government.

SEEK CENSURE TONIGHT

The Labor leaders announced that they would try for a vote of censure against the government in the House of Commons tonight. They seek to censure the Conservatives for not delaying the creation of American-supplied rocket bases here until after agreement talks with Russia.

But the Labor leaders now are facing "armed forces behind" by the "victory for socialism" group, which insists that Labor must oppose setting up the bases here under any circumstances.

This is the biggest internal Labor revolt since the days of the Soviet-German pact.

WARN OF "RISK"

Labor party chiefs in Parliament are expected to censure splinter group members there on the risk "risk" they are running.

Labor's national executive held an angry inquiry into the new split Wednesday and decided to end the splinter group chairman, Stephen Swingler, a letter saying it is not in order to create factions in the party.

The 20-member "victory for Socialism" group — partly composed of members of Parliament — wants Britain both to have missiles and outlaw the H-bomb unilaterally. Party leader Hugh Gaitskell and other Labor chiefs want to see the H-bomb banned, and are against Britain doing it alone.

Cuban Rebels Burn Bus in Heart of Havana

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's rebels kept up their harrassment campaign in the heart of Havana Wednesday night, burning one bus within five blocks of the Cuban Parliament Buildings and halting others by watering their gasoline supplies.

The rebels avoided the heavily guarded Sports Palace where world lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans knocked out Cuban champ Orlando Echevarria in the first round of a non-title fight.

Government forces had been on the alert to protect the widely publicized match since rebels kept the star attraction out of Monday's Grand Premio auto race by kidnapping him for 29 hours. The star, Argentina's world championship driver Juan Fangio, was released unharmed after the race ended in a wreck that injured seven persons.

Sorn blamed the rebels for causing the wreck by pouring oil on the track. After blaming the rebels for the biggest internal havoc revolt since the days of the Batista dictatorship.

WARN OF "RISK"

The rebels said they would continue to bomb economy, including its important tourist business, so as to produce a distrust and dissatisfaction that might turn the bull: of the population against President Fulgencio Batista.

Predicts Surplus Of $280,000 in Next Fiscal Year

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario budget that Premier Frost says will provide 30,000 more jobs in the coming year than last year's peak, is before the legislature.

He told the provincial House Wednesday that "never in all history has such a complete program been presented to any legislature in Canada."

"We are spearheading an investment program amounting to $1,500,000,000 and providing 235,000 jobs."

Under new work, he said will be on construction and maintenance financed by the province, provincial municipal and municipalities. It would include off - site construction of industrial projects.

SCHOOL GRANTS

Tabling the budget in his capacity as treasurer, the premier disclosed $33,000,000 increase in grants to municipal and separate ondary schools. There will be no tax changes, he said.

He also re-affirmed his demands for more generous tax arrangements with the federal government.

The premier, tabling his 14th budget, did not read the 12,250-word document nor its appendix of more than 40,000 words. Instead he talked from notes and reviewed highlights.

The budget disclosed a $337,000 surplus on ordinary account, compared with a forecast of $556,000 a year ago, and predicted a surplus of $280,000 in the new fiscal year beginning April 1. Ordinary account provides the day-by-day cost of government.

Speaking on unions Mr. Lush said that he felt they have been and are necessary.

"Labor and capital," this does not mean I necessarily approve of unions as presently constituted."

"Labor in my view, is entitled to wholesome conditions and protection which should cover all employees, a very substantial portion of which are not represented by organized labor.

"Labor and management have altogether too much in common to be lined up on opposite sides of the bargaining table, each trying to outdo the other. We are simply victims of circumstance in a colossal costs of industrial disputes, in the end, and we should by understand how enormous is the cost.

"Others, I have pointed out, are very costly from the materialism point of view. Personally I have stated also that in my estimation labor is honest and so to me it is basically wrong that labor, which is honest and only seeking a square deal, should be obligated to buy this square deal through the payment of dues to agencies and management who I believe should be just as honest. The trouble lies not with labor or management in general but with their leadership."

Over 300 persons attended the annual dinner of the Trenton Board of Commerce, which was chaired by Jim Macadam. The guest speaker was introduced by Councillor A. Ray Fox and was thanked by A. J. C. Wood, past president of the Chamber.

Following the dinner, Ken Drysdale, Ontario Chamber of Commerce director, inducted the new officers for 1958 of the local Chamber.

Entertainment during the evening was under the direction of Arthur Duncan, Public Relations Officer for the Data Shoe Co. and was in the form of music and a short play by L'ventri'oquists.

The music was two numbers, "Play Violin Play" and "Be My Love," with Stephen Choma on the violin. The play was accompanied by Mrs. Helen Leatherland on the piano. Both musicians are from Batawa.

The comedy act was presented by Frank Hockaday and his red-headed dummy.

Owner of Used Car Lot Issue

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — George Dingman, 33, of Port Stanley, Ont., was testimony Wednesday in his trial on a charge of assisting in the smuggling of a car across the border in 1955.

Dingman is one of seven men facing trial in connection with a ring of car smugglers broken up by police last November.

The defendant gave testimony in support of defence counsel's claim that his interest in East Dundas Motors, where the trail of a smuggled car ended, in Canada, was sold in June, 1955.

A previous defence witness, Lorne Higgins, who sold cars off the lot on behalf of another dealer, said he had seen Dingman loaved up at East Dundas Motors in July, 1955, and "from the way lot," giving Higgins the impression that "he had control of the place."

Ownership of the used car lot at the centre of the smuggling is a body-controlled issue in the trial.

ASK TARIFF BOOSTS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Manufacturers Association Wednesday urged the tariff board to recommend import duty boosts on man-made fibres. As the board ended its study of the synthetic staple fibre tariff structure, Eric Hehner, representing the Primary Textiles Institute, stressed import duty increases would not inevitably lead to higher consumer prices. European producers opposed the request.

Comets, Rockets Tied for Top Spot in Loop

TRENTON—Tonight not only ends the regular schedule in RCAF intersection hockey but will also decide a team to represent the station in Training Command playoffs. All teams have been battling right down the line to obtain the honor and with the Comets, Rockets and F.I.S. teams all holding a chance to win, tonight's game will, without doubt, be the hardest fought of the season.

The Rockets and Comets are the favorites to win, both being tied with seven points in the "Big Four" series. The F.I.S., in second place, have six points, and a win for them will give the Rockets coupled with a loss by the Comets in the Falcons, would give them the cherished title.

There is no admission charge and the games get underway at about 8 p.m. on the Community Centre in Trenton.

In the "Little Four" series the Combines, who are tied with the cellar all season, also have a chance tonight to cop the "Little" series title and the special station award. Also a prize possession for any team.

A win tonight over the Headquarters squad would give the Combines second place in the "Little Four" and the right to play off with the leaders, No. 6 Repair Depot.

Britain Must Use N-Weapons Even If Russians Refrain

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain says the West must use nuclear weapons against a major Soviet aggression even if the Russians refrain from using them.

Defence Minister Duncan Sandys said the alternative is "defeat and occupation." He was speaking a two-day defence debate in the House of Commons.

"It is really no good mincing matters," he said.

The defence minister conceded that some people had been shocked by his recent annual report on defence spelling out the policy of nuclear retaliation even if Russia used only conventional arms.

Sandys said that without nuclear retaliation, Russia's superior conventional forces "are bound to be successful." A Western build-up of conventional arms would be a "stupendous" drain on manpower, money and industry.

The defence minister said that the more those "ugly" devices are studded the more it is realized that the only sensible way out is multilateral disarmament.

"This is the only road to real peace and economic progress for mankind," he said.

Britain's new chief Labor party spokesman on defence, said Britain was shocked by Sandys' almost completed retreat on "the weapon of mass suicide." He declared:

"The government is turning the weapon of deterrence, which is a weapon only so long as you do not use it, into a weapon that can be used at any time to start its proceedings—or we have to choose surrender."

Strachey contended a motion to be voted on tonight. It criticizes the government defence programme, including the agreement on building British bases for American supplies, rockets without awaiting the outcome of an East-West summit conference.

Fuchs Expected To Reach Base Within 48 Hours

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) British explorer Vivian Fuchs prepared today for the final dash in the first overland crossing of the Antarctic continent.

WINDSOR (CP)—The city of Windsor wants small cars—but it is the market for small cars—but only if any local manufacturer produces them.

E. J. Langlois, city treasurer, said Wednesday night the city is interested in small cars but it will not buy foreign models. He was comment at board of control's budget session.

SAFETY PATROL DESERVES STUDY

The tie vote in the city council last week on the proposal to recommend consideration of the establishment of a school safety patrol here is in the same category. The proposal should not be allowed to die.

It might just as well be admitted, though, that there is one factor in the local situation which might have given some grounds for concern had the council voted for the recommendation. The investigation of the school safety patrol system arose out of consideration of the council's budget a year ago. Some thought this patrol system might enable the council to save money on crossing guards. As we understand the present situation, none of the present advocates of the system for Belleville now hold this view. The fact that it was once advanced, though, before the system was investigated, is said to have sparked much of the opposition to the proposal.

We think one thing ought to be recognized by those on both sides of the debate: the school safety patrol system has proven highly successful in at least most, if not all, the centres where it is operative, but it is a means of saving lives, not of saving money. The establishment of the school safety patrol is more likely to increase expenditures on safety measures, at least for a while, than to reduce them.

No responsible person would suggest that the school patrol should replace crossing guards at such places as Dundas Street, East, West Bridge Street hill and the Upper Bridge. for instance. However, as the city grows, the school safety patrol might assume responsibility for seeing that children make their way safely across the streets at crossings where there would otherwise be a demand for new crossing guards. Some may see in this a reason to oppose the establishment of the system; they might consider the possibility, though, that guards would not always be provided at safe points in the future, that unlikely conditions warranted Crossing Guards cannot be provided at every place where school children have to cross the street. Those familiar with the school patrol system know that the students in this patrol are infinitely better than no guards at all.

The establishment of a school patrol system requires the co-operation of a large number of organizations and individuals, of the school children themselves, of parents, of teachers, of the city council, the school board and the police commission. The assistance of home and school groups or service clubs would also be desirable, since many communities find that the members of the patrol should be rewarded by an outing for their faithful, unpaid work and since this may not be regarded as a fair charge against the taxpayer.

As for the taxpayer, he would be anxious to know what he was getting for his money. Quite a lot, seems to be the answer. Aid. Douglas Mcnaughton made considerable observation when he expressed doubt that a safety patrol system would be worthwhile, since once a child is away from school he is "on his own." It so happens, however, that what appears reasonable differs from what experience has proven actually occurs. Properly handled, the school safety patrol can acquire immense prestige amongst the young scholars. The boys and girls who are safety patrol members are "big men" — and women - - in their schools. Youngsters there are as eager to "make" the safety patrol as they are to make the baseball team. To do this, they have to give some evidence that they not only know, but observe, the safety rules. Policemen in centres where these patrols have been operating for some time state that the influence of the patrol is evident long after these youngsters have left public school.

Whether these benefits are sufficiently large to justify the expenditure on the patrol depends largely on the amount the patrol costs, and this can vary rather considerably, since a policeman spends all, or most, of his time with the patrol. This is expensive - - and perhaps unnecessary. Some other safety patrols operate with much less supervision. Traffic officers check occasionally to make certain that motorists are co-operating with the patrols, but there is little type of traffic control work which could be undertaken in any case. Besides this, only a few lectures by police officers interfere with their normal duties.

Just what system would be adopted here we do not know, because the proposal has not advanced to the stage where concrete decisions have been put forward. It is proposed that the actual patrol system should not be started until considerable preparatory work on safety instruction starts. This latter proposal looks like common sense, but it is just possible it would not work. Youngsters, like their elders, learn best when they want to learn. What will make them want to learn, and obey, safety rules is the possibility of becoming members of the patrol. If the system is established here, it may be found that patrol work, on streets which are not heavily travelled, will be necessary early in the program to spark and open the ears and minds of those attending instructional classes.

It must, though, is just one of the problems that will have to await the actual establishment of the patrol. Its establishment cannot, and indeed should not, result until many groups and individuals are "sold" on the program. All we are now urging is that experience with the system in other centres suggests that further consideration should be given to the question of adopting such a system here.

"Say, you what my curiosity - - - Why can't I talk to you like that?"

Controlling the Weather

...New York Times.

Charles Dudley Warner's remark, in 1890, that everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it lost part of its validity when the rainmakers started operating some years ago. It will lose even more if the Advisory Committee on Weather Control is right in its forecast that man may learn to control the weather to a certain degree now beyond the imagination. Despite the optimism, it should be noted that the truth is that weather modification is not yet very far advanced. The advocates so far of all the conjecture about all the possibilities in the future certainly that more rain than normal fell in parts of the Western United States during cloud-seeding with such chemicals as silver iodide.

Theoretically, weather scientists agree, nearly every plan for modification is possible. The chief difficulty is that every scheme carries with it the danger of an unfortunate by-product. One scientist has estimated that it will be necessary to melt the poles were melted to influence climate, ocean levels would rise about 100 to 200 feet and would inundate coastal cities all over the world. To modify climate in a harbor designed to turn deserts into lush farmlands would just as surely create new deserts elsewhere of their accustomed quota of rain. The experts agree that the Russians benefit both the United States and Great Ilrs if they could establish a dam across the Bering Strait, but the result might be that New York would wind up with London's accustomed fogs and rain.

Nevertheless, one of the most daring schemes is at the same time among the most immediately practical. It is the Weather Bureau's forthcoming attempt to modify winter storms over the ocean by spraying burning fuel oil on the ocean alongside the storm's leading heat, according to the theory, would change the air circulation in the hurricane's inner edges and thus dampen its fury and change its course. The Weather Bureau concedes, however, that little is known about nature's trickery that the burning oil might merely the hurricane's course in a way not contemplated.

Skeptics, and there are many in the weather control business, point to the hurricane seeding experiments in the Caribbean area when that there is not very much man can do to change the weather. Shortly after that attempt to destroy a hurricane by seeding it with dry ice and with rain-making chemicals, the hurricane perversely veered from the Sea and spent its fury inland. Later studies showed that this storm followed its natural course, and probably remained completely immune to man's preconception man's ambition to control h i s climate and weather may be a v e r y commendable one, but cannot now be foreseen. Henry Thomas Buckle, the nineteenth century British historian and one of the most learned men of his time, held that the modification of man by nature, and of nature by man, is reciprocal. The rapid deforestation of the influence of mountain slopes in relation to the nature on the seasons, and Buckle and Guizot all noted that varying temperatures affect the growth of forest stamp. In cold climates, Buckle said, the mind is active and "fitful and capricious" because the severity of the weather prevents any steady pursuits and renders them "prone to despair of the future." Similarly, in living in hot climates are subject to a certain fickleness and to inability to "calculate" because their daily life is interrupted by storms and by the extremes of the weather. Whatever the truth of these assertions, and despite the necessity of changing the weather, one thing is certain: the first blasting shot it for a long, long time.

Gouzenko Melodrama

Ottawa Journal

On a television program staged in Toronto recently Mr. Igor Gouzenko, hero of the spy scandal of 1946. He wove, for his public appearance, a black hood covering his head and draped upon his shoulders with small strips for his eyes, and the mask, a matter of ceremonies announced that Mr. Gouzenko's further protection his voice was being "electronically distorted" - - a successfully that it was difficult to catch his words.

It was September 5, 1945 when Mr. Gouzenko left his post in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, and carried with him documents which became the basis of prolonged enquiries and of sensational proceedings. Since that time he has been under the protection of the Canadian authorities, living somewhere in this country under assumed name.

We find it highly improbable that the Russians are still interested in this man sufficiently to put him in peril of his life, as just as improbable that the Russians, if bent that way, would not have already would have failed to get their hands on and without too much difficulty.

The cloak-and-dagger atmosphere attending the Mr. Gouzenko's activities after these events is making him the centre of a mystery melodrama may be what is called "good theatre" but we fancy it will raise a good many eyebrows.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR BELIEVE-INS.

Just imagine what an unhappy world this would be if you and I did not have even one solitary human being to love or to believe in, you! But don't worry. The fact that you have a wife, a Mother who is sure to stand by you, a boy or girl who thinks what - - unconditionally. That's the way Mothers do. Many a man has found a true friend in other friend to fall back upon but that famous "man's best friend" - - the dog. But regardless of the fact that great creature cannot talk to us, he expresses himself, and he does in dozens of ways. If his Master dies, he grieves, and will let him to his grave, and will often lie there without food or drink for companion than the one he so much loved in life.

That's a rare and wonderful thing it is for someone to love and believe in us! How otherwise could we get through life on any basis of happiness? On the other hand, what a privilege to believe in someone else. To have the one that one belief that may lift them to the success he most desires.

You see, someone must believe in us if we would hope to be happy and successful career. But we have to turn the tables, believe everyone, thus cementing us into a bond of unity and trust for good will? What an honor it is to be an Canadian, ready to immediately spring to arms volunteer for war or defence, wishing only the welfare and comfort of every human being in t h i s troubled world. The moment you feel even a single person to believe in you, you are then on your way up the big hill!

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BRACE UP

Be important in your own eyes. Is this a suggestion that conceit is not a vice but a virtue? Not at all. It is the very serious suggestion that self-confidence is necessary in the emotional equipment of anyone if success and happiness are desired or attended. For we can be sure that when all is said and done, people's estimate of us will be based largely upon side with the estimate we have of ourselves.

The artist is a ridiculous, self-defeating creature. He struts and pontificates, and the public attitude of him gradually shifts from irritation to amusement. He makes her how skilled he is in any line, people come so seriously to discount him and his efforts that he really, in the end, gets a decidedly raw deal. But heaven knows he deserves it. Self confidence is something else again, and this is an important fact without it, we cannot hope to succeed.

Of course you can do what you should do and what needs to be done. Most people do. Only few are supreme and all-important. This is because they lack in self-philosophy and sound religion.

So brace up. Stop pitying yourself and begin to measure to yourself what you really are - - a person capable of doing a great many times more than you have ever done before; a necessary factor in God's living world and universe.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

URICULATORY TROUBLES CAN BE THE RESULT OF FROSTBITE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I sometime ago my toes were frostbitten. They only hurt at times when I sit for lie down, never when I stand on them. Is there any cure? R.D.E."

Frostbite means the actual freezing of the tissues, and in passing, remember that dampness as well as just the cold is an important factor in causing frostbite. Keep dry.

Frostbite can range from mild (blanching of the affected toes, fingers, ears etc.) to very severe, resulting in gangrene. In corresponding degree, it takes considerable time for the injury to the frozen parts to recover, and they remain unusually susceptible to cold for a long time afterwards.

Now whether R.D.E's trouble is from the frostbite or whether some unrelated disturbances in circulation are involved, is impossible to say, just from the letter. However, circulatory troubles can result in the sort of thing he describes, and the exercise of walking may be enough stimulation so that the pain becomes apparent only when he is at rest and the circulation is somewhat less brisk. (Excessive use of tobacco, and susceptible to disease are factors which may be factors in slowed-down circulation.)

Simple measures to stimulate the circulation consist of massage of the feet on retiring, and wearing wool socks to bed. Exercising the feet after supper or on retiring have helped some people — your doctor can prescribe some-thing like a 3-grain dosage.

"PAIN OF WRITERS CRAMP"

If, as is also the case sometimes, the trouble stems from a rather severe injury to the nerves, you still may find it quite possible to get relief. This assumes that the arteries, for one reason or another, become tense and tight. You can see that the blood must affect the circulation.

As they constrict, they reduce the blood flow and when the circulation is insufficient, you get pain. Massage, however, however, don't "just guess" that that's the trouble. (Yes, I know — in one of my readers' letters.) Consult your physician. It's for your doctor to determine whether spasm is occuring, and if so, there are drugs which relieve it. The type of drug, and the dosage, however, is for him to select.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I missed my monthly period this week, but I had a nosebleed a couple of times. Am I pregnant? — Mrs. P. G."

I can't tell whether anything wrong — nosebleed may occur normally at the time of menstruation, and is called vicarious menstration.

Missing a period is always likely evidence of pregnancy for a woman who is usually regular. Don't worry about the nosebleed, but if you miss another cycle, see your doctor.'

"Dear Dr. Molner: My family is having an argument on tapeworm. How long do they grow? Do they have heads or mouths? Are they extremely dangerous? Are they liable to get you as well as humans? — S. H."

"Tapeworm" applies to a lot of varieties. The common tapeworm may grow to about 14 feet. Some of the varieties have the fish tapeworm which can grow to 60 feet. Yes, feet, and they can live a good while they seldom cause death, they can sap the life of so much nourishment that they weaken general resistance, and so on. Tapeworms are nothing likely to be in semi-tropical lands. Most of the cases occur in animals as well as humans.

Are you considering the removal of your child's tonsils? If so, remember that for a purpose, and this is explained in my pamphlet "Tonsils and Their Function." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this paper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume receiving daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

CHAMPLAIN

Although it is common knowledge that the great French explorer Samuel de Champlain was the first white man to visit the Quinte district (1615), it is not known whether he landed at the site of the present city of Belleville.

In his detailed history of the city published in 1943, W. C. Mikel began with the statement: "Let Champlain discover the site, but six pages later he reduced this positive statement to a supposition.

Mr. Mikel noted that as this locality "appears to have been an active Indian centre the assumption is made that he did stop at this point, probably to gather more Indians to his fighting — and to bury more dead on the journey."

The presence of an Indian burying ground was later substantiated by early surveyors. Then Champlain gives a description in his journal of having visited the site. Nevertheless, the recently discovered Champlain map of 1616 indicates that the explorer was at least familiar with the presence of a river in the general vicinity of the Moira.

Champlain's trip through the Bay of Quinte was made in 1615 as he was passing down the Trent River system with a force of Huron Indians on his way to attack the Iroquois south of Lake Ontario.

His description of the land in the vicinity of the lower Trent is worthy of quotation here:

"It is certain that all this country is very fine and of pleasing character. Along the shores one would think the trees had been planted for ornament in most places. Moreover all these regions is thickly peopled by these savages, who have since been compelled to abandon them on account of their enemies. Vines and walnut trees are found there in great quantity, but there remains always a very abundant aridity and these fields in the throat after eating many of them. This arises from the lack of cultivation. The cleared portion of these regions is quite considerable.

"As to game, it is in great abundance in the forests. There are many cranes as white as swans, and other kinds of birds resembling those of France."

Editor's Note: Articles ten to twenty in this series have been prepared by Miss Gerald E. Boyle, teacher of history at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A new restaurant becomes popular partly because of good food, but also because it is a nice roomy place in which to sit and get jammed in, as in a bleachers. The next tables are so decent distance from yours. You are not afraid of knocking somebody else's plate of food into your left ear. . . then you wriggle your way between the tables. You do not have to concentrate in order to disentangle your table companion's conversation from that of the adjoining tables.

Food, yes. In new restaurants, the food is usually good. It is the space and comfort that are most attractive.

But as soon as its popularity is established, the restaurant opens and finds it has to add tables. They shove the existing tables a little closer together, and then another whole new row along the back. Just about the time it becomes the most popular place in town, it has lost its chief charm.

The classic rule in business is: "Get it while the getting is good".

But the best restaurant I have ever been in, in London, England, had forty-two tables when it opened, and has forty-two now, twenty years later. And it is so popular you have to be known to the proud old man who owns it, before you can get telephone in sure of a table, a day ahead.

CHOICE

Don't want riches, don't want fame;
Rather take an honored name,
Rather pass and leave behind
Traces that my hands were kind.

Than die the richest man on earth
With only gold to prove my worth.

Don't care if I never win
This great struggle I am in,
Just so long as men shall say
I was fair from day to day;
Rather fail than grab the crown,
Trampling truth and honor down.

Gold and fame are fine to see,
But if they shall come to me
They must pass beside my door
Bringing with them something more;
They must bring their treasures lined
With the proof that I've been kind.

Says Quebec Has Lieutenants Govt. Needs

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has given Quebec voters a veiled promise of increased representation in the federal cabinet if they swing strongly to the support of his Progressive Conservative party on March 31.

"You have it in your power . . . to surround me with the talented lieutenants I need to direct the destinies of our country," he said here Wednesday night.

He underlined the suggestion by stating "I know that you understand me well when I say this."

Mr. Diefenbaker, who was criticized by the Liberals when he appointed to his cabinet no more than three of the nine Quebec conservatives elected last year, said:

"You must send a large group of Conservative members to the Parliament of the nation.

"Whoever is at the helm needs the cooperation of numerous associates and I hope that the province of Quebec will participate actively in the administration of our country."

The statement was made as he spoke in French for 12 minutes of a 34-minute speech. It brought the loudest applause he received at evening from an overflow crowd of more than 1,200 in the recreation centre of this city of 27,000 population.

He dropped other hints of possible government action as he campaigned in the heart of the lower St. Lawrence River area. At nearby Mont Joli in the afternoon before 450 persons, he promised "the very warmest consideration" to building a 47-mile railway line into the Gaspe Peninsula.

The area has been pressing for the extension northeast from Matane to Ste. Anne des Monts of an existing 40-mile spur which runs from Mont Joli to Matane.

Mr. Diefenbaker called the proposal "the type of project that should receive first consideration in any national development program."

And in his speech here he referred to a subject of prime interest to district farmers who get much of their income from cutting pulpwood on farm lots.

He said he hopes that an advisory board which will help administer the government's new farm price supports program will consider including farmer - produced pulpwood under the program.

Today, Mr. Diefenbaker travels by train and plane to Charlottetown for the first of three Maritime speeches in as many days.

On the platform here Wednesday night, he received the support of Quebec Fisheries Minister Camille Pouliot, legislature member for Gaspe South.

Mr. Pouliot said that former Liberal MPs are fleeing the election battle because they do not have confidence in Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson. He predicted Conservative victories in all 44 constituencies in the area on the lower St. Lawrence south shore.

WON 2 OF 6

Of the six, Conservatives last year won two from the Liberals by narrow margins and came within 743 votes of winning a third. However, in one of the other three there was no Conservative candidate last year. In the other two the party trailed well behind the Liberals.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his government has given young people greater opportunities than has any other government.

Of 60 Conservative candidates nominated to date in Quebec, he said six are under 30 years of age and 36 are under 40 years. There were at least eight mayors among the candidates.

Would Reserve Montreal Mart For Western Oil

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Lester B. Pearson has pledged to Canadian producers that as prime minister he would turn over the rich Montreal market to them if the United States continued to restrict oil imports from Canada.

In his first major enunciation of party policy on energy, the Liberal leader told an attentive audience of 1,500 in the University of Alberta auditorium Wednesday night that a Liberal government would not tolerate American curbs on Canadian oil.

The key statement in his speech was this:

"If Washington will not modify its present attitude with respect to importation of Canadian oil, if the American government insists on placing restrictions on such importation and thus damaging and retarding the national development of a vitally important industry in a friendly neighbor country, then we, in Canada, will have to consider necessary steps to move oil from Western Canada into the big market centring on Montreal."

IMPORTS OIL

The Montreal district at present is served by imports from Venezuela and to some minor extent from the Middle East. For some time it has been debated in Canada whether western oil could compete economically with imports at Montreal.

The emphasis on this controversy has increased with the U.S. imposition of a curb of 15 per cent on oil imports on the ground the U.S. must first ensure its own domestic industry in cases of emergency.

Mr. Pearson argued that the U.S. wanted to consider Canada as part of her continental oil defence system, "but there should not be one set of rules or policy when it comes to merging the Canadian and American air forces for the defence of this continent and another set of rules or principles when it comes to deciding which country's oil fields are to be developed in order to ensure adequate sources of supply in case of emergencies."

To apply these curbs to Canada was "ridiculous."

"Among other things, it makes nonsense out of the argument so often advanced in Washington — that defence must be considered as continental, not national. You can't have it both ways: Integration of defence and exclusion of products that make for defence.

"From the standpoint of the defence of North American continent, surely it makes no difference whether oil fields are developed in Canada or in the U.S."

Mr. Pearson spoke on energy policy in this heart of Canada's oil and natural gas production, climaxing a strenuous day of campaigning in and around the area.

Arriving by air from Vancouver, he immediately moved out by motorcade to nearby Stony Plain, a noon rally of more than 500 persons that the northern Alberta farming community was "pretty close to the front lines" for a third and "last" world war broke out.

He hoped to offer major splints to Canada's post-war farming problems but wanted to be "pretty sure of what I am saying" before he made any firm pronouncements. He did not want to raise farmers in a position where they produced more surpluses than could be sold abroad.

Later, addressing some 1,000 University of Alberta students, the former external affairs minister said he believed there should be secret, firm diplomatic negotiations in the "valley" before a world summit meeting was held.

Monetary Reform Said Only Way To Keep Pledges

EDMONTON (CP) — Two Social Credit leaders accused the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals of political dishonesty and trickery in the campaign for the March 31 federal election.

Only Social Credit through its monetary-reform ideas, said National Leader Solon Low and Alberta Premier E. C. Manning, will give people what the other parties are promising—increased expenditures and lower taxes.

Mr. Low and Mr. Manning addressed a meeting of the party. They addressed more than 200 persons who filled a hotel meeting room for the Edmonton-Strathcona constituency nominating meeting Wednesday night, which chose Sydney Thompson to seek re-election in the riding.

"Both old-line parties are resorting to the crankest political dishonesty in their appeals in this election campaign," Mr. Manning said.

"Both parties are promising vast increases in expenditures and both also are saying they are going to reduce taxation. This cannot be done under the present monetary system to which both parties cling.

"This seeming paradox is not impossible. It can have increased expenditures without higher taxation, but not without monetary reform."

Mr. Manning said that "under proper management of the credit of this nation," expansion and development can be carried out without saddling the country with high taxes and huge debt.

"These things are necessary for successful operation of society — resources, people and money. "We have never had any trouble with the first two. The only monetary issue is the one where there is trouble. Social Credit has to do with currency alone . . . the revival of that basic problem."

Mr. Low said Social Credit has a "positive" by which it could inject new money into the economy where it would make the most difference—in the hands of the consumer. This would be done through the Bank of Canada, controlled by Parliament.

Consumers, who added purchasing power would increase demand for goods and services, would increase production, which would increase employment, putting more money into the hands of consumers.

"This would be coupled with certain safeguards against inflation—which can be done — and your monetary problems would cost," Mr. Low said.

Mr. Manning said the two older parties have clouded the issues in the campaign because both are "obsessed" with the desire to get into office.

Economic Facts Of Job Situation Being Ignored

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)—The Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are too busy trying to blame each other for unemployment that the economic facts of the situation are being "sadly ignored," says CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell.

Campaigning for the March 31 federal general election, Mr. Coldwell said Wednesday night:

"The fact is that periodic large-scale unemployment is an integral and continuing part of the type of unplanned economy to which both old-line parties are wedded and unless a fundamentally new approach is taken, unemployment will continue to plague the economy.

"So it is time to cut through the smoke-screen, to put an end to the political trickery.

"Nothing less than a fundamental reorganization of the economy, nothing less than a program of social and economic planning by public agencies, democratically controlled through Parliament will suffice to deal with the situation."

"ONLY THE CCF PROGRAM"

Mr. Coldwell said only the CCF program is designed to do that.

"Therefore the CCF is the only real alternative, the only alternative that is considered by those who are blind of vision and bankrupt of ideas."

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker, "in an exhibition of cheap demagogy, tried to put an economic survey prepared by civil servants for the confidential information of the former Liberal government last spring.

He had accused the Liberals of suppressing the report. "Then he turned around and refuses to release similar reports on the current economic situation which have been prepared for the Conservative government."

On the Liberal side, the Liberals now had produced a program that they had consistently voted against when in government.

Mr. Coldwell's remarks were based on the text of excerpts of his speech, issued to the press before delivery.

CITES "FLAWS"

The CCF leader said the two "deep-seated flaws" in Canada's present economy—flaws which are real producers get too small a share of the national income and too little investment in "parasitic and unplanned and is directed toward the private profits of a few instead of the service of the people."

To put these correct that situation, a CCF government would impose a tax on unearned profits made by stock speculators and eliminate the deduction from income tax of 20 per cent of dividends from Canadian corporations received by ordinary stockholders.

It would establish a national investment board "to maintain a steady flow of investment and to direct investment into socially desirable channels." Combines and monopolies must come under effective control.

Local Artist Demonstrates Art of Painting

A demonstration of painting was given by Mr. Manly MacDonald, ARCA, CSGA, at the Arts and Crafts Club general meeting and local art exhibit on Wednesday evening, at King George school.

Before the demonstration, a short business meeting was held and the president, Mrs. Eric Whitfield, announced the names of those who had pictures chosen to represent Belleville in the East Central Ontario Travelling Art Display.

The pictures, which were selected from a large number of entries by two local art teachers, Mr. M. Smyrlakis and Mr. J. Stitchley, included three scenes, three portraits and two still lifes. There was a view of some boat-houses and boats at Belleville harbor by Mrs. Hugh Murray; a scene at the "Scuttle Hole" on the Moira River by Mrs. Walter; a water scene painted from Cape Breton Island by Ken Gilhand; three portraits, a woman by Matt Subess, an elderly gentleman by John Whalen, and a young boy by Mrs. D. Cain; a still life of a bowl of fruit and a jug by Mrs. Lew Andrews, and a semi-abstract done with palette knife by Mrs. Thornton Brown.

After being introduced by Mr. Charlie MacKenzie, Mr. Macdonald proceeded to demonstrate how he goes about painting a picture, explaining the reasons for various things as he went along, and answering questions from the audience. Mr. Macdonald has a reputation for planning his compositions carefully, then applying the paint quickly. This was evident in his demonstration. Using as another of his paintings for a subject, the blank canvas was quickly transformed into a beautiful picture.

Bridge Street United J.E.A. Studies "Japan"

The regular monthly meeting of the "Jubilee Evening Auxiliary" was held in the S. S. auditorium with a good attendance enjoying the delicious supper served by Miss Grace Tucker, Mrs. Radway and their group.

Miss Joy Nichol supply secretary, requested donations of bright colored material, ribbon, children's baby clothes to be sent to India these, to be brought for the May meeting.

Mrs. Betty Colden gave an interesting message on the meaning of Christian Stewardship.

Miss Fay Young took the program in Miss Tickell's absence.

The worship service was taken by Miss Joy Nichol, the theme being, "The Second Mile". Mrs. Effie McCabe led in prayer and the Scripture lesson was read by Miss Nichol from second Philippians 19-30.

Rev. P. M. McMullen, former missionary to Korea, introduced the study book on Japan. During Mrs. McMullen's introduction, she told of the Japanese love of beauty in every day things, and how they tried to create it all about them. She displayed many of the exports of Japan and also some of the imports they required from other countries.

Mention was made of the "World Convention" meeting in Toyko in 1958, following this informative introduction, Mrs. MacMullen and Miss Pearl Campbell gave a dialogue "This is Japan", which gave a further insight on Japan and their great love of literature, painting, music, flower arrangements and drama.

Miss Nichol thanked Mrs. McMullen on behalf of the group, for sharing her happy associations with the auxiliary,

Intelligence, Personality W.S.G. Topic

Women's Study Guild met for the February meeting as guest of Mrs. Harold Seldon, Bleecker Avenue.

The short business session, presided over by Mrs. G. Williamson, reported a number of interesting study topics for the remaining months of the year, which will culminate in the annual supper meeting on June. To this meeting each member was asked to be prepared to bring as old an article as possible and to tell something of its history.

A worship service, conducted by Mrs. George Wishart, prepared the way for the subject of the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Ingrid Bateman, was introduced to the Guild by Mrs. Fry. She gave an insight into the complicated process of assessing intelligence and personality. Mrs. Bateman spoke in an easy, interesting manner as she told of the various tests used by psychologists employed by such agencies as Boards of Education and Children's Aid Societies. These tests have been worked out and tested until they are a pretty sure measure of capacity and useful in finding personality problems as well. They can be given successfully to an infant of two months to a mature adult with standards of measurement for each stage between.

In informal questions and answers Mrs. Bateman helped many of the members to a better understanding of what to expect of children at various stages of their education and life.

Mrs. J. A. Buchanan and Mrs. Lockyer were hostesses for the tea hour.

India's System Of Education Told to B.P.W.

St. Thomas parish house was the setting Monday night for the annual International Night Candlelight Ceremonial of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club. Impressive in its simplicity, inspirational in its text, members lit tapers representing those countries which comprise the International Federation, as Mrs. Dorothy Brown, past president, narrated the history of the federation, assisted by past president Simone McFadden.

Six new members were initiated by membership chairman Florence Fitzgerald, who introduced each to the members and guests present, and presented each with a corsage, copies of the club constitution an club pins.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker for the occasion was Mr. Orville Matthews, a native of Bombay and Calcutta, India, now the mathematics teacher at Quinte Secondary school.

Beginning with the introduction of education into India by the English some 300 years ago, Mr. Matthews traced the development of the system through the years, and compared the system now in effect with those in England and Canada. In spite of the great area which Canadians travel, the school system takes 13 years to complete the comparative education which, in England and India, takes 12 years.

He believes that the future depends on the training and education of today's children, and that education is the solution to a country's ills. Injection of humor into his remarks, Mr. Matthews held the rapt attention of his audience to the conclusion of his talk.

Introduced by Mrs. Irene Rainey, the speaker was thanked by Mrs. Vi Burwash. The meeting was under the chairmanship of the president, Miss Hilda Collier.

Lobster Talk

by Mary Moore

Ever since my return from the Maritimes I have dreamed of lobster-broiled, Newburg, Thermidor, sandwiches — anyway, I consulted my fish dealer to discover that what he had to offer were boiled and averaged less than 1 pound each in size.

I found P.E.I. lobster in tins containing 5 ozs.-drained weight, 85c per can.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Home Corned Brisket Beef and Cabbage; Mustard Relish; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Celery and Tomato Jelly Moulds with Boiled Dressing; Easy Frosty Dessert (see Wednesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Chilled Grapefruit Juice; Roast Pork Loin (try it smoked if you can buy it in your community); Hot Spiced Applesauce; Pan Roasted Parsnip Chunks; Brussels Sprouts; Head Lettuce Wedges and Sliced Radishes With Roquefort Dressing; Delicious Pudding (see Saturday); Coffee.

So for a birthday dinner party for my sister Peady on Saturday I decided to serve Lobster Newburg on shells as a posh first course. It was a success for on Monday morning she telephoned to me for the recipe. She said to tell my readers in her opinion no very dishes were more welcome than sweets for evening snacks. She had two guests coming from out of town for the evening and could do no better than repeat the Lobster Newburg of Saturday night accompanied by hot tea biscuits.

If your budget can stand the strain of an extravagant spree for a first course for a dinner party, or the only course last thing at night (or naturally a main dish at a guest meal on a Friday), for a sensational change serve.

LOBSTER NEWBURG:

Three tablespoons butter, 2 5-oz. cans drained lobster meat (or cooked fresh), ¼ teaspoon each nutmeg, paprika, 3 egg yolks, 1 cup cream. Melt butter in the top of a double boiler, add lobster and cook over direct low heat for 2 minutes. Add seasonings, and place over hot water. Beat the egg yolks slightly, add cream and mix well. Add this mixture gradually to the lobster and cook, stirring until thickened. Serve at once on toast or in patty shells or natural sea shells. Serves 4 to 6.

NOTE 1:

As you know, sherry — 2 table spoons — is optional in Newburg.

NOTE 2:

This lobster mixture may be returned to lobster shells or put into individual casseroles, sprinkled with buttered soft bread crumbs, and browned under the broiler.

A simpler dish in which either lobster or crab may be used is Lobster Hollandaise: Melt 2 tablespoons butter, and in it gently sauté 1 tablespoon finely chopped celery and 1 teaspoon finely chopped green onion tops, for 3 minutes. Stir in 2 tablespoons corn starch, and when blended, 1 cup rich milk and 1 teaspoon lemon juice until thick. Add 1 cup broken up lobster or crabmeat, ¼ teaspoon salt and yolk of 1 egg, beaten. Heat through and serve on toast points.

Sweet Dreams

By TRACY ADRIAN

Little ladies will love this pretty nightgown inspired by the granny gowns of the 1890's.

This one is beruffled, with a bodice yoke smocked and gathered for easy movement, small puffed sleeves and a ruffled hem. Of all-nylon, brushed, sleep-wear tricot, it comes in pink and blue.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a marriage counsellor, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by respectable agencies and counsellors.

Martin T. — The diamond's too big!

Leona F. — I'm no display piece.

Martin T. — Someone's crazy, either my fiancee or me.

"I gave Leona the most beautiful diamond engagement ring I could find. Was she happy? No. Why? It's too big.

Leona says she would rather put the money into a home, securities, "something solid." But I told her there's nothing perfectly solid in this world — diamonds are a pretty good investment. Besides, they look nice.

It happens that I have been quite successful in business in the past few years and I can well afford to provide Leona with all the other worthwhile things she wants. The ring takes nothing away. Why is she so silly?

Leona F. — I told Martin many times that I don't like expensive jewelry and furs and things he thinks are so terrific. I don't think you need such things to be well dressed and I don't like to knock people's eyes out every time I expose my hand. It embarrasses me.

I know that Martin likes me to flash the ring around so his business associates will sit up and take notice. If he feels that way, he can wear a diamond himself. I have no objection. I don't want to be used as a display piece.

My personal friends all tell me I'm crazy, but I can't help the way I feel about things.

The Council: Diamonds are some girl's best friends, but we don't think a girl necessarily has rocks in the head if she rejects the friendship of rocks on the hand.

Leona says she told Martin that expensive jewelry and furs were not to her liking, yet he went ahead and bought her a superring.

Why?

Well, it could be that Martin sees the ring as a symbol of h i s great love and of all the things he wants to give Leona — of how he wants to protect her and care for her. But if this were the case, we suspect that Leona would understand and would be more willing to compromise on the subject of her taste.

Leona says that Martin likes her to flash the ring around for the benefit of his business associates. We doubt whether s h e would get this impression if it weren't communicated to h e r quite strongly by Martin. We are not questioning Martin's love for Leona, but we do get the impression that he also sees his prospective wife as an object for the display of his position in the world.

Many women would fit into this role quite happily. They would enjoy both the diamonds and the fact that they have been chosen to display them. So we can't see why Martin should choose to make this particular girl miserable by inflicting them on her and we can't see why Laura should spoil a rich man's fun when she could make a more modest provider very happy.

Far be it from us to want to sabotage Cupid's work, but we do think this couple ought to consider all of the issues involved in their very strong clash of values. Maybe there was some kind of mix-up about Cupid's arrows.

BETHEL - RAWDON M.B.

RAWDON — Miss Janet Ann Fletcher and her mother, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, were hostesses at Rawdon parsonage on Saturday afternoon for the regular meeting of Bethel - Rawdon Mission Band.

The president, Miss Margaret Mulheron, was in charge.

A brief service of worship followed, and the Bible lesson found in Revelations "Behold I stand at the door and knock."

Miss Shirley Cooney, a student at Teachers' College, Peterborough, gave an interesting flannelgraph story based on this theme. She pictured Jesus standing at the door and urged the children to listen to His voice and obey his commands in their own everyday lives. She gave several worthwhile pieces of advice, and all of the children had a chance to participate in placing the Bible extracts on the chart.

This worship closed with "Let the Sun Shine In."

The secretary, Miss Janet Ann Fletcher, presented her report and gave the roll call.

The treasurer, Miss Judy Reid, gave a full report of the finances and she also read a story re "adopting an orphan."

Miss Elizabeth Prenter contributed a piano solo.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, literature secretary of Belleville Presbyterial, was introduced by the leader, Mrs. John Mulheron.

Mrs. MacMullen congratulated the Bethel girls on their year's work, and presented the president, Miss Margaret Mulheron with the Presbyterial star which was their second year award. This was placed on their certificate, which they received last year.

Mrs. MacMullen gave a brief picture of what had been accomplished in the Methodist days when the late Mrs. Robert Pounder was in charge of a group of nine girls at Mount Pleasant. She also spoke briefly regarding "The Study on Japan" and books of interest.

The story of "Zambi," a little Eskimo boy, was read by Miss S. Cooney.

The meeting closed with short prayers by the children themselves, after which Janet and her mother served refreshments.

The group also enjoyed a short recreational period.

A vote of thanks was given for hospitality and to the visitors Miss Cooney and Mrs. MacMullen.

STUDENT WINS DAMAGES

OTTAWA (CP) — Gerald Patrick Peskett, 14, was awarded $1,933 damages Wednesday as the result of a gas explosion last April at Fisher Park High School in which he suffered severe face and arm burns and three fractured toes. The award was made to the minor and his father, Sidney George Peskett, in an out-of-court settlement.

Mother Feted By Surprise Birthday Party

A most pleasant suprise birthday party was held recently at the home of Mrs. Edward Ethier, 23 Pinnacle street, when more than thirty including her sons and daughters, grandchildren and their wives and intimate friends assembled.

During the evening an appropriate gift was presented to the mother from the children while the grandchildren presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Although taken by surprise, Mrs. Ethier thanked all for the gifts and the sentiment behind the party for her.

The gathering enjoyed a full course turkey dinner with all the trimmings and an evening at playing cards and reminiscing over old times.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

AFTERNOON PARTY FOR "SORORITY FRIENDS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to have a reun... of my "Sorority Friends." We ... group of girls in our town ... and we haven't been able to get together for some time.

(1) To invite the girls I would like to send out written invitations for a Sunday afternoon soon, from 3-to-5, at my home; then add "R.s.v.p." with my telephone number as I would like to know how many are coming. Would this be proper?

(2) What would be appropriate to serve at this party? — Reader

(1) If you write your invitations on your visiting-cards or to-fold mats or semi-engraved cards (as, for example, tea-invitations) then it is proper for you to add the "R.s.v.p." with your telephone number for your guests' convenience. But if you write notes of invitation it is not correct to add the "R.s.v.p." but instead to incorporate this request in your note; for example, "Do telephone me (Main 1:2345) and give me the happy news that you can come!"

(2) A simple tea-menu is suitable for these hours: small, slim sandwiches of simple fillings, or perhaps small round open sandwiches and or canapes; small cakes, pelits fours perhaps, and or interesting cookies, tea and or coffee (today coffee is usually offered as an alternative to tea); mints or other candies, if you wish.

SHOULD WOMEN GUESTS AT WEDDING WEAR CORSAGES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion we are having? My friend Mrs. A. who loves to wear corsages, insists that it is correct for a woman guest at a wedding to wear a corsage if she wishes to. But I have always thought that only the very close relatives of the bride and groom should wear corsages. Who is right about this? — Reader

You are right. Customarily corsages are worn only by close relatives to whom the groom has sent these flowers . . . the bride's mother, the groom's mother, grandmothers, perhaps sisters. (Sometimes the groom sends a corsage to the bride's godmother, for her to wear at the wedding.)

SATURDAY BREAKFAST PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think it would be proper for me to plan to give a shower for a dear friend of mine, and my co-worker also, at a late-breakfast hour on a Saturday morning? I would like to invite only the group of girls with whom we both work and have worked for several years. All of us like foods that are served for breakfast better than the usual luncheon foods, and I do believe it would be a luxury for us to have time for a leisurely breakfast before the opening of the shower gifts. But I've never heard of this kind of ... and I'm wondering if I ... to suggest it. — Terry

It's a wonderful plan you have in mind, and indeed in good taste. I'm sure your breakfast-loving co-workers will be enchanted to be invited to this kind of shower-party rather than the usual luncheon-in-a-restaurant shower or ... hurried tea-party.

NICKNAME NOT CORRECT ON FORMAL CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My name is Margaret, but I am always called "Peggy" by everyone — my family, relatives, friends, schoolmates. In a month or two I am going to have some personal cards engraved (gift from my parents), for use at my June Commencement-time. Would it be at all proper for me to use "Peggy" on these cards, instead of "Margaret"? — Peggy L.

No. The name on this card (a formal item) should be your correct name. No nickname is permissible on a visiting-card. Correct form of your name: Miss Margaret Lane.

"THE MOTHERS" SHOULD WEAR HATS AT CHURCH WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is being married in church at a 4 o'clock wedding. It is not to be a really formal wedding, nor is it to be entirely informal. We would like to know if the bride's mother and the groom's mother should wear hats? — F. B.

Yes.

PROPER TO HAVE THIS SMALL WEDDING BREAKFAST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance's father died two months ago. We had made all our plans for a large, formal wedding, but now of course we have changed them to a small one and are to be married in the small chapel of our church with only our attendants and the members of the two families present. Would it be proper to have a breakfast, after the ceremony, for these guests? — D. M.

Yes, this would be entirely proper.

Appeal Court Makes No Change In Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has upheld a 10-year sentence for a convicted armed bank robber and said it does not consider 10 years "in these circumstances as severe."

Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach delivered the judgment Tuesday in an appeal brought by Richard Lehmann, who pleaded guilty to the armed robbery last month of a downtown branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank. He was captured by an accountant who chased him down the street.

In one of the court's strongest public statements in recent years, Mr. Justice Roach said anyone with a loaded weapon who threatens to rob is "a potential murderer."

"We do not regard 10 years in these circumstances as severe."

RECORD UNIMPORTANT

He said it made no difference that it was a first offence. Sitting with Mr. Justice Roach in the appeal case were Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay and Mr. Justice R. G. Morden.

Lehmann was sentenced by Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow.

"Leave to appeal was granted in this case not because it was thought worthy of appeal but so that the court could go publicly on record in respect of the sentences that can be expected to be supported by this court," Mr. Justice Roach said.

PLANNED OFFENCE

"Even the circumstances of not having a previous record, in our opinion, do not make the sentence unduly severe. It is a crime that receives planning, not one carried out on the spur of the moment or some stress of passion. In the circumstances of this case the sentence, if anything, is on the lenient side."

Lehmann appealed against his sentence on the ground police offered him an inducement to plead guilty by telling him he would get three years for the offence. He also appealed on the grounds that although a first offender, the magistrate said he was using him to make an example of anyone trying an armed robbery and that he was not told by the magistrate he could have a lawyer under free legal aid.

EARLY VISIT

BELL ISLAND, Nfld. (CP)— Four Canada geese alighted for a short stay here before heading northwest, the first time residents recalled seeing them in January. It was believed the mild winter is allowing the birds to wander at will.

Profiles of Party Leaders

Lester B. Pearson

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Lester Bowles (Mike) Pearson is essentially a practical idealist, willing to give some ground, but bold and determined to fight zealously for the things he believes in. Now the bearded Nobel peace prize winner faces one of his greatest tests.

Elected national liberal leader only two weeks before the next federal general election was fixed for March 31, he is striving to pull his party together, reorganize and "reform" it and regain its political power.

On his performance in the current election campaign may depend the destiny of a party that held power in Canada for 22 continuous years, until it was beaten by another rookie leader, Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of the Progressive Conservatives, in last June's election.

TOUGH TASK

"You can't reorganize a party in a few weeks and that's all I've had," Mr. Pearson recently told a reporter. "But it's going to be a good fight because we have something to fight for."

The thing that has impressed him most is that there is "lots of new enthusiasm, lots of new spirit" in the party.

Political opponents have said it will be Mr. Pearson's destiny to lead the Liberals into oblivion, but he just laughs at this.

No matter what the outcome on the polls, "it will be a stronger party after the election than it was before," he said.

Mr. Pearson's idealism, and its practical side, showed in the way he handled delicate world issues as Canada's external affairs minister. And his boldness showed on Jan. 15 when he accepted nomination for the Liberal leadership with these words: "Liberalism means reform and I hope always to be a reformer."

Under him, he said, the emphasis of party organization would be on youth "and its energy and idealism."

Summing up his own "faith" in Liberalism, he said that among his beliefs are a united Canada, yet loyal born of narrower nationalism; full employment, striving to end recessions and depressions; an increase in social security.

Among the new party policies he enunciated at a platform-unveiling press conference Feb. 10 was one calling for a national board to plan among other things, "programs for long-term investment."

All this could mean that Mr. Pearson may be planning to move his party just a little left of its long-held "centre of the road." Mr. Pearson agrees that the proposed long-term investment board may appeal to some CCF supporters.

The Toronto-born leader, son and grandson of Methodist ministers, slipped into politics partly by accident and partly by design. From First World War army private and pilot, he had moved on to become a Chicago meat factory clerk, a semi-professional baseball player in Ontario, a history professor at Toronto and a diplomat.

MAGNETIC PERSONALITY

In September, 1948, on his appointment as external affairs minister in the former liberal government, reporters asked him when he became a liberal.

"Today," he replied with a grin. His is an impish, boyish grin, part of a magnetic personality that has made him a well-known figure in many countries.

Mr. Pearson may be a philosophical idealist but he's not a pastorial one. He has an addiction for bowties but not striped pants. His suits are usually rumpled, partly because of his habit of hooking one leg over an office swivel-chair and leaning back informally as he thinks out some problem or talks with a caller.

He is a keen sports fan, often using some sports phraseology to convey international ideas. At some important functions he is apt to slip away to a radio set to catch the latest score on some football, baseball or hockey game.

FRIENDLY AND WITTY

He has a friendly, witty way of talking, even with his political enemies. It was only after he emerged as Liberal leader Jan. 16 that he started employing tough language against his opponents.

A father and grandfather, he lives quietly with his Winnipeg-born wife, Maryon, in an apartment in Ottawa's residential district.

After becoming party leader, reporters asked why he didn't move into Stornoway, the luxury home provided for the Commons Opposition leader in suburban Rockcliffe. Mr. Pearson replied that he didn't want to move twice, indicating confidence that he will be moving into the prime minister's residence at 24 Sussex Street after March 31.

Mr. Pearson entered public service in 1928 when he joined the external affairs department. He went to London in 1935 as an assistant to the Canadian high commissioner and returned to Ottawa in 1941 as assistant undersecretary for external affairs.

SERVED IN WASHINGTON

From 1942 to 1946 he served in Washington, first as minister counsellor, then minister and finally, in 1944, he was appointed Canada's ambassador to the United States. Two years later he was undersecretary for external affairs, remaining as the department's No. 2 man until 1948 when he became a cabinet minister.

He was chairman of the NATO council in 1951-52 and served as president of the United Nations General Assembly in 1952-53. At various times he was mentioned for the secretary-generalship of both NATO and the UN. In 1956, he was one of NATO's so-called "wise men" — a committee of himself, Foreign Minister Lange of Norway and then Foreign Minister Martino of Italy, formed to recommend means of strengthening NATO in the non-military fields.

But his greatest acclaim came last Oct. 14 when he was awarded the 1957 Nobel peace prize for his efforts in getting the UN to adopt his proposal for a United Nations Emergency Force, which ended the Israeli-Egyptian war.

He still is striving for his ideal in this field, the creation of a permanent UN police force to put out military brushfires before they turn into holocausts.

Confidence in his product is shown by Dr. Marvin Averbrook as, left, he swallows 18 grains of seconol, enough to put him to sleep for a long, long time. Lax Enforcement Of Law Charged In Kohler Strike

By G. MILTON KELLY

KOHLER, Wis. (AP)—Charges of lax law enforcement in the face of picket-line violence were made here on striking today in the United States Senate investigation of the Kohler strike.

The Senate rackets committee's public hearings already have set off a long-range row in which Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep. Ariz.), a committee member, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, called each other cowards and hypocrites.

The committee is seeking to determine whether the Kohler bathroom fixtures at Kohler, Wis., or the UAW is to blame for violent acts in their 68 months strike dispute. The company and union each has accused the other, and conflicts developed even in the first day's testimony Wednesday.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) today called Theodore Moench, former sheriff of Sheboygan County, Wis., in which the Kohler plant lies, for questioning about testimony that Mosch was "dragging his heels on law enforcement" and favoring the strikers back in 1954.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he would question him about testimony given Wednesday that the union engaged in violent mass picketing about the plant, and that the company had acquired an illegal arsenal even before the strike started over a contract dispute.

Man Awarded Damages for Promise Breach

DUBLIN (AP) — The High Court Wednesday awarded £144 breach of promise damages to a man who said his fiancee kept putting off their wedding day for 11 years.

"What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," said Judge Cahir Davitt, explaining it didn't matter whether such a suit was filed by a man or a woman. The judge also ordered that the man be paid back the £641 he had spent during the prolonged courtship.

Thomas Nolan, 55, an agricultural contractor, said it was in May, 1943, that he first popped the question and Teresa Kelly, now 39, said "yes." He testified that he kept putting him off until their final break after the harvest season of 1954.

DIES IN CLASSROOM

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Joseph Dantzer, 54, teacher at St. Clement's Separate School, died Tuesday in a classroom. Born in Dover, Ont., Mr. Dantzer had been teaching here since September. He previously taught in Kitchener, Logan Township, Linwood and Huntsville.

"Jest a Second"

"I want the tint of the evening sun softly and gently across the freshly cut cornfields at the end of a hot summer's day."

Chief Beneficiary Of Estate Wants To Be Left Alone

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — A British soldier who died Wednesday became the chief beneficiary of a $1,500,000 estate through a meeting with an American who man says he and his wife "just want to be left alone."

Henry Edward Baker will inherit a major share of the estate of Mrs. Jessie McCoy Nutty, valued at $1,503,455.

Mrs. Nutty was the widow of Gale R. Nutty, former president of Nutty Tobacco Company. She died last Aug. 5 at the age of 91.

Baker and Nutty met in England in 1919 while Baker was a representative for a British oil company. He married Nutty around England and France, Baker said.

"We hit it off fine, I liked him and he liked me."

CAME TO U.S.

The ulman induced Baker, now 68, to come to the U.S. in 1926. He worked in Pittsburgh for Nutty's confidant and private secretary. When Nutty died in 1935, Baker continued as secretary to Mrs. Nutty. He moved to Owensboro in 1942. Baker said Wednesday:

"I intend to remain in Owensboro and continue to work. I can be a little more generous with the charities in which I have been interested. I can help my friends who are in need and I'll get a big kick out of it."

Baker lives with his wife Gertrude, a native of France, in a modest red brick home in suburban Owensboro. They have no children.

"We just want to be left alone quietly with our friends," Baker said. "I have an aversion to publicity and photographers."

TO VISIT EATON

CLEVELAND (AP)—The new Russian ambassador to the United States, Mikhail A. Menshikov, and his wife will visit Cleveland this weekend at the invitation of Cyrus S. Eaton, Canadian-born financier. They will be guests of Eaton and his recent bride at a reception in downtown Cleveland.

BLAST KILLS TWO

VINELAND, N.J. (AP)—A fireworks plant erupted with a mighty roar late Wednesday night, killing two workmen, critically injuring three others and levelling a part of the building. Flames engulfed the plant, razing the main production building and lighting up the night sky.

Montreal Papers Deny Charges Made by Drapeau

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's two English-language dailies have replied in editorials to charges by former mayor Jean Drapeau that they had slanted the news against him and his administration.

In his speech Monday to an English-language audience, Mr. Drapeau said the English-language newspaper had helped to create "a climate" favorable to his regime, which had taken office in 1954 on a reform ticket.

City hall reports, he said, had been consistently "slanted" against him. No such hostility was evident in coverage of provincial politics, which tended to be "favorable" to the Duplessis forces.

The Montreal Star said Wednesday the charges were coughed in more moderate terms than Mr. Drapeau had used in a speech to a French-language audience Monday.

The charges, said The Star, now consist mainly in accusations that the press "slanted" the news against him by way of headlines and sub-heads.

The Star added:

"This is a common enough complaint, particularly on the part of defeated politicians, and we are quite ready to let our readers decide.

"Mr. Drapeau goes on to accuse us of being anti-Catholic Action League and pro-Duplessis. We, by this, he means that we have reported him unfairly and Mr. Duplessis more favorably. Again we leave the verdict to our readers. Our own belief is that we have done our best to report news and facts from all sources fairly."

The Montreal Gazette said in its editorial it is "difficult to know what manner of reporting Mr. Drapeau would regard as satisfactory."

The Gazette added:

"Errors and misjudgments may occasionally appear. But the effort has been made to present all sides of Mr. Drapeau fully and accurately.

"But the difficulty of satisfying Mr. Drapeau in such matters goes back for many years. His charges this week are remarkably like those he was making against the English press in 1942."

SARNIA (CP) — Mrs. Sarah Charlesworth Stratford, wife of a Sarnia refinery worker, has been left $1,302,280 in the 29-year-old will of her stepsister, Miss Quita Wilkinson.

Miss Wilkinson, a life-long resident of Sarnia who lived many years with her brother, died on Jan. 3. The will has been probated here.

Mrs. Stratford indicated the bequest was not a surprise and that she will continue living as before without even a short holiday.

She did not elaborate on the family background or the will.

"Please say I have nothing to add to what is already known. I want no publicity whatever."

Prime Minister Strijdom's Election Role Question Mark

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—With the general election less than two months away, Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom's role in the future leadership of South Africa is a question mark.

The 82-year Strijdom, who in three years as prime minister has pushed through Parliament an avalanche of racial legislation designed to maintain the white man's dominant position in South Africa, has been silent and inactive in political affairs for nearly three months.

Strijdom cancelled all engagements last December on his physician's advice. He is reported progressing well but sees only his doctors and a few close friends.

The one medical bulletin on the 64-year-old leader's health was issued Jan. 18. The bulletin, signed by the prime ministers physician, Dr. P. J. Kloppers, said Strijdom's heart in the past "had revealed signs of a minor degree of valvular disease which however has been present for many years without causing him any discomfort."

This condition, Dr. Kloppers added, now is "as good as it was before he became ill." The doctor added that Strijdom would be able to resume his normal activities "after a reasonable period of rest."

But opposition leaders and apparently some of the leaders of Strijdom's own National party are beginning to speculate on his successor in the event the Nationalists are returned to power in April 16 elections and Strijdom decides he must resign.

There is a general belief here that the Nationalists will win another five - year mandate. The question of a successor to Strijdom thus becomes pertinent, particularly because one of the leading contenders is perhaps the most controversial figure in the country, Dr. Hendrik F. Verwoerd, minister of native affairs.

Dr. Verwoerd takes an uncompromising stand for complete separation of the races in South Africa and the return of Africans to tribal status. As deputy to Strijdom, Dr. Verwoerd is first in line to head the party if Strijdom resigns.

Chinese Colleges Crammed To Limits With Many Students Both Men, Women in Science

Editor's note: The editor of Reuters, Ltd., London, has just returned to London from a round - the - world trip he made 12 days in Communist China where he travelled freely and where he was preserved in shorthand notes a record of his visits to new and the people he met, wrote a series of articles, of which the following is the last.

By HAROLD A. COLE

Copyright, 1958, by Reuters

LONDON (Reuters) — Traditionally it has been the role of Chinese students, in Communist China, I found youthful executive administrators who, though in their early 30s, had been in their jobs for more than 10 years.

It is they who are challenging and sweeping away the concepts of centuries. No theory, everything must be subjugated to the task of creating a new and powerful China. No sacrifice or personal discomfort is too great to this end.

Learning is no longer the preserve of the few. Over the Universities are crammed to their limits. They will turn out more engineers burning to place China on an equal technological footing with the West, everything and science is their fetish.

Peiping University is one of 16 in China which have been reorganized since the Communists took power. It concentrates its training specialists for research and teaching work in the fields of theoretical and basic science. The number of laboratories has increased in eight years to 210 from 20.

NEWS APPROACH

Departments at the University of Peiping include a school of journalism, where 330 students are being trained for work in newspapers, news agencies and radio. The head of the department outlined to me the Communist approach to journalism.

"In the West the conception of journalism is that merely of a medium of mass communication of ideas," he said. "In our conception, it is part of the political struggle in the class society.

"The press of a given class shall serve its own interests and that is why in China there are newspapers serving the trade unions, youth, women and the party. We think that the press is one of the superstructures of the state and has a given economic objective."

Twenty-one per cent of the university's students are women, and that figure is rising to early 30s.

Failures are usually advised to go into factories or to work on the farm, not always a popular suggestion. One Western observer suggested to me that this would become an increasing problem, as there were many who, having gone part of the way in their search for education, would be loath to turn back to a life of manual labor.

POLITICAL TALKS..

As everywhere in China, political education is a constant factor. Students devote two four-hour periods each week to political discussion and exposition of the party policies.

But science is seen as communism's handmaiden and the impact of this belief is felt far outside the walls of the universities. Bookstalls are filled with books and magazines devoted to recent planetary travel, and the Soviet Sputnik is a favorite topic of conversation.

In Shanghai, the former home of a British tycoon has been taken over as a youth palace where young people have hobby clubs. The model aircraft section has a squadron of jet planes, presented by Russia, capable of speeds of up to 200 miles an hour.

With gambling illegal, the Shanghai race course now is an arena for ceremonial parades. The grandstand accommodates spectators for the basketball courts in front of it, and the centre is a museum and the dog racing track has been transformed into a theatre seating more than 14,000.

MOVIES SLANTED

There are no dance halls in Communist China. Movie theatres draw capacity audiences, but the film fare is almost always devoted to some theme demonstrating the virtues of the Communist society.

Malcolm Robb Urges Changes in Trade Policies

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto lawyer says Canada should warn the United States that if it fails drastically to change its trade policies this country will within three months ban half of all U.S. sales in Canada.

Malcolm Robb, QC, who has served as special counsel to the ministry of justice in the prosecution of income tax fraud cases and as a special counsel for the RCMP, addressed a Kiwanis Club luncheon.

He said the warning should say Canada would broaden the ban within six months to cover all imports from the U.S. except what was essential.

CUT COFFEE PRICES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco chain stores are cutting the price of major coffee brands three cents a pound. The drop was the increased supply in coffee-growing countries. Retail prices which have generally been around 96 to 97 cents will probably range between 92 and 94 cents.

Dutch Girl Out of Hospital

Her parents and three brothers and three sisters, who also were isolated in the hospital five weeks ago after Joke had "infected" their home, left Wednesday at the same time.

The trouble began when the point of the radium needle with which Joke had been treated lodged in her nose. Later it came out and was thrown into a stove at her home. The ashes were scattered in the garden, spreading radioactivity.

The Haanschotens found many changes when they arrived home Wednesday. Their radioactive cover has been dumped in the North Sea along with containers of garden soil and parts of the chimney. The house has been repainted, repaired and the furniture replaced.

Closes Budget Address With Bible Passage

TORONTO (CP) — In 1946, when Premier Frost brought down Ontario's first peacetime budget after the Second World War, he closed his address by reading a passage from the Book of Deuteronomy.

He used the same passage, beginning "For the Lord thy God bringeth thee in a good land . . ." At the conclusion of his budget address in the legislature Wednesday.

Twelve years ago, Mr. Frost said, he had called for confidence in Canada's future despite fears of mass unemployment and for a retention of the spirit that had carried the nation through the trials of war.

What he had said 12 years ago, Mr. Frost told the legislature, was as valid today as then.

Public Opinion Leadership Duty of Press

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General William Hamilton Tuesday night told a group of weekly newspaper editors the press should be both a recorder of events and a moulder of opinions.

"As I see it, it will always be the function—no, the duty—of the press in Canada to be among the leaders of public opinion," he said at the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association's board of directors.

"Obviously, this same press should never in any way forget its primary role as the recorder and reporter of events so that the public may have the facts on every issue of importance, but in addition to this, when the press has an opinion on an issue it has a responsibility to put forward that opinion, to support it and to defend it and thus to give leadership in the community which it serves."

He said the news pages of newspapers once were filled with editorial opinion. It was hard to find the facts of a situation because writers of news stories "had no hesitation in interlarding them with their own opinion, their own comment and their own views."

"Happily, that is a thing of the past—at least in large measure," he added. But on its editorial page "the publication is traditionally and properly free to express its own opinion on the issues of the day . . ."

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and we stopped to look at the puppies in the pet shop window and I said, G, it's a wonder everybody dont want to go right in and take a puppy home with them, ain't it, pop?

I wouldn't go so far as to say that, pop said. I'll admit, though, there are women who have an almost irresistible urge to take home every baby they see in a baby carrige. But fortunately most of them realize that such an action would subject them to the charge of adult delinquency, he said.

Sure, because it's against the law to take other people's babies, I said. But it wouldn't be if the baby's mother was willing to sell it, would it, pop? I said, and he said, That's what is known as a hypothetical question and only adults of a hypothetical answer which you would find very unsubstantial.

Meeting it was a big if, and I said, Well how soon can I have a dog, pop?

When you are old enough to be trusted with their feeding and washing, pop said. Oh! hand, I should say that will be some time before you get a razor, he said, and I said, But heck, pop, I wont need a razor for a heck of a long time.

In that case you might consult yourself with the fact that you can get an ice cream cone in the foreseeable future, pop said.

Meeing the big red drugstore was at the next corner, and making me feel partly lucky.

A reading, telling of the origin and growth of the Women's World Day of Prayer service was given by Mrs. Stanley Pirie. This service is now observed in 144 countries and 60 languages.

The special prayers were led by Mrs. Russell Sills, West Huntingdon United for Queen-Royal Family, Adviser; Peace and security of the world by Mrs. Archie Wickens, Fuller United; for the World's 20 million refugees by Mrs. H. "As God super naturally provided manna for the Children of Israel to meet their physical needs, so does He supply heavenly manna without which we are ?erd spiritually.

"To be of any benefit, the manna must be eaten. So we have to humble ourselves and pick it up as it were. Either it had to be gathered or trampled on. So we must confess and repent of our sins, and take Christ as our Saviour before we can partakes of the heavenly manna.

PLEASING MANNA

"The Children of Israel found the manna pleasing to the taste: Jesus Christ satisfies every longing of our hearts. If we partake of the heavenly manna we will live forever with the Lord, and take up our abode in one of the heavenly mansions prepared for us.

The offering was presented by Mrs. Cecil Holland. Mrs. Lesslie Blakely and dedicated by Mrs. K. Holland.

Maybe Mickey Wants the Gold For His Teeth

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The attempt by the New York Yankees to get slugger Mickey Mantle under contract for the 1958 season has become, of all things, a matter of pilfing teeth.

Lee MacPhail, Yankee personnel manager who lost a contract date with Mantle Wednesday when Mickey "felt sick" after a visit to the dentist, expects to have more luck today with the centre fielder seeking a reported $75,000.

Another 24-hour setback, however, officially would place Mantle in the hold-out class, along with teammates Bob Turley, Tom Sturdivant and Bill Skowron.

A major league player becomes a holdout when he has not signed by the time the full squad is due to report for spring training.

Yankee chiefs, as well as most others, were cancelled by heavy rains Wednesday. The Florida rains also derailed workouts of the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland, Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach, Pittsburgh Pirates at Fort Myers, Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, and Washington Senators at Orlando.

At Tucson, Ariz., Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians tried four curve balls and a crucial test of his pitching arm, on which surgery for arm chips was performed during the winter.

"There wasn't any reaction," said the big righthander.

Bulldogs Blank Greyhounds 4-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs Wednesday night moved to within one game of a playoff spot in the OHA-Senior A series.

The Bulldogs, with two scheduled games remaining, blanked second-place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 4-0 to move into a fourth-place tie with North Bay Trappers. Each has 31 points. In other place are Sudbury Wolves with 32.

The Wolves and Trappers each have one game left — each meeting the Bulldogs. Windsor is at North Bay tonight and at Sudbury Friday. One Windsor win will clinch a playoff spot.

League - leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen wound up their regular schedule by whipping sixth-place Chatham Maroons 8-4, while in the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior A series, Cornwall Chevies shaded Ottawa - Hull Canadiens 5-4.

Dumlops Arrive In Oslo in Top Spirits

OSLO (CP) — The Canadian hockey team arrived in this Norwegian capital today for the opening here Friday, full of confidence after an unbeaten exhibition series.

The Whitby club was in excellent spirits following Wednesday night's biggest win of their current six-game series—8-3 against a Swedish provincial club at Malmoe.

But playing coach Sid Smith wasn't counting these exhibition matches as indicators of how Whitby will fare for the world title. He said the opponents in the exhibition games were often too weak, and on two occasions, including Wednesday night, the Canadians had supplied their opponents with players to make the competition keener.

Left-winger Bus Gagnon, a veteran of five years in the American Hockey League who now lives in Whitby, said the whole team is in top form for the tournament, with nobody on the injured list.

"But I suppose the Russians are the favorites," he commented.

The Soviet team is generally regarded as the biggest threat to the Canadian 1957 Allan Cup champions, who have scored 162 goals while allowing only 18 against during their exhibition tour of 14 straight victories. Their first game in the world tournament is against Poland Saturday.

Swedes Whip Americans 5-3

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden defeated the United States hockey team 5-3 Wednesday night in a tuneup game for the world championship tournament opening Friday in Oslo.

Sweden led 3-2 after the first period and outscored the Americans 2-1 in the third period. There were no goals in the second period.

Irish, Marlies Win Over Petes, Barrie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Toronto teams retained their hold on third and fourth places in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings with resounding wins over out-of-town clubs Wednesday night.

Third-place Toronto Marlboros whipped Peterborough Petes 6-3 and Toronto St. Michael's dumped the sixth-place Barrie Flyers 7-2.

The fifth-place Petes, who had defeated the Marlboros in their previous six encounters, were halted in a bid to snatch fourth place from St. Michal's. They trail by four points.

Marlboros are a scant two points ahead of St. Michael's and six points behind second place Hamilton Cubs. St. Catharines already has wrapped up the first playoff spot.

THREE FOR OSBORNE

Stan Osborne paced the Marlies' win with a goal in each period. Bob Nevin, Carl Brewer and Jim Murchie got the other goals. Jerry Brisson and Jim Mikol scored for the Petes.

St. Michael's needed only 12 men to coast to victory over Barrie. Darryl Sly banged in two goals, Jack Costello, Dave Keon, Les Kozak, Tom Micalle and Jim Sosnaki scored the other five.

The Flyers' markers came from the sticks of Bill Forhan and Murray Davison.

St. Michael's were without five regular players but still managed 37 shots at goaltender Norm Jacques in the Barrie net. The Flyers whacked only 18 at Clestare Maniago of St. Michael's.

Kingston Had Top Attendance

COBOURG, (CP) — A total of 2,560 persons watched Kingston CFLCs play during their 36 home matches in the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern division schedule this season.

An average of 2,022 turned out and the club also drew the league's largest single crowd of the season at 2,560.

First place Belleville MacFarlands attracted 42,876 fans, an average of 1,649 a game. Their largest crowd was 2,501.

Cornwall Chevvies were the second-drawing team with an average of 1,422. Largest gate was 2,321. Chevvies also hold the record for the lowest turn-out—741 fans.

Pembroke Lumber Kings averaged 1,484 fans and the largest crowd was 2,551.

Eastern Ontario senior "A" league brass raised surprised collective eyebrows at the loop confab held in Kingston last week when President Lorne Cook of the OHA announced the eastern league would meet the winners of the Porcupine Mines League, otherwise known as the northern section of the NOHA.

The announcement called for a best-of-five series with the added suggestion that the Eastern loop cut its semi-finals to three-of-five so that playoff dates with the northern loop would jibe. Meanwhile the OHA-NOHA league would go its merry way playing its best-of-seven semi-finals with plenty of time for were not the Eastern group meeting the far-northern winners. The OHA-NOHA league would take on the east-north champions.

The Eastern brass did not take kindly to the announcement. They kicked the three-of-five semi-finals out the door, then reluctantly consented to play the Porcupine league winners a best-of-five series providing the first two games were played in the south.

What they did not know was that the OHA-NOHA tail that wags the OHA dog had the playoffs all cut and dried as far back as last August. This cat was let out of the bag in Lloyd Johnson's column in the Kitchener-Waterloo Record the other day. Here is what Lloyd said:

"Eastern Ontario senior hockey officials may not be aware of it, but the champions of this group appear destined to meet the survivors of the northern section of the NOHA this year.

In past seasons, before the advent of the OHA-NOHA wedding, the Porcupine Mines League winner always saw-off with the NOHA southern section champs.

"This new concept for senior hockey playoffs was proposed at a meeting of the OHA senior council in Chatham last August.

"Since the teams in the eastern section of the province rarely, if ever, send representatives to senior hockey council meetings, it's doubtful if they realize what the future holds for them.

"Belleville, Kingston, Pembroke and Cornwall clubs have been laboring under the impression that their group winner will meet the OHA-NOHA champs in the first round of the OHA playdowns.

"When the winner of the NOHA-OHA league is declared they will await the survivor of the Eastern-Porcupines League series.

"The next round will send either the north, south or east against Ottawa for the eastern Canada title, the winner of which club will travel west in search of the Allan Cup."

As far as this department is aware the OHA "senior 'A' council" consists only of the OHA-NOHA brass, and the parent body. We have yet to hear of any Eastern league representation at these conclaves, which apparently admittedly are the "justice" of the senior "A" fraternity.

However, the playoff demand of the OHA-NOHA could be the dying gesture of a league that has three feet in the grave and the other on a well-oiled banana peeling.

A northern sports writer says that the Soo Greyhounds and Sudbury have retained coaches, but that is all. Ernie Goman, the Kitchener Dutchman master-mind, says "I really don't know what is going to happen next year."

Then he comes up with the drowning man's straw-clutcher, and this should draw loud guffaws from Eastern hockey men, "Whitby might enter the OHA-NOHA next season."

This from the league that haughtily tossed out applications from Peterborough from Whitby a couple of seasons ago, ailbing travel, transportation, etc., etc.

Now listen to Gomien again. "Whitby would certainly be a drawing card in our league. And you can't blame them for trying to look into the future. Clubs like Cornwall and Pembroke are not doing well. It could be teams such as that may feel senior hockey is too expensive. Where would that leave Whitby?"

"If the Dunnies do come into the league travel problems should not be too much out of line. Whitby is only 30 miles east of Toronto; something of a central locality."

Gad, how the map of Ontario has changed within a short couple of years.

That should draw something of a retort from Chick Appel, the venerable grey-bearded bard of Stratford, who has been babbling up and down the sidelines this season since his beloved Indians rolled over and hied themselves to the hockey hunting grounds.

'Andy' Paces Gotham Blues In 4-3 Win Over Chihawks; Lead Wings by Five Points

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Take it from Andy Bathgate—Montreal Canadiens aren't going to back into the National Hockey League title.

It's almost inevitable that the Habitants will finish in first place. With 11 games left they lead the second-place New York Rangers by 21 points and need only a tie—or a Ranger tie—to clinch the title.

As far as Bathgate is concerned, New York isn't giving away anything. Bathgate scored a goal and assisted on two others Wednesday night as New York defeated Chicago Black Hawks 4-3. New York now has a six-game unbeaten streak, tying its previous best this season.

In the streak—five wins and a tie—Bathgate has been in 12 of 19 Ranger goals, scoring five. He has a solid grip on third place in the individual scoring race.

The victory in the league's only scheduled game also gave New York a five-point bulge over Detroit Red Wings. A Chicago victory would have tied the Hawks into a tie with fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs, six points behind Boston Bruins.

PLAYMAKING HELPS

The 25-year-old Bathgate, a Winnipeg native, scored New York's first goal to tie the game, set up Andy Hebenton's goal it again and helped Jack Evans score the eventual winning goal. Bathgate now has 25 goals and 40 assists, nine goals against Chicago.

Litzenberger scored his 34th of the season and his 19th against Neudorf, Sask., has 21 assists.

Lou Fontinato was the other New York goal, beating Glenn Hall with about 50 feet. Hall stopped 31 shots in the contest. Wes Mc Knight Worsley.

Bathgate and Litzenberger have had strikingly similar careers ever since they were given NHL trials in 1952-53. Each is in his fourth full season and Bathgate has 93 goals to Litzenberger's 90.

KEY TO RANGER RISE

Bathgate's maturing play has been the key to New York's success in the last two years, when the team finished third and fourth after five years out of the playoffs.

Litzenberger has spearheaded the Chicago attack since he joined the team from Montreal in 1954 but hasn't had the same success in helping the Hawks out of last place.

Montreal can wrap up the league championship next year—when it plays Toronto at home tonight in the only game scheduled.

Quebec Hockey

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) —A goal by Rene Pepin gave the tail-end Trois-Rivieres Lions a 3-2 win over fourth-place Montreal Royals Wednesday night.

The victory, the only game of the night, moved the Lions within four points of Royals, who are a point behind the third-place Quebec Aces.

Mose Collins, Bob McCord and Bollie Leclerc were the other Lions scorers. Ernie Roche, Wally Bradley and Denis Boucher counted for Royals.

CANADIAN OUSTED

MIAMI, Fla. (CP) — Karol Fageros of Miami, seeded No. 1 in the women's singles, gained the semi-finals of the Miami invitational tennis tournament Wednesday by defeating Susan Butt of Victoria, 6-2, 6-2.

Russian Coach Praises Trip Made to Canada

KITCHENER (CP) — Anatoli Tarasov, coach of the Russian Selects hockey team which visited Canada last year, says the Soviet team enjoyed its very pleasant way and parted in the best manner.

Writing in a Czechoslovakian sports magazine, Sladium, a copy of which has reached here, he says: "Our visit to Canada marked an enrichment for us and must have been the same to the Canadians.

"We played under very pleasant surroundings, directed by absolutely fair and highly qualified referees. And the most important —before very enthusiastic audiences who understand and treasure hockey."

The article says the Russian team played eight games with "the best" Canadian teams. It does not give the team's record. It won five games, lost two and tied one.

Canada Tops For 'Pikers' Bass Good, Too

NEW YORK (CP) — Canada still reigns as the promised land for Eastern fake fishermen but Manitoba took over from Ontario last year as the lunkers' lair.

Lake Winnipegosis produced the champ, a 38-pounder caught by Dr. Ralph Rebestein of Castlewood, S.D., on an Eppinger Dardevle spoon, in Field and Stream magazine's annual fish competition. Ontario's Lac Seul, the winner the previous year, had to settle time with the second and third-place fish.

Canada improved its showing in smallmouth bass with two placings in 1957 after being shut out the previous year.

Both came from Ontario lakes. A 7½-pounder from Wolf Lake in the Kawartha region took eighth place for James S. McCarthy of Detroit. He caught it on an EGB spoon.

William Carney of Lockport, N.Y., was ninth with a seven-pound, two-ounce fish he caught on a surface plug in Bella Lake just west of Algonquin Provincial Park.

2—William J. Kroemming, St. Paul, Minn., 32 pounds, 10 ounces from Lac Seul; 3—Lou Sloss Looks Good Diesslin, St. Paul, 32¼ pounds, Lac Seul; 4—Fred St. Welch, Lancaster, Ohio, 30 pounds, from Quebec's Shannon Lakes; 5—Donald Carson, Lisle, Ohio, 30 pounds from Black Bay in Lake Superior; 6—Elmer W. Christensen, St. Paul, 29½ pounds from Lake Nipigon; 7, Mrs. Leah Wormack, La Otto, Ind., 29¼ pounds from McGregor Bay, just north of Manitoulin Island in Lake Huron; 8—Ken Hahlaub, Winnipeg, 29¼ pounds from Lake Manitoba.

Senior Bonspiel Honors Go to Fergus Rink

HAMILTON (CP) — A Fergus rink skipped by J. J. Howard won the Ontario Curling Association's Silver Jubilee seniors bonspiel Wednesday at the Hamilton Thistle Club. The triumph was the second in three years for the Fergus quartet.

Howard won six consecutive games without a loss. He defeated N. Garbutt, Brampton, 9-6 in the final after scoring a semi-final victory over W. McCart, Barrie, 13-7.

Garbutt earned the final by disposing of W. G. Hardie's Hamilton Victoria four, 12-4.

A Thistle quartet, led by I. D. Eastman, won the second event, the Doolittle Memorial Trophy. Gale's H. Barnard was eliminated in the semi-final.

In the third event, for the Dodgers trophy, G. F. Armstrong's Thistle rink beat Kirkland Lake's George Doggett in the final, 19-8. Doggett won his semi-final from Gale's T. Rutherford, 9-8.

'Joe' Wasn't Hanging Around So KO's Foe in First Round

HAVANA (AP) — Joe Brown, the heavy-fisted world lightweight champion from New Orleans, considered a possible title defence against nimble Ralph Dupas' conqueror, was a fellow resident of New Orleans. "But there is the possibility."

The U.S. National Boxing Association has warned Brown that unless he meets challenger Kenny Lane in a title bout by April 11, his title may be vacated. But a bout with Dupas, No. 4 contender, might satisfy the requirements.

TWO RIGHTS DID IT

Brown's first smashing right spilled Echevarria on his haunches for a mandatory eight count. Instead of trying to last out the round, the Cuban came back with a free-swinging attack and ran into the payoff right that dropped him on his back for the full count.

Brown said later in his dressing room:

"The Cuban boy was very strong, but not too smart. From the start he tried to surprise me with his aggressiveness . . . it was my easiest fight."

Echevarria weighed 136½, to Brown's 135¾.

McFarlands Meet Kingston, Cornwall Plays Pembroke In Semi-Finals

Chevies Take Third Place With 5-4 Win Over Ottawa; Playoffs Start This Week

HULL, Que. (Special) — The Cornwall Chevies fought their way into the third playoff spot in the Eastern senior "A" league standing here last night, edging the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 5-4 after a close-fought battle.

The victory gave the Chevies a one-point lead over the fourth-place Kingston CKLCs. Cornwall meets the Pembroke Lumber Kings in the semi-finals with Kingston clashing with the league leaders from Belleville in the other semi-finals bracket.

The Belleville-Kingston series starts in Belleville Friday night with the Cornwall-Pembroke series opening Saturday night in Pembroke, the second game on Sunday in Cornwall.

ALMOST MADE IT

Bob Robbie Boucher of Ottawa and Moe Savard of Hull, contenders for the league scoring championship made valiant efforts to overtake Kingston's Billy Colvin and Bert Glassbrook of Pembroke but barely fell short.

Boucher scored three points for a total of 64 while Savard grabbed four to finish at 63 for the season total. Both finished in a three-way tie for third place with Belleville's Barton Bradley.

The game here last night was a hitless-for-fought affair, the score being tied no less than four times.

Don LaPlante was the Cornwall hero scoring the winning goal at 14:48 of the third period to break the four-all stalemate. Ottawa fought back hard to square the count but the close-knit Chevies' defence hurried back all their efforts.

The teams finished the first period at two-all with St. Hilaire scoring at 4:46 and Boucsseur getting it back at 2.34. Muir put the Chevies in the lead at 13.35 but Boucher equalled the count a minute later.

Boucher scored his second goal of the night early in the second frame but the Chevies roared back in seconds to go Muir's tying the count.

Bill Gregg Cornwall in the lead for the third time a 4.17 of the third period with White stalemating the score for Ottawa right through the heat. Then came LaPante's winning goal with four minutes to go and it was all over.

The game was a clean affair with the referee handing out few minor penalties, three to the Canadiens.

Russ Coach Says Reds Will Whip Canadians

OSLO (CP) — Russia ranks its arch-rivals from Canada as the favorites to best in the forthcoming world hockey championships—a conclusion that will hardly surprise the experts.

But team manager Pavel Korolkov says he's more confident than many of the experts that his powerful team will be able to retain the title.

Most observers agree the tournament, starting this Friday, will be decided March 9—the final day—when Canada and Russia meet.

Russia arrived here Wednesday for final practices. Canada is due today.

Korotkov said the Whitby-team, which has crushed all opposition in a series of exhibition games since arriving in Europe Feb. 5, is stronger than Canada's last two representatives in world competition.

Canada sent Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Allan Cup winners in 1955, to the Winter Olympics at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, in 1956 but the team lost to Russia, 7-0. Also was upset by the United States entry and finished third.

Is WON HANDILY

In 1955 Canada was represented by Penticton, B.C., also Allan Cup champions. That team easily won the world title, whitewashing Russia 5-0 in the final game.

While railing this year's Canadian entry higher, Korotkov thinks the Russian squad is improved.

"Our strategy is more advanced now than it was a year ago," he said.

Russia was upset in the championships last year by Sweden, Canada did not enter a team, preferring the Russian suppression of the Hungarian revolt.

"Canada today is very hard, very hard game," Korotkov said. "But we're not worried. All our players are in great physical shape. They can take the knocks."

Meanwhile, fans called on officials to be tougher with Canada and the United States in a bid to keep rough play out of the games.

Canadian and American players are accustomed to playing a rougher game than the Europeans.

PAKISTAN STARTS FAST

KINGSTON Jamaica (Reuters) Pakistan was 276 for four at the close of play Wednesday in the first day of the third test against the West Indies. Imtiaz Ahmad, Pakistan's wicketkeeper and opening batsman, scored 122 and shared in century partnerships with Saeed Ahmad (52) and Wallis Mathias (70 not out).

Sandy Air Joins Dunnies

TORONTO (CP)—Right winger Sandy Air of Toronto has left by plane today for Oslo to give added strength to Canada's team in the world hockey tournament.

Manager Wren Blair of Whitby, now playing exhibition games in Sweden, telephoned Air Wednesday and asked him to leave at once for Norway. The championships start Friday.

Air, who had asked to be dropped from the touring team for personal reasons, started packing his bags.

Blair, who said he was concerned with the goal production of the right wingers, today must name the 17 players who will comprise the team challenging for the title.

In 15 undefeated exhibition games in Europe Whitby scored 145 goals, 28 by right wingers and gave up 16.

Accompanying Air is Doug Williams, another former Whitby player but now a student at the University of Toronto. He was at first unable to make the trip because of studies.

Belleville Midgets Whip Kingston, Juveniles, Bantams Bow to Visitors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville's starry midget squad upheld the Bay of Quinte honor here last night by downing Kingston 7-3 for title citing honors in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdown gasies.

Kingston outclassed Belleville in the other two divisions, the bantams taking a 6-2 triumph while the juveniles won by an 8-3 score. The second games in the two-game, goals-to-count series will be played in the Limestone City this Saturday afternoon beginning at 1.00 p.m.

A good crowd for minor hockey action attended last night's triple-header here and was treated to some excellent hockey with the midget contest by far the best of the three games.

MIDGET
Belleville 7, Kingston 3

A five-goal explosion told the victory story for Belleville in the third period after the clubs battled at 1-1 in the first and 2-2 at the end of the second period.

The work of both goalies, Gord Parker in the Belleville nets and Dave Horst for Kingston, was outstanding. Horst kept his club in the striking distance by kicking out labelled drive after drive before Belleville found the range in the third period.

This game was the cleanest of the three with only six minor penalties assessed, four of these going to the visitors. Each team scored once in the opposition playing a man short.

Ewens "Pug" Keller was the Belleville star, collecting three goals including two in the third, Moe Plante checking closely with a pair, one a beauty in the second beat when he stickhandled through the Kingston players before beating Horst. D'Arcy Lawrence and Jim Sheridan scored the other Belleville goals.

The Kingston line of Curas, O'Donnell and Hunter handled all its clubs scoring points, Tom Curtis fired two goals, Fred Curas had a goal and one assist while Jimmy O'Donnell assisted on all three goals.

Belleville's Jim Sheridan suffered a split lip and was out for the dying minutes of the game when hit by a hard shot from a Kingston attacker. A number of stitches were required to close the gash.

BANTAM
Kingston 6 — Belleville 2

Belleville held a 1-0 lead after the first period in this one for the smooth-working Kingston squad scored five unanswered goals in the second beat to wrap it up. Each team managed one goal in the third.

Kingston drew eight of the game's ten penalties including a misconduct to Randy Clark for untimely comment to the officials in the third period.

Both Belleville markers, by Wayne Gilroy in the first period and by Teddy Rowland in the third, were scored with Kingston a man short. The winners scored once with a man advantage.

Terry Aylesworth was the only winner to bag two goals while Cliff Udall and Wayne Cox each earned a goal and assist. Terry Martin and Jim Skeggs also scored.

Dunlops Finish Exhibitions With Fourteen Straight Wins

MALMOE, Sweden (CP) — The Whitby team which will carry Canada's colors into the world hockey tournament opening in Oslo Friday has wound up a convincing, unbeaten exhibition tour.

The Canadians, who have stacked up 14 straight victories since they landed in England earlier this month, Wednesday night won their final exhibition match by the most lopsided score yet—23-3 over a provincial Swedish team bolstered by members of the Whitby club.

The 1957 Allan Cup champions, who headed for the Norwegian capital today for the world series on ice in which they open against Poland Saturday, have scored 162 goals while allowing only 18 against in their exhibition series.

This goal - average production bears out the record of the tournament, where in the event of a tie the winner will be decided on a scoring basis rather than a playoff

WHO TO THE RESCUE

Right-winger Sandy Air of Toronto and Doug Williams, a Toronto player now postponed his departure because of his studies at the University of Toronto, were flying to Oslo today to give added strength to the club, whose toughest opponent is expected to be Russia.

The Canadians loaned two players—a forward and a defenceman—to their opponents Wednesday night. The Canadians didn't figure in the Swedish scoring.

Whitby was held scoreless for the first 13 minutes, then piled up an average-of a goal almost every two minutes until the end of the game.

Playing coach Sid Smith and Tom O'Connor led the Whitby scorers with four goals each. Conny Brodin and George Samolenko each had three, Charlie Burns and Bob Attersley had two and single counters went to Alf Treen, Ted O'Connor, Jack MacIntosh and George Gosselin.

Cacka Blomquist got two goals for Sweden and Lopez Pedersson the other.

MacIntosh and Attersley were regarded as the best players on the rink in the outstanding performance by the Canadians.

Wings Lose Nick Mickoski

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings said Wednesday that forward Nick Mickoski will be in hospital at least three days with a knee infection.

The ailment will keep him out of the Red Wings' weekend road trip to Montreal and New York. A club spokesman said the infection developed after Mickoski was injured Feb. 16 in a game against Toronto.

Mickoski came to Detroit from Chicago last Dec. 17 in an eight-player swap.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Round Table remains the heavy favorite to win the $133,000-guaranteed Santa Anita Handicap Saturday but the roll of opposition remained open to speculation today.

The weather and track conditions, plus the fact entries will be taken today, 24 hours earlier than usual, prompted the guesswork.

As many as eight to 12 or more entries may be added, depending on how many trainers want to gamble a $500 entry fee on the way they hope conditions turn up 48 hours later.

Campbellford Defeats Marmora To Even Series

MARMORA (Special) — Campbellford playing its home game on Marmora ice, evened the OHA Intermediate "C" semi-final series at a game each here last night by defeating the Millionaires 5-2 before a large crowd.

The last game in the three-out-five set will be played here on Friday night. Winner of this series will meet the Madoc-Bancroft winners in the group finals.

Campbellford's natural ice was unfit for play last night, forcing the Campbellford club to move its home game here.

The teams battled on even terms in the opening period which ended in a 1-1 deadlock. Campbellford surged ahead in the second period with three goals while holding Marmora off the score sheet. The third period outscored the winners 2-1 in the final twenty minutes but could not overcome the second period deficit.

J. Morrow sparked the Campbellford attack with a goal and an assist. Single goals went to Fiske, Carvey, Dosher and D. Ruttan while Wilson and Scott had assists.

Trumble earned a goal and assist in a losing cause while Jones and E. Leonard bagged the other goals. Cousins, Brooks and Smith had assists.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop and asking him diffrent questions such as if he would be willing to be a passenger on the 2nd rocket to the moon if the first one came back all right, pop saying he might be willing but no probably would let him, and I said, Hay pop, let's just walk and walk and walk in a strate line and see which one is the ferst to want to tern back.

I'm game I will, pop said, and we kept going and going, and my legs started to feel kind of heavy and I wondered if the old back would seem even longer than the way there, but I didn't say anything, and after a while pop said, How are you doing?

Aw, im just getting my 2nd wind, I said, and pop said, Good for you, I just thought it was only fair to remind you that my legs are twice as long as yours, and yours will probably feel still shorter, on the trip home. Dont you even feel a little tired, pop? I said.

Dont worry about me, I still have my ferst wind, pop said, and I said, Well dont worry about me, my legs feel like a butterfly's.

That's the optimism of youth, and it's a fine thing in its way, but in important decisions it's less reliable than the pessimism of experienced maturity, pop said, and I said, Do you meen we ought to tern around?

You may interpret my meening any way you please, pop said, and I said, Then I interpret it you walked far enough.

And we turned and started back, both probably being glad of it, and proving nobody has to lose as long as nobody insists.

20th Century-Fox Golden Doll From Paris Needed Refining

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—My, how Christine Carere has changed!

Last spring the French doll was brought here amid much fanfare to play the Francoise Sagan heroine in A Certain Smile. But all that glitters is not pure gold by Hollywood standards, and 20th Century-Fox decided that its golden girl would need some refining.

In the first place, her English was bad—in fact almost nonexistent. But the studio thought enough of her chances to delay the picture, and Christine went to school to learn English. I asked what gave her the most trouble.

"The 'th' sound," she replied. "We don't use it in French; anyone who does is considered a little strange.

"Also, your irregular verbs. You say, 'he goes, he went, he has gone.' There's no logic to it at all."

ANOTHER WAY TO LEARN

Besides her daily lessons, she studied English by watching movies and television, and she recommends it highly. Even the commercials are illuminating, she said. I hope, however, she doesn't pattern her grammar after such Madison Avenuisms as the smoker that tastes good "like a cigaret should."

Aside from her English, Christine was also ordered to get her figure in shape for the demands of the Cinemascope screen. It can make players look rounder than they are. Learning to jitterbug for her film role helped shelve six pounds.

Christine has also made a change in her personal life since she was first here. Last November her she married French actor Phillippe Nicaud in Paris.

"And five days later, I had to leave him to come here!" she lamented. He had to stay in Paris with a play.

Hollywood TV Adaptation Of Point of No Return Bad

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Crime continues to be a staple of weekly television dramatic series.

Playhouse 90 (CBS-TV) turns to the subject tonight with Paul Osborn's adaptation of Marquand's novel, "Point of No Return," starring Geraldine Page and Rudy Bond appear in this drama, said to be based on the actual case of a sort of Jekyll-Hyde character.

Speaking of crime, it was too bad what happened last week when Playhouse 90 presented Point of No Return.

If you read the novel by John P. Marquand or saw the play by Paul Osborn, you know that Point of No Return concerns a New York banker who was bred in a small New England city and is caught up in a contest for the vice-presidency of his exclusive bank.

Marquand skillfully involves us in the banker's familiy, his suburban home, his job, his boss, his antagonist, and his past. The banker, Charles Gray, is an intelligent, amiable, easily identifiable fellow such as many of us know.

Once, like all the young, he had great dreams which in time were dashed; he came to learn, like most modern men, the restraints of compromise. His rebellion was largely cerebral, his emotions always severely muted. When he achieved his goal, the vice-presidency, he wasn't sure it was worth it—but he took it because there was no other sensible thing for him to do.

Hollywood always has had a tendency to ham Marquand's restrained, muffled climaxes. The film version of his Melville Goodwin, U.S.A. was, for example, a disastrous farce to Marquand admirers. Not as bad, but approaching disaster, was the Point of No Return.

The temptation is to place much of the blame on Charlton Heston, who has played some fine roles but who failed utterly to get inside Charles Gray as did Henry Fonda in the novel-way play. Heston worried the role doggedly, but he always was outside it. Hope Lange, as his first love, and Katharine Bard, as his wife, were equally confused as to just how they fitted into the electronics of the scene.

Abetting the cast was a script that was over-determined to try to make absolutely everything clear to absolutely everybody—complete with a long and unnecessarily confusing flashback.

In the process, nearly everything Marquand was saying about snobbery went badly out of focus.

Perhaps Hollywood television should stick to westerns and let New York handle the esoterica.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, February 27

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Day hours should be wisely spent making your rounds, keeping those appointments that will mean success from sorrow and worry. Then get groceries, other necessities, P. M. welcome the change that will take place.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—All things connected with your property and possessions can be attended to with extreme insight and intellect during daytime. P. M. certain to rest and relax; too much excitement and work would be harmful.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—A fine day to increase your abundance as you feel your health getting better, your body strong-er. Sociability is the right psychology and telling the right people of your aims. P. M. avoid arguments with associate or mate.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21)—Conferences with experts in your field of endeavor, plus silent reverie that will bring forth the intuitive ideas of merit will shed much light on present problems and future modes of procedure. P. M. Rest. Don't delve into technical work.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—It is possible to get the co-operation of very fine, intelligent friends if you discuss honestly your desires and ambitions with them. P. M. refrain from argument with loved one, or you will stand to lose much. Be wise.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—A concrete expression of civic interest and effort plus high regard for own particular line of work will result in bring about much prestige and regard for you. Seek advancement, wisely, honestly. P.M. be tactful with home ties.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Delve into your paper as soon as you arise. Show others your kind feelings toward them by doing those things that will please and bring admiration, affection from them. P. M. take care on the road. Use kind language.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—In the day hours it is possible to seek and acquire the data you have long sought for others that is vital to you. Show gratitude and respect to best of ability, then tonight take it easy and save your money.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—The finest way of understanding and appreciating other persons is to listen to their ideas and side of any situation with as much interest and respect as you do your own, especially associates. P.M. relax.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Quite unexpectedly today you realize just what should be done and said to increase the harmony within the business as well as the social circle of your life, and particularly economy and abundance. P.M. serve others, help self, too.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—A splendid day for realizing yourself in artistic and intellectual endeavors while at the same time enjoying yourself to the full. P. M. take care to handle romantic interest wisely, or there is an unfortunate fracas.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—The day starts off by your feeling very fearful and unhappy. Replace this with right think-ing and acting and you get ahead much better than for a long time past. P.M. take care not to disturb a higher up.

If your child is born today... The very bright child born today is the type who will ever have a retort or reply ready for any exigency or situation that comes up. This is splendid, except that it is your duty to early impress upon your youngster that often the other person is trying to be helpful, and to accept in such spirit. A fine chart for the waiter, lecturer, salesman and other brilliant work.

LIBERAL LEADER

At Vulcan, Alta., Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the Conservatives "turned their backs" on the western farmer after promising they would give him a fair deal."

The government's farm price stabilization legislation was "null and almost void so far as the welfare of the western farmer was concerned" until the Social Credit group in the Commons corrected the "monstrosity" with amendments.

"Both parties are promising vast increases in expenditures and both also are saying they are going to reduce taxation. This cannot be done under the present monetary system to which both subscribe."

At Toronto, Liberal Senator David Croll said there is too much apathy, nonchalance and self-pity in the Liberal party today.

"The apathy has been permeating through the party brass and now is reaching the grass—which while it needs watering does not need tears."

Had No Gas Export Plans With Lib. Govt.

CALGARY (CP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited had no advance arrangement with the former Liberal government on the question of exports of Canadian natural gas to the United States.

They said that while the Liberals and former trade minister C. D. Howe helped to get pipeline construction under way by loans and advice, they in no way promised Trans-Canada automatic approval of a permit to ship gas to the midwestern U.S.

The company ended nearly five days of detailed cross examination before the Borden energy commission Tuesday.

The commission, with special instructions to study Trans-Canada's plans for export, is scheduled to make an interim report to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The Progressive Conservative government is not expected to decide on an export permit until it receives the report.

PRESIDENT TESTIFIES

Through the sworn testimony of Trans - Canada President Charles Coates, the commission learned:

That the Liberals made no advance commitment on Trans-Canada's proposed export project through Emerson, Man., the government had indicated it would wait for approval of such imports from the U.S. federal power commission before deciding on Canadian export.

That Mr. Howe advised the pipeline promoters to approach the Industrial Development Bank for a $70,000,000 loan for financing. The plan later collapsed due to opposition from major gas producers.

PC Candidates Advised to Avoid Personalties

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative party headquarters has advised candidates to avoid personalities and stick to "positive" issues in the general election campaign, National Director Allister Grosart said today.

Mr. Grosart, the party's chief election tactician, said literature going out from his office to candidates urges them to stress the "achievements" of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the party in domestic and international affairs, and particularly its national development and social security programs.

"We have advised all candidates that the public will be more interested in the main issues of the campaign than in personalities," he said in an interview. This had been the attitude throughout the campaign.

"We don't have to go on the defensive or waste time criticizing opposition personalities," he added.

Mr. Grosart said the name of no specific opposition person has been mentioned in campaign material sent to Conservative candidates.

Sweeping Changes Proposed In Copyright Laws

Many Recommendations Contained in Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Sweeping changes in Canada's copyright laws to bring them in closer harmony with those of Britain and the United States are proposed in a royal commission report made public today.

The recommendations are the result of a 3½-year study by a commission headed by Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia.

Among the major proposals:

1. Creation of a "broadcasters right," making it possible to claim copyright on recordings by film or otherwise of sounds and images in order to prevent them later to the public. The commission expressed the opinion it is unfair creating a publishers right as a way to protect typographical arrangements from reproductions.

2. A generally shorter term of copyright—56 years from publication or until the author's death, whichever is the longer period. The present term is the author's lifetime plus 25 years. In the U.S. it is 56 years from publication.

SHORTER TERM

3. A term of 40 years for recordings instead of the present 50, and a similar term for films, both based on time of publication.

4. Ratification by Canada of the Universal Copyright Convention of 1952 and continued participation in the Home Convention of 1928, but no action to force the British to join the Brussels Copyright Convention of 1948.

5. Investigation by a government - appointed commission of the whole subject of the rights owned by performing artists and clarities in musical works.

6. Establishment of a new copyright appeal board with wider powers to set and regulate all the conditions and fees under which musical works owned by performing rights societies may be used. This would include licences for a single program.

7. Establishment by performing rights societies of central registries in which they can check claim performing rights, with penalties for late listing or delays in changing listings.

BROADCASTS TO WALES

TORONTO (CP) — A transatlantic broadcast to the homeland of Wales will be made March 1, St. David's Day, Leonard Brockington, president of the U.S. Arthur Rank of Canada motion picture organization, Mr. Brockington will speak from the CBC here and his 15-minute talk will be transmitted by Marconi and BBC.

Says Druggists Should Have Been Warned

TORONTO (CP) — Cases of 14 Metropolitan Toronto druggists charged with selling tranquillizers, sedatives and pep-up pills without prescriptions were heard in court Thursday. Four fines were imposed.

Thirteen other druggists were fined a total of $2,700 last week.

Meanwhile, Harold Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Retail Pharmaceutical Association, said procedures used in prosecuting 27 pharmacists in the Toronto area for illegal sale of tranquillizers was "not in the best interests of justice."

"It looks as if they were trying to set a trap for the druggists," he said.

Mr. Smith said he has met a letter to Dr. C. A. Morell, head of the food and drug directorate of the national health and welfare department, saying the druggists involved should have been warned immediately when they were found to be breaking regulations.

Instead, he said, they were allowed to continue selling the restricted drugs for a year before they were charged.

RECALL COMMANDER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force today relieved its commander in the Philippines on the ground he undermined morale by privately criticizing four sets of living quarters on Clark Air Force base and Maj.-Gen. John B. Ackerman was being recalled to Washington for "exercising poor judgment."

Today's Chuckle

The difficult age has come and lit:

I'm too tired to work and too poor to quit.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A low - pressure area extending from Minnesota to Lake Erie then south-eastward to a vigorous storm centred over New York is causing widespread rain and snow over the northern United States and much of Ontario. Snowfall of 10 to 15 inches from South Dakota to Kansas with strong northerly winds has caused blizzard conditions but over the Great Lakes region the snow is generally light and in southeastern Ontario has been temporarily changed to rain. In Central Ontario strong easterly winds are causing considerable drifting.

Since the low-pressure area is moving very slowly little change in the weather is expected over Ontario Saturday but the precipitation will be mostly in the form of snow. Winds will continue strong in central and northern sections of the province but will decrease appreciably in southern sections.

CHECK IS ORDERED OF RACKET IN DRIVING LICENCES

Two Arrested After 150 Cases Found

TORONTO (CP) — Deputy Transport Minister Donald Collins of Ontario has ordered a province-wide investigation into irregularities in the issuing of drivers' licenses.

The order was made Thursday night after two persons were arrested in connection with a bribery racket that has obtained nearly 150 licences for people who did not pass tests.

Facing four counts of falsely certifying drivers are Hubert Levy, 45, an examiner appointed by the transport department to conduct tests, and Amerlo Ferreira, 29.

Police said the practice may be widespread. In some cases persons now holding licences cannot read or write English. They said a few had not even driven a car before they received their permits.

Mr. Collins said agencies hired by his department to examine drivers in Port Credit and nearby provincial police headquarters.

He said other private agencies will be closed as the investigation progresses.

GO-BETWEEN SYSTEM

Police said two men worked the racket, one acting as a go-between between the driving examiner and immigrants.

Mr., Collins said the applicants paid between $70 and $100 to the go-between, who paid money to the examiner. There were never any tests.

"What has been done is really a criminal act. It's like giving a man a loaded gun to allow a person on the road without a driving test."

Said another official:

"These persons are potential killers.

"Although speaking English is not a requirement of the present tests, any applicant must be able to read road signs. Some of these persons didn't even know what STOP means."

SCHOOLS COMPLAINED

Mr. Collins said the first information came to his department from driving schools, complaining that something was irregular in certain areas. Provincial police investigated a year ago, but could not collect enough evidence to lay charges.

Transport Minister Allan, disclosing the arrests earlier in the legislature said persons who had been issued licences without taking tests would have their permits revoked, but they could take an appeal.

All Party Leaders Speak To Voters in Farm Belts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Political party leaders campaigned Thursday in farm regions. But their talk wasn't confined to agricultural problems exclusively.

CCF Leader Coldwell, for instance, talked about pipelines at Penticton in British Columbia's fruit-growing Okanagan Valley.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson outlined his farm policy at Cudworth, 70 miles northeast of Saskatoon in the wheat belt.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, spoke his own grain-growing constituency of Peace River. He addressed a meeting Thursday night at Grande Prairie, Alta.

Mr. Coldwell described as a "fantastic proposal" the Conservatives' fortunes" made by promoters of Westcoast Transmission natural gas pipeline company. He recalled for action to prevent such exploitation in the future.

The CCF chieftain said Frank McMahon of Calgary alone could turn an initial investment of $7,700 into more than $8,000,000 in profits through his connection with Westcoast.

Gains by other promoters of the pipeline raised total capital gains on Westcoast transmission to about $100,000,000. The line carries gas from northwestern Alberta to Vancouver and the U.S. Pacific northwest.

"A great moral wrong has been done and I am not saying that anything illegal was done—and it is time our government removed the opportunity for such exploitation," Mr. Coldwell declared.

Mr. Pearson said a Liberal government would launch a comprehensive, multi-billion-dollar federal farm program.

He also said the Conservatives are "playing with fire" in their announced policy of diverting 15 per cent of Canadian purchases in the U.S. to Britain. "Hostility" to the U.S. could lead to destruction of Canadian markets in the U.S.

Driving Winds, Rain and Snow Prevalent Across All Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The March lion howled across most of Canada today, apparently ready to usher in the month of spring with a traditional roar.

Driving winds, rain and snow were reported in every area in of Canada today, the last day of February. Tradition has it that if March roars in like a lion the month will meek as a lamb—and vice versa.

In Southern Ontario, at least three persons were killed when the winds swept rain and snow across the province. The weather was forecast more rain and snow for today and Saturday.

Rain, hail and gale - force winds were expected in the mainland section of British Columbia.

Blowing and drifting snow and winds reached gale force in southern Alberta.

It was snowing today across the Prairies, the heaviest falls reported in the Swift Current area.

Cold winds with gusts up to 60 miles an hour swept rain and snow across the Toronto area yesterday, leaving a trail of damaged cars and snarling traffic. Four persons died in traffic accidents during the storm.

Albert Scobie, 38, and James Harburn, 30, were killed when their car collided with a truck on Highway 401 near Port Credit, almost blew policemen off their feet. Another person investigated the crash. Truck driver Kenneth Wilson, 35, the only passenger in his car, escaped injury.

William Dunn, 84, was fatally injured when he walked into the path of a car on a Toronto street. An unidentified man was killed when his car went out of control on a sideroad east of Highway 401 and crashed down a 30-foot embankment.

Fire broke out in Leo French's art gallery in midtown Toronto, threatening a four-storey building and damaging the first floor apartment and five shops before being controlled. No one was injured, persons were forced out.

Rain near Oakville, midway between Toronto and Hamilton, weakened a quarter mile of the third line road, which collapsed. Power failures were reported from Markham, Whitchurch and King townships in the Toronto area and the villages of Markham and Stouffville reported blackouts.

Tunisia Expels 12 Frenchmen; Will Try Seven

TUNIS (Reuters) — Tense Franco-Tunisian relations suffered a new jolt today when Tunisia expelled 12 Frenchmen in the Sahara desert. Secretary envoy Robert Murphy's "good offices" bid to smooth the quarrel.

Seven of the 12 will work as the dozen resident Frenchmen, all members of a secret band of legion, were escorted to Tunis airport and put on a plane for Paris.

The Tunisian government reported an assistant police, and to-day official sources said seven Frenchmen arrested here Thursday night will be tried for illegal possession of arms.

Tunisia did not disclose the reason for today's expulsions. Jean-Pierre Benard, French charge d'affaires, protested to foreign minister Sadok Mokadem at the way in which the order of arrests were carried out.

French sources reported Tunisian police arrested the dozen men in Bizerte and Menzel-Bourguiba and brought them to Tunis in a police van.

Then, Tunisian officials said two Frenchmen arrested Thursday at Cap Bon had been freed. This accompanied the announcement that seven Frenchmen arrested Thursday will be tried for illegal arms possession.

RUSSIA MAKES RADICAL CHANGE IN FARM POLICY

All-Out Drive Seen To Cut Food Prices

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia is going all out to cut food prices and boost agricultural production.

This became clear to observers here today following an announcement that the central committee of the Communist party has given its approval to an agricultural reorganization plan drawn up by party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The key proposal is Khrushchev's scheme would allow collective farms to own their own machinery—a move which Stalin always opposed on "ideological" grounds. At present the farms use machines provided by state-run tractor stations.

Khrushchev's proposal, regarded by Western observers as a revolutionary change in Russian agriculture, is aimed chiefly at increasing efficiency on the farms and thus boosting food crops throughout the Soviet Union.

HOPE TO MATCH U.S.

Behind the reorganization, observers said, is the Russian hope of matching the American performance of producing more meat and milk—the long - cherished goal of Soviet farmers.

Agriculture has long been one of the most difficult problems facing the Soviet Union. Since Stalin's death Russian collective farmers have been offered new production incentives and are enjoying a period of unprecedented prosperity.

Thursday night's communique from the Communist party's central committee said the income of collective farms had risen by 35 per cent during the last four years. But Soviet leaders say the difficult task of bringing agriculture entirely under state control.

$75,000 Fire At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Fire roared through a midtown Yonge St. art gallery Thursday night and threatened a four-storey business block containing 15 apartments and five shops before being extinguished.

More than 100 persons were forced onto the street, but no one was injured. Chief Irving Wylie estimated damage to the building at $75,000.

The flames, fed by paints and turpentine, burst through the roof of Frenchi Art Gallery.

Gallery owner Leo French said his entire stock was lost. The first estimate of its value was immediately available.

School Bus Falls Into Rain-Swollen Kentucky Creek

Some Youngsters Climb Out Door, Make Bank

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A county school bus carrying 40 youngsters collided with a truck, sideswiped an automobile, then plunged into the swollen fork of Big Sandy River today.

State police said more than 20 children and the bus driver may have died in the accident three miles south of here. The youngsters escaped by climbing through a rear door before the bus sank.

State police said the bus skidded to the edge of the bank, halted momentarily, then rolled into the water.

Ten youngsters scrambled through a rear door and headed ashore. The last girl out managed to save herself by grabbing the foot of a man on the bank.

Rescue workers began dragging the river but were unable to locate the bus, which sank in about 30 feet of water.

They later called for nets to aid in the operation.

Hospital officials at Prestonsburg high school said the bus had left Betsy Layne, Ky., and had been with the county system more than five years.

They said the youngsters were headed for elementary and high schools from rural homes covering a 15-mile area in this coal mining community, about 80 miles southwest of Huntington W.Va.

State police quoted one of the rescued children as saying at least 19 children and the bus driver were still on the bus when it submerged.

Hoax Results In Student March On Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Some 35 University of Toronto students marched on the Ontario legislature Thursday, taken in by a student newspaper hoax.

The Varsity reported a cut in provincial aid to the university in its annual gag issue Thursday and urged a march on the legislature and protest to Premier Frost, who brought down the Ontario budget Wednesday.

Those who turned out to protest the reported cut of $500,000 to $8,160,000 were at the legislature buildings before they were told of the hoax.

The actual budget raised the university's grant to $10,522,000 from $8,972,000.

Czechs Crush Finland 5-1 in Hockey Opener

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Czechoslovakia crushed Finland 5-1 Friday in a near-perfect start to the world ice hockey championships at the outdoor Jordal Amphi stadium.

A heavy snow fell throughout the match. The game developed into one of hide and seek as players lost sight of the puck in clouds of snow on the rink.

"It was more like a game played in snow like this before," said Czech team manager Josef Blair, whose Whitby entry does not make its debut until Saturday.

The snow made it difficult for the players, who were constantly skating and forced them to hit the puck with greater power to keep it from getting lost.

The Czechs scored two goals in the first and second periods apiece and the teams split the third period's two markers.

Only about 1,000 fans—most of them schoolboys and schoolgirls turned up for the curtain raiser.

U.S. Scientist Predicts Voyages Into Space Beyond Mars in 1980's

WASHINGTON (AP)—An astronautical scientist predicted today that small scouting parties can be landed on the moon by 1970.

From a zone there men could later move on to Mars and, during the 1980s, into the outer solar system, Krafft A. Ehricke told in a speech prepared for an air force association jet age conference.

Ehricke, a scientist with the missiles and astronautics group of General Dynamics Corporation put forth this timetable for lunar travel.

In the period 1958-64, a rocket shot close to the moon, then one impacting on the moon, another circumnavigating it and one landing in a controlled landing on the surface.

In the 1964-66 period, landing of manned rockets to cruise near enough to make a reconnaissance and, "in the period 1967-70, landing small scouting parties."

These would decide if a permanent moon base should be undertaken.

If a base was decided upon, development of a supply system for a base would be carried on in the late 1970s.

The timetable from the moon to distant Mars, 100 million miles away, would be 1970s, trips to the outer solar systems in the 1980s.

Ehricke suggested preliminary designs for a moon space ship, produced by 2,700,000 pounds of rocket thrust, capable of "landing a 22,000-pound payload on the moon or orbiting a 20,000-pound payload around Mars."

Carrying only a 15,000-pound payload, the ship could land men on the moon, he said, with fuel to return to the edge of earth's atmosphere. There the men would transfer to a glider device for soaring back to earth.

Tweed Company Fails in Appeal Against Tax

OTTAWA (CP) — The Exchequer Court of Canada has rejected the argument that a ready-mix food product should be exempt from the eight-per cent sales tax if it consists of edible ingredients not subject to tax.

The court's decision is contained in a judgment issued here Thursday upholding a decision of the tariff board that a product called Magic-Pep is not exempt from sales tax. It is produced by W. T. Hawkins Limited of Tweed, Ont.

The company argued its popcorn should not be taxed because it consists of corn, shortening and salt which are not subject to the tax. It submitted that the three ingredients are in their natural state and that its popcorn is not a manufactured product but three tax-exempt articles in a form convenient for ready use.

Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron rejected their arguments.

He said the company's product is an entirely new article, a ready-to-eat article. The act did not exempt from tax goods consisting of a number of ingredients exclusive and the product could not be described as a grain or seed in the natural state not subject to tax.

Napanee Extends Royal Welcome To Detroit Wings

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Jack Adams, general manager of the Detroit Red Wings, came back Thursday to this Eastern Ontario town where he met his wife and brought it a big Ice National Hockey League team for an exhibition game.

An estimated 1,500 of a total population of 4,362 turned out Thursday night at the Napanee memorial rink, built only two years ago, to see the Wingless Comets of the Ontario Hockey Association's Intermediate A series play the professional Detroit took the game 11-3.

The visitors were a big hit in the town during the day. In the afternoon more than 775 turned out in the public school auditorium for a schoolboys' welcome. A special steak dinner was laid on before the game.

Local hockey enthusiasts have been trying to arrange the visit for some time through Adams, who lived in this town, 19 miles west of Kingston, 30 years ago when he played for the old Napanee Senators. He brought along his wife and they renewed old friendships during the day. Adams, 62, was born at Fort William.

'Britain Has Her Problems' Says High Commissioner in Address to Women's Club

Last evening the Women's Canadian Club was privileged to have as guest speaker, James Thomson, C.M.G. O.B.E., United Kingdom High Commissioner, who gave a most enlightening talk on "Britain Has Her Problems."

Mr. Thomson, a Scot, was educated in Edinburgh; served in the First World War as second and fourth Canadian Divisions in France. During the last war he was in charge of the economic division of the Indian office. In 1950 he was a member of the United Kingdom delegation, which evolved the Colombo Plan for economic development in Asia.

Last year he resigned as London, a new machine, the "Zeta" has been developed which can raise the temperature to 5,000,- 00 degrees Centigrade. Using one part in water, H2O is heavy hydrogen, wonderful energy can be produced from ocean water by fusion.

RUSSIA VS. UNITED KINGDOM

In comparing Russia's strength with that of the United Kingdom, in armaments Russia is superior. As to the discontinuing of the forces of occupation, it is for every country to withdraw her forces a mile out of the sovereign country, but not for the United States and the United Kingdom. Russia could return quickly, but not so the other two over their 3,000 miles.

The piling up armaments is difficulty, which a chance wind might fan from a spark into a flame.

Since 1945 the Commonwealth has had the greatest change in its government, while Russia has the 1,000,000 Soviet troops behind the iron curtain. Russia still tries to dominate the world by infiltration, by Communist puppet governments, by ceaseless efforts to create unrest. Armed in the Far East and now her interests are toward the Middle East as the result of the failure of the world's oil.

"It still seems the middle east all is over for the democratic west. Russia must be prevented from reaching the Persian Gulf. This must be done by the co-operation of the Americans, United States and the United Kingdom and inter-dependence. No nation can stand alone. There must be inter-dependence of financial systems as well as economic dependence. "Democracies are impatient, but we can build up a new confidence and co-operation for the lasting peace and security mankind," concluded the speaker.

The High Commissioner was thanked for his fine talk by Belleville mayor Jane Forrester, to which Mrs. Thomson briefly responded her appreciation.

Previous to the address, Dr. George Blobin rose in a brief outline of the new Blood Donors Clinic Service which will be held on March 4. The donor panel consists of 15,000 names, with 30 donors per clinic session, which will be by appointment. The hospital receives the blood stores it, and administers when needed, thus avoiding serious delay. This is a community project.

Public School Board to Get $48,000 Additional Grants

New provincial educational grants announced earlier this week in Toronto should produce about $48,000 in additional money for public schools in Belleville this year, it was stated today by Lawrence A. Kells, schools administrator for the city public school board.

Total money to be received for public schools in Belleville this year is estimated at approximately $200,000, as compared with $151,500 which would have been received under the system of grants applying last year.

Roy Dulmage, secretary of the Bay of Quinte Public School Board, said today he had received the new schedule of grants applying to schools this morning and as yet had not had the opportunity to determine what additional money the board would receive.

"It looks like a considerable increase in grants, and I am also happy to know that the department has left the board in the position that it will continue to be eligible for higher grants for rural pupils," he said.

He noted that the new grant schedule was "very complicated" and that it would take two or three days' hard work to determine exactly the board's new position.

Yesterday Mr. Kells, as inspector for Belleville public schools, was in Peterborough for a district meeting held to explain the new grant positions.

SECOND STAGE IN REVISION

Mr. Kells noted the new system of grants announced this week by the Department of Education, was the second stage of a three-stage school grants revision announced a year ago by Hon. Dana Porter.

The first stage was put into effect last year with the city receiving nearly $30,000 from an $11 grant per pupil on average attendance. This stage last year cost the province about $10,000,-000 in additional school grants.

The second stage of the three-stage program being put into effect this year will cost the province an additional $33 million in grants, while a third stage to go into effect in 1959 will be based on current year figures.

The schools grant system this year has been changed from a basis of population to an assessment basis with an equalizing factor set for all municipalities. A limit of 160 per cent over last year's assessment has been set.

Belleville's assessment factor has been set at 103 per cent of last year's assessment, which means that for educational grants assessment remains about the same.

Also taken into consideration this year are what are termed "considerable extraordinary expenses. This factor takes into consideration "area of rapidly expanding areas, and is arrived at by finding out how much is spent on debentures for improvements and for transportation.

Belleville's grants this year will be 40 per cent or recognized approved costs, plus $11 per pupil of average attendance and other minor amounts such as grants on' text books totalling about $6,000.

HOW GRANTS DIVIDED

Mr. Kells said grants on city school debentures were expected to amount this year to about $28,000; and grants on teachers' salaries limited to $115 per pupil of average attendance, about $118,000; the average attendance grant of $18 per pupil, $46,-000, and the $8,000 for books, or a total of about $200,000. This as mentioned is an estimated $48,000 over the amount of public school grants which would have been received under

Slush Turns City Streets Into 'Swamps'

"In like a lion and out like a lamb" is a familiar adage this time of year. Tomorrow marks the first day of March, the month when Mother Nature tends to do all kinds of strange things.

March is certainly being ushered in like a lion. The filtration station on the Trent Road reported this morning that from 4.20 a.m. Thursday to 11.30 this morning 8.3 inches of snow and 0.98 inch of rain fell in Belleville. Applying the conversion factor of 10 inches of snow to one inch of water, it means that 1.81 inches of water are on the ground in addition to three or four inches of slush.

The duty forecaster at RCAF Station, Trenton, reported the same picture over there. He said the "jet stream" which at this time of the year normally flows a short distance south of the Quinte district, is shipping up winds of 200 m.p.h. at 30,000 feet over Louisiana and has fostered a storm centre over the eastern states. The weather condition in this area is created by the disturbance in the eastern U.S.

The city works department has about 25 vehicles and 40 men combating the slippery and sloppy street conditions in Belleville. A spokesman at the department explained that trucks and workmen first clear main arteries and then go out to the side streets. They are experiencing some difficulties with blocked catch basins.

What's the weather outlook for the week-end? You've guessed it: rain and snow, slightly colder and light winds from the southwest.

Two Men Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Two men were killed Thursday night when their car collided with a truck in suburban Scarborough. Dead are Albert Lanthaun, 30, and Albert Scobie, 37.

Monday evening the city public school board will hold a special meeting to reconsider their 1958 requisition and to provide such information as will be required by city council to enable it to set the tax rate.

Quoting Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, Mr. Kells said the new grants were not designed to provide educational luxury or to encourage extravagance but would enable school boards to look to the future.

Gas Turned On By Mayor Burtt In Ceremony

TRENTON — Natural gas was officially brought to Trenton yesterday in an impressive ceremony at the corner of West and Murray Streets and a luncheon at the Hotel Gilbert.

At the outside ceremony Mayor Ross Burtt turned on a valve which shot the gas from a special pipe. It was instantly ignited to make it visible to the eye. The mayor turned on the gas after a short address by an official of the Lakeland Gas Company.

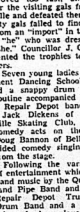
Many town officials attended the out-door opening despite the heavy snow which was falling at the time.

Guests of the Lakeland Natural Gas Company then left for the Hotel Gilbert, where dinner was served and the working of the company and the benefits natural gas will bring to the community were described by Irving Yewman, general sales manager of the company, C. Wade McCoy, vice president and general-manager of the company, also spoke briefly.

The company plans to open an office in Trenton to handle its interests and this office will come under control of the main office in Kingston.

Work is expected to begin in late March or early April in running the gas lines along the various town streets. It is also expected that the gas will be available to home owners in all the eastern part of town by homes which are situated on the streets that now have the main line will be able to connect earlier.

Although the line has not been run from the east to the west side of the town, it is expected to be done as soon as possible and will probably be ready by late June or July on the river bed near one of the railway bridges.



Booster Night At Community Centre Enjoyed

TRENTON — A broom-ball game featured the entertainment at the Trenton Booster Club night in the Trenton Community Centre here on Wednesday. Attendance was reported at record level.

Belleville Boosters won the broomball match by the highly entertaining game which lasted for two periods. The game which is played with a ball and plain brooms, proved interesting to the crowd of spectators, ing for referee Gord Flynn when someone tossed an extra ball on the ice. The final minutes and exciting play went on around the clock.

In the girls' hockey game the Trenton "Terrors" proved somewhat too fast, and rugged, for the visiting gals from Belleville. Trenton defeated the Belleville girls by 5 to 0.

Following the various forms of entertainment which included band music by the Quinte High land Pipe Band and the No. 6 Repair Depot Stringer and Drum Band and a parade by minor hockey teams, the evening was brought to a close with a dance on the ice.

ADLAI HAS ATTENTIVE AUDIENCE

Adlai E. Stevenson, right, twice-defeated Democratic candidate for the presidency, is shown chatting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the bipartisan meeting in Washington on foreign aid. Later, Stevenson urged the administration to enlarge its foreign aid program and invite Russia to co-operate with the U.S. in helping undeveloped countries. He said that even "if the Soviets are not interested in joining our international effort, such an offer would at least unmask the motives behind their assistance programs."

Kiwanians Hear Club Reports

TRENTON — Committee reports highlighted the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club last night in the Hotel Gilbert, with president Grant Gooding on the chair.

A full report was heard from Al Perry, chairman of the membership committee, who stated there were two new members inducted during the past month in the persons of Steve Herman dealer in Head-O'Neil, both now employed in Trenton. He also stated he felt that each member should look for new members, choosing the type of men that would be invited in with their own homes.

Bill Muhlhauser, chairman of the inter-club committee, reported that five members of the club visited the Kiwanis Club during the month of the regular meetings. He said they also had informed the Belleville club by planning a mass meeting of both the clubs in this area to which the governor-general for this district will be invited. It will be held on March 25. He said he hoped a large delegation from Trenton will attend this meet.

Alf Mulley, chairman of public and business affairs, told the meeting a delegate from each political party will be speaking during the coming month at local meetings. He said his committee had contacted the Chamber of Commerce in Trenton for a joint meeting with the "Ballot Battalion" on the forthcoming election day. He praised the work of the members of the club for their excellent help during the recent show, "Follies of 1958."

Ted Parker asked the members to encourage enough money to purchase a lunch for the Trenton Bantam hockey team, which will be going to Whitby on Saturday night to play an exhibition game there. Nearly fifty members donated a total of over $20 for this purpose.

Following the business meeting a short sing-song was led by Captain Bill Brown of the Trenton Salvation Army. Three guests attended the meeting.

Comets Chosen To Represent Trenton Station

TRENTON — The Comets' 9-3 defeat of the Falcons in RCAF hockey play last night at the Community Centre gives them the right to represent the Trenton Station in Training Command playoffs which begin tomorrow in St. Johns, Quebec.

The Rockets whipped the FIS 6-1 last night to take undisputed first place in regular league play. The Rockets were also tied with the Comets in the Big Four group and to determine the team to represent the station the average of total goals for and against in this series was the key. The Comets' win last night enabled them to edge out the Rockets by four points.

The Combines, who have been in the cellar all season, getting no wins until about two weeks ago, defeated the Headquarters squad 4-1 that night to win a playoff berth in the "Little Four" playoffs for a special station award.

Sgt. Gord Crowder took the high scoring award for the season with a total of 83 points. His closest opponent for the title was Comets' Kaulback, who has 77 points.

The teams will go into the finals next week on the Comets' ice going to St. Johns Saturday for a sudden-death game. A win there will send them on to Camp Borden next Saturday. A win at Camp Borden would give them the eastern championship and entitle them to play off with the western winner at Winnipeg.

Major Gasoline War Raging In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — A major gasoline war that started when one station decided to cut out the sale of premium gas cheaply has been raging here for a week.

Thirty-one companies and a host of Hamilton service stations now are involved. Dominion Motors Limited, an independent outlet which had been shaving prices for a week, lopped two cents off its price and sold gas for 30.9 cents a gallon.

Six other stations in a three-block area on Main Street made a recognized extraordinary expense. The price at supervisory level to combat the situation.

Spokesmen for several large companies said they are considering their dealers in the fight.

REDUCTION SPREADS

For two days the six stations had the market almost to themselves. The other Hamilton dealers stayed aloof until Monday, when their prices also went down.

In Windsor, a dozen service station operators have dropped their prices by 2½ cents for standard gas. They said the cut was their answer to a campaign started by one operator who was offering gas for that price on Tuesday.

The 30.9 price was also popping up in Toronto, notably on the main north-south arteries of Dufferin and Bathurst streets.

THE RUSSIANS AND DOGS

When the Russians placed a dog in their second Sputnik, dog-lovers throughout the world were enraged.

We had scant sympathy for these critics. The use of a dog to pave the way for man's entry into space appeared to us to be justified.

We are not so sure that the same defence can be applied to the Russian scientist who transplanted a dog's head to the body of a puppy and kept the puppy alive for six days, nor to the scientist who amputated a dog's head and kept it alive on a plate for several hours.

The Russians say that these experiments are aimed at solving the problem of transplanting human limbs.

If there were any reasonable hope that human beings who lose their limbs could eventually be supplied with new ones, we would be inclined to defend these Russian experiments with dogs, cruel though they may seem to be.

It seems to us, though, that there is a ticklish problem of supply involved. Where is it proposed to obtain these live legs and arms which are to be grafted on a man who has had a limb amputated? A two-eyed man may donate one of his eyes to a blind man and if the eye were successfully transferred both men would be able to see. One man would be infinitely better off and the other would not suffer a loss comparable to the other's gain. But the best which could result from grafting limbs would be a problem of two one-legged men in the place of one man with no legs and one man with two legs. It would be rather difficult to argue that the man who donated a leg had not suffered a severe loss, equal to the gain of the no-legged man who now possessed one leg.

The only way in which the ability to graft new limbs on a human being might be used to alleviate human suffering would be if the grafted limb were taken from a man who had just died. But if this is the objective, why cannot the Russian experiments be conducted with dogs which have just died, and why are these experiments being undertaken with the heads of dogs rather than with limbs?

That the Russian experiments advance human knowledge cannot be denied. What can, and should, be denied is that any amount of cruelty to animals can be justified by any advance in human knowledge, no matter how small. If the means can be justified at all, in these experiments, it can only be justified by the end, which means that the end must be of sufficient importance. That the likelihood of giving new limbs to the limbless as the result of the Russian experiments is great enough to justify this butchery of living dogs we doubt.

TRANS-CANADA PIPE LINES AGAIN

Across the nation, there have been few controversies in recent years which stirred such deep interest as that surrounding Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Now construction work on this project is well along, but the firm is under scrutiny of a commission appointed by the Federal Government to investigate Canada's sources of energy.

In one sense, while interest in the pipe line was high during the summer of 1955, this interest was academic in nature.

A report on the Borden commission's hearings has now brought the firm into the field of local interest. Last Friday the commission was told by R. H. Milner of Edmonton, who he had resigned as vice-president of the company because he was "not entirely in sympathy" with the firm's plan to export natural gas to the midwestern United States. Originally one of the reasons for this export, he said, was to create a situation that would favor lower gas rates to Eastern Canada consumers.

"That seems to have been lost sight of entirely," he told the commission.

That made our ears perk up. With Lakeland Natural Gas Ltd. having held its official "turning on" ceremonies at Firemen's Park here only the previous day, Belleville residents now have a sort of "vested interest" in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines. It is true that the gas delivered in Belleville now comes from the United States, but eventually, when the Northern Ontario leg of the pipeline is completed, it will be gas from Alberta fields which supplies the city. If Mr. Milner is right, if Trans-Canada has "lost sight entirely" of the desirability of cheap gas rates for Belleville, and other centres in Eastern Canada, we want to hear all about it. Just what change there has been in the export policy, and just how any such change would affect the situation here, was not made clear in the report of Friday's meeting of the energy commission. This, though, is a point which ought to be dealt with further at future hearings of the commission.

FIGHT IT OUT

When Trouble comes up to your door,
And brings his army, Doubt,
Don't run away in fear, my boy,
But stay and fight it out.

Stand up to Trouble like a man,
Meet him without a groan,
Your face high up and shoulders square,
And fight it out alone.

Old Trouble and his army,
Doubt,
All cowards quickly rout;
But brave men never fall to win
Who stay and fight it out.

Milk May Cure Hay Fever

Farm Journal

Some people in Chicago are going to try to drink away their hay fever next summer. But they'll do it with milk — milk from cows that have had pollen introduced into their udders.

This inoculation builds up antibodies in the blood which pass into the milk and give you resistance to hay fever, when you drink the milk.

Fifteen cows at the Hawthorne-Melling dairy farm will be inoculated with pollen for three months. Then chemists, physicians and board of health personnel will drink the milk and see how they fare through the hay fever season.

The idea has worked in tests by Dr. W. E. Petersen of the University of Minnesota dairy department, who discovered the "pollective milk" technique.

Petersen's theory prevented sore virus infections; even relieved arthritis with milk from cows that had been inoculated with the disease producer.

Their Inches All Differ

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Perhaps someone from "Texas, where everything must be bigger and better, is responsible for this. It seems that an inch in the United States is larger than an inch in Canada. For scientists this is a bad state of affairs, and solutions are being made to have it corrected.

The recent talk to the American Ordnance Association, Dr. A. V. Astin, director of the National Bureau of Standards in Washington, said that each of the three nations has a slightly different inch. The one in the U. S. is longest, followed by the United Kingdom's. The difference in each inch would be only a part in 100,000 but that was enough to cause considerable waste and confusion during the Second World War. Apparently it's much worse in these days of guided missiles and other fantastic creations.

Dr. Astin proposed that the three nations agree on a precise relationship of the yard to the international meter. This was agreed by all countries, including Russia, that use the metric system. This would produce an inch of 2.54 centimetres, exactly the standard now used in Canada.

It doesn't sound much to ask that by 1959 the inch should be about two parts in a million, but the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey is fighting the change. For one thing, legal boundaries all would have to be changed and they have to be changed by as much as three or four miles.

It is unfortunate that the whole world does not use the much better metric system, but it would be vain now even to suggest it. Perhaps all we can hope for is compromise in the U. S. on the inch, adopting the Canadian inch for science and industry, but giving it no legal significance. Whether this would change it we do not know: the British won't even agree to drive on the right-hand side of the road!

Letter To The Editor

Why Lighting Poor At Concert at BCI

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer.

I would like to make some explanation on the lighting situation as commented upon in the writeup of the Lang and Lang Belleville concert. Mr. Lang and our public may not know the lighting set-up at the auditorium. It is designed and admirably equipped for stage productions, but is simply not able to provide proper lighting of such an ensemble as we had the other night. You could do all the "serious looking-into" you wanted and that would not remedy the difficulty.

Granted, the lighting was "atrocious" the first half, but that was the way the orchestra's manager arranged it. Seeing how dreadful it was, we attempted to improve it some, with these things in mind:

1 A spotlight absolutely impossible. The men refuse to play with one — and rightly so, as it blinds those who are trying to watch them.

2 The only alternatives to that were:

(a) Moving the orchestra way back under the overhead stage lights, which would make the sound not good enough; besides leaving behind, there is not enough space for the orchestra.

(b) Turning on the house lights, which, of course, the audience strenuously objects, as those lights are always in line of their vision and really cause discomfort. (And we had a nearly full balcony the other night.)

So, what did we do to better the situation? First, a little "fill-in" added on only a few of the house lights — comprising giving, I hope only slightly, angulus to the balcony audience, and shedding a little light on the orchestra floor. There's nothing else we can do, unless it were to get behind the footlights to provide lighting system more versatile, and suited to concert, as well as stage production needs. In the meantime, if we must choose between hearing an inadequately lighted orchestra and none at all, I think perhaps we'd vote for the former. Unanimously, how about that lighting drive Think it possible?

Yours all for it
Leona Riggs

Horse-Sense Cure

Moose Jaw Times-Herald

We still believe that good ordinary horse-sense in handling children in their formative years will meet all requirements. If parents train their children to report where they are going and when they will be back during their absence from home, they will not fall into any serious difficulties.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REGIONAL WRITERS

I like to read authors who write in particular about a part of the country. Examples: Harnette Kane, who writes of New Orleans and the Bayou Teche; Hervey Allen, "The Gallant Mrs. Sidewall" (Jackson). He has written it to date and you can't read any of his books without becoming better informed about his country and its people. Then there is the extraordinary Conrad Richter, whose latest brief novel is "The Lady." To get the flavor of early Pennsylvania, read Richter. He is one of our finest historical novelists. Another of my favorite regional writers is Jesse Stuart, who writes about Kentucky hillbillies. He has written a dozen and more books but his "Taps for Private Tussie" and his Kentucky books make you feel as though you were a neighbor of the author. Being a former teacher, he came to hat his characters in his fine book "The Thread That Runs So True."

If we left out the Mississippi stories of Mark Twain we would be missing much of his most charming and important writing. His "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" have become immortal classics.

Robert Frost was born in California but his adopted state has been Vermont. New Hampshire and Vermont are New England folks. If this region should be taken from Frost he would have to give it back to the Indians with him. He is a part of the earth itself. Over the cities about simple things, too, but he must have his beloved region to inspire him. The thing is that these regional writers so worth while is that they are first of all American. We need them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the waiting room of one of our public buildings yesterday I witnessed quite a lively conflagration.

Sitting prominently along the wall of the room was a large waste basket about three feet tall and over a foot wide. It was painted glossy green. And stencilled boldly across its face were the words:

"No cigaret butts please."

Those of us sitting on the benches and chairs stopped conversation to enter the sanctum, were either stamping out our butts on the linoleum floor, or else were crang out into the hall to find the ash tray in its place.

The waste basket had slowly filled up with paper, as we visitors threw it away the official figure we had guessed up on the first try. The odd visitor had tidied his newspaper in it after smoking it away.

A government cleaning man had emptied his pan and swiped the floor. He joggled the waste basket. It rang softly.

"Cigaret butts please"

The "no" had got turned out of sight.

One of the new arrivals chuckled. He picked up his hat and brief case. There was a brief smoulder of smoke, and then a sudden flame.

The government should be advised not to paint notices on round surfaces. In this case, it scored its point still,

Financial Aid To Store Wheat On Farms Pledged

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CUDWORTH, Sask. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson has pledged to provide prairie wheat producers with some $20,000,000 a year or more to cover the cost of storing surplus wheat on farms if his party is elected to power March 31.

He said also that a Liberal government would be prepared "to introduce the principle of deficiency payments on grains"; boost initial payments on wheat, oats and barley; and perhaps extend them to cover flax and rye; increase the initial price support on butter; underwrite the idea of a world food bank and fake other steps to increase farm earnings.

He drove through a snowstorm from Saskatoon, about 70 miles southwest of here, to unfold his party's farm policy Thursday night before some 350 farmers who filled a hall in this little community with some 700 persons.

WOULD SUPPORT DAM

Earlier he told a press conference in Saskatoon that as prime minister he would immediately enter into negotiations with the Saskatchewan government to build the much - discussed South Saskatchewan irrigation and power project under federal-provincial co-operation.

Here in the wheat belt, Mr. Pearson said his main concern was to guarantee farmers a "fair return," strengthen the farm economy, expand farm credit at low interest rates and improve the fertility of the soil.

He proposed that the Progressive Conservatives' payment of cash advances to farmers continue but criticized them for the all-aged gap between what the Conservatives had done and the "heaven-on-earth" they promised in the last election.

He said the Liberals would enlarge foreign programs to underdeveloped countries and would support the establishment of a world food bank or a NATO food bank to supply surplus grain and other products to needy nations.

FARMERS SUPPORT

The federal price support on butter would be increased immediately to 42 cents a pound from the present 38. The initial price on wheat would be boosted by 25 cents a bushel to $1.50 basis No. 1 Northern. The initial price on wheat board feed oats would be increased to 65 cents a bushel from 60 and on barley to $1.25 from $1.20. Liberals would try to bring flax and rye under similar support.

Perhaps the most significant pledge for wheat farmers was that of paying for the cost of storing wheat on farms. The federal government of the 10-year average for about $30,000,000 a year to pay part or the cost of storing surplus wheat in wheat board elevators.

A Liberal government also would make a "bold attack" on the problem of providing more wheat storage in all three provincial areas. This, said Mr. Pearson, is an urgent matter and his party would give it immediate attention.

Liberals Now Discovering Maritime Needs

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says the Liberals now are discovering the needs of the Maritime Provinces after forgetting them during 22 years in office.

That was the theme of the Progressive Conservative leader's speeches here and at Summerside, P.E.I., Thursday as he opened a three - day campaign swing through the Maritimes.

Mr. Diefenbaker centred his fire on Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson and former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill as he renewed his charge of last year's election campaign: That Mariners had been forgotten people under the Liberals.

"GREAT DISCOVERY"

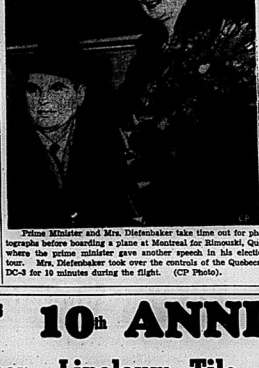
"Mr. Pearson discovered them the other day—one of the great discoveries of modern time," he told a capacity audience here before a capacity audience of 1,100. Another 300 were turned away from the jammed hall.

Here and at Summerside he said Mr. Pickersgill has realized that the things that count for the Maritime Provinces by the Conservative government had been under consideration by the Liberals.

"They thought of it—we did it," Mr. Diefenbaker said over and over again.

"In eight months we have done things that the last government, during several of the years and years," he told an audience of 900 at Summerside, 40 miles west of here.

Mr. Pearson's "repentance" after the act gives no indication of a change of heart."



REVIEWS GRANTS

Mr. Diefenbaker ticked off the things he said the Liberals had forgotten. He said the Liberal government has done for the Atlantic Provinces—equalization grants of $25,000,000 a year for four years; the start of a $300,000 survey for a possible causeway to link Prince Edward Island with the New Brunswick mainland; federal aid to power development, including special subventions of coal for power plants; the Farm Price Support Act which he said could include potatoes "any time there is a request."

He also said "full consideration" is being given to the possibility of the 10-year average for nine products: cattle, hogs, sheep butter, eggs, cheese and non-permissible, oats and barley.

He said emphatically both here and at Summerside that this 80-per-cent floor is assured for "all farm products" in the event of a disastrous drop in market prices.

Conservatives came out of last year's election with 21 of the 33 Atlantic Provinces seats, compared with six before the election.

TIME OUT

House Repair Racket Seen From New Angle

A new angle in the chimney and house repair racket has turned up in the Toronto area with a result that police have warned out for the arrest of three men.

Police Chief Walter Probert of Belleville warns local householders to be on the lookout to guard against similar practices in the Belleville area.

At Oakville three men ranging in ages from 25 to 33 years called on an elderly Oakville woman stating they were inspectors checking on work done by the chimney sweep. The woman said she had had work done and the men asked to see receipts in order to check for possible over-charging. On checking receipts the men said that it appeared the woman had been over-charged by $965.

On the promise that they would use the workmen for the amount over-charged, the men talked the woman into writing them a cheque for double the over-charge.

The cheque was cashed and nothing more was heard from the men.

Five Brownies Present Gifts To Pediatrics

DESERONTO — The 1st Deseronto Brownie pack celebrated "Thinking Day" at the regular meeting. As each Brownie entered, she was given a badge representing another country and throughout the ceremony she took part as a Brownie from that country.

Brown Owl, Mrs. A. Fox, started a chain to circle the world and each Brownie formed a link in the chain, lighting a candle to place on the birthday cake. The fairy gold for this day was given to the World Friendship Fund.

A special event was the presentation of B. P. pins to all Brownies who completed the project last year. This project was a combined effort of the 1st and 2nd Deseronto packs. The Brownies made place mats, letter cards, activity books, dolls and doll baskets which were presented to the children in the pediatric ward of the Belleville General Hospital.

Five Brownies were chosen to go to the Hospital, through the courtesy of Mr. K. Box, Administrator, and the head nurse of the pediatrics ward were allowed to give some of their gifts to the children in the wards.

'Rural Safety Driving' Urged

STIRLING—On Monday evening, men, women and teenagers gathered in Stirling Theatre to learn better and safer ways of driving cars and tractors in the rural areas.

The event was sponsored by Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, and their president, Ross Ketcheson, of Moira, was master of ceremonies.

A special address was given by Sgt. Devereaux, Belleville, by authority of Hon. A. Kelso Roberts, Attorney-General of Ontario. The Ontario Provincial Police officers are urging the co-operation of motorists and farmers to observe safety rules.

Sgt. Devereaux gave a worthwhile message based on the theme "I Believe in Safety." Traffic is a serious problem and he was glad to have the opportunity of speaking to an audience who had come voluntarily to the theatre to learn something about carefully driving.

The speaker gave concise pictures of such things as brakes, and cold of a simple test that would enable any motorist to know if his car would respond to the application of brake fluid loomed up in front. He urged motorists to have their in perfect alignment and not to make excuses. Then too, special attention should be paid to headlights, tail lights, windshield wipers.

PERIODIC CHECK

If all motorists checked their car periodically and kept everything in good condition, then life might be saved. The speaker said very few people know the proper way to pass a car or a truck. He gave explicit directions for this manoeuvre and urged that the motorist drive at a continuous rate of speed and to be sure that you saw the chap you passed in your up-to-date rear view mirror.

Farmers all over the province are being driven off the beaten tracks. The old proverb "familiarity breeds contempt" is true in this respect as motorists should slow to 20 miles per hour at crossings and always keep a lookout for an oncoming train at any hour of the day or night.

There will always be speeders on the highways and the careful motorist should be alert at all times.

Considerable time was spent explaining the interchange to a four-lane highway. By way of a diagram the slower lead near Belleville was pictured and full instructions given for travelling to any of the various points, such as Belleville, Trenton, Kingston and Stirling. The two centre lanes are for through traffic, and motorists always enter a clover leaf from the right.

The audience was cautioned to obey the rules of the road with special thought to the "Do Not Enter" signs, and thus save your life.

FILMS SHOWN

Sidney MacDonald, agricultural representative for Hastings county, was in charge of the projector. The first film was entitled "Crash and Live." This pictured research work at Cornell University, and presented numerous safety methods that would be valuable in the manufacture of new cars.

The second film, "Miracles from Pleasant Valley," gave a vivid picture of what could happen to man and mains as well as kill humanity.

FARM HAZARDS

Farmers took chances with their tractors and other farm equipment, and they were cars in their children drive and ride.

This vivid portrayal of actual happenings gave the audience a reminder of the dangers to be met with with all farm equipment, as well as being always on guard while going about the daily routine of farm duties.

Miss Marilyn Conley contributed piano music; Mrs. Percy MacMullen rendered two humorous readings; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson with Mrs. Phil Conley as accompanist, gave two vocal duets.

Booklets on "Highway Signs and What They Mean" were distributed.

George Carlisle voiced appreciation on behalf of the federation; to the speaker for his message, and to all others who had assisted with the program, also to those who catered. The dinners repaired to the community hall where about 15 members of Rivers Inst. Women's Institute served sandwiches, pickles, cheese, cakes and tea.

Lone male in the home economics course at University of Montreal, Marcel Laliberte gets lots of feminine attention from his 59 girl classmates. The latter were disappointed when they learned that Marcel, 31, is happily married and the father of three. "Men must learn more about the science of eating," he explains when asked why he entered a traditionally feminine course. When he is graduated, Laliberte plans to apply for an administrative job with a food company.

Rheumatic Fever One of 'Big Four' in Cause of Heart Trouble

By ARNOLD JOHNSTON, M.D. (Asst. Professor, Dept. Paediatrics, McGill University, Montreal.)

Article 5

Rheumatic fever is a serious illness because of its potential power to damage the heart. Together with atherosclerosis (affecting the arteries to the heart muscle), high blood pressure and the heart malformations present at birth, rheumatic fever is one of the "big four" in causing heart trouble. In children it is among the leading causes of death between the ages of five and fifteen years. It is noteworthy that almost all rheumatic heart disease of adult life was acquired in childhood.

Rheumatic fever shows itself in a variety of ways such as St. Vitus' Dance (chorea), more commonly as a painful swelling flitting from joint to joint; or its onset may be attended by severe heart failure. Many children with acute rheumatic fever are not entirely from heart damage, but the heart is affected to some degree in rather more than half of them.

Adequate treatment of an attack of rheumatic fever consists among other things, of a period of bed rest continued until every evidence of the active process has disappeared. It is not possible to predict in an individual case how long this will last, whether two months, six months, or longer, but it is of great importance in preventing further damage to keeping it to a minimum that activities should be resumed no sooner and not ever, once activity is again permitted the majority of children return to their normal routine of school and play.

Frequently, it is not possible to provide adequate care in the home for prolonged periods in bed and some centres have rheumatic fever units where children may receive most of the necessary medical care but also the benefits of play and occupational therapy and where parents may have daily school work from qualified teachers.

TENDENCY TO RECUR

An outstanding characteristic of this illness is its tendency to recur in an individual so afflicted. Such a person may play host to this unwelcome guest as many as four or five times. Not only does this lead to a series of further periods of invalidism, but also subsequent attacks increase the hazards of having the heart damaged or of increasing damage already.

Rheumatic fever may affect all parts of the heart, the outer covering, the muscle or the valves. Whereas the involvement of the first two may cause concern at the onset of the illness, the larger problem is concerned with the future of those children in whom there is valvular damage. An affected valve may be narrower than normal or may permit a leak of blood in the reverse direction. Fortunately, some valvular damage may be present without having to limit a child's activity. In some instances, young men and women in their prime of health are living in the midst of heavy responsibilities reach a point at which the valvular damage is sufficiently severe to restrict their normal activities.

One of the most brilliant chapters of heart surgery has been written in the last few years in a successful effort to widen the narrowed valve in many of these adults and so return them to normal health and activity. Although not all types of valve damage can be repaired, a great deal of research is currently being done to find new avenues of surgical help.

Although the exact cause of rheumatic fever is not known, there is now a great deal of evidence to show that it is related to infection by one portion of the large family of streptococcal germs. Certain drugs prevent infection by these germs.

In children who have had rheumatic fever and who are subject, therefore, to further attacks, it has been found that daily doses of penicillin or a sulfa drug taken by mouth protects against a recurrence of rheumatic fever. This means that if a child escaped the first episode of rheumatic fever without any heart disease he can be protected in a very high degree from any further risk. If some damage to a valve had occurred in the first attack, this can be held to a minimum. Further attack is eliminated by these means.

There may be some prolonged period of taking pills because, as at present suggested by many authorities that this preventative medication should be continued at least five years. In the case of a child having a first attack at, say seven years of age this represents an important undertaking, but this inconvenience is insignificant when in relation to the hazards of acquiring heart disease.

It is fortunate to have a method of preventing recurrences of rheumatic fever. It is, however, the heart can be damaged by the first attack of rheumatic fever, this too should be prevented. Adequate treatment of streptococcal sore throat with penicillin has proved effective in reducing the incidence of rheumatic fever, but in some instances it is not possible to recognize an illness as of streptococcal origin.

Extensive research is being carried on to uncover the exact cause of rheumatic fever but with the information which we already have, it is apparent that much can be done to prevent rheumatic fever occurs can now be greatly reduced.

Nature Stamps Topic at Q.F.N.

The February meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists Club was held on Monday evening in the conference room of the Ennis Technical School, Trenton-Dundas St.

In spite of inclement weather, a good turnout of members attended the meeting. After the business meeting was brought to order by the president, Miss J. Nichols, Mrs. Nicholls read the various lectures and business sessions. Miss D. Young reported on the photography contest with particular emphasis on Mrs. Wallis' success in winning first prize in the zoology section with her fine color photo of a weasel. The members of the Q.F.N. who were present voiced their approval with a round of applause for Mrs. Wallis.

Mrs. Wellis reported on other aspects of the photography contest and on the supper banquet to Hart House.

Mr. Bishop at the meeting was a red-tailed hawk which apparently had been shot by a gun. Unfortunately the bird was brought to the meeting by the time it was dead. However, Q.F.N. deplore the practice of indiscriminate killing of birds as well as other forms of wildlife value. About 65 per cent of the species of birds in this bank, is residents, so this bird must be protected by law.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Dr. A. Arthur of the Entomological Laboratory staff was introduced by Dr. Morris Smith. Dr. Arthur told his talk on "Setting the Members know that he is an avid stamp collector and that there was more to his subject of "Nature Stamps" than just looking at stamps.

Dr. Arthur first gave a general outline on his hobby in general, explaining, as he did so, that he was a "topical" collector who specialized in stamps pertaining to nature. As Dr. Arthur continued to speak it became obvious that he had done a great deal of research in connection with the subjects depicted on his collection.

WILD LIFE AIDS MEDICINE

He spoke first of the considerable number of medical people who have contributed to the knowledge of diseases and sickness through their study with wild life, and insects in particular. Dr. Arthur later showed illustrations of some stamps showing these men.

Most governments of the the world issue stamps with pictures of insects, animals and plants to arouse interest in their users, and have found that many more stamps are sold because of these pictures. Also they have found that the profit from their new stamps find their way into collectors albums thereby defraying some of the profit from their sale, since no letters need be written for the normal postal operations.

Dr. Arthur then went on to show stamps issued by governments of the world and advertising in mind, and these stamps often depict pictures, commemoration days and lately in Europe, space exploration with illustrations of "Sputniks".

Recently governments have become aware of the necessity of acquainting the public with their natural resources and by depicting these on their stamps, the subjects are continually brought to the attention of the public so that they may be recognized.

WHOOPING CRANE

Perhaps the most famous of this type of stamp in Canada is the one depicting the Whooping Crane in flight, and because of the danger of extinction of these birds, the governments of both Canada and the U.S. have issued stamps showing these birds.

Incidentally, Canada issued its first wild life stamps in 1953 and from that time until the present, have had issues showing beaver, bear, walrus, big-horn sheep, muskox and others with which people have become familiar.

The American Wildlife Conservative Service issued its first wildlife stamps in 1956 and other countries also indulge in this practice.

Dr. Arthur illustrated the last part of his talk with projections of many of his better stamps and these included a beautiful set of 25 stamps from Chile depicting many species of Wild Life. Many familiar stamps were shown from New Zealand, Australia, India and many other countries.

MEDICAL FLOWERS, PLANTS

As well as illustrating these, Dr. Arthur drew attention to the many subjects on the stamps which made a topic of interesting description of each one. Most interesting of these was a series from Yugo-Slavia showing flowers and plants used in the preparation of medicine and insecticides, and a further series showing the research done in the control of yellow fever in the West Indies and Central America. These were described and explained by Dr. Arthur to everyone's satisfaction.

Dr. Arthur was thanked by the president, Miss J. Nichols, who called for a vote of appreciation to Dr. Arthur for his fine talk.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

Twice a year in ancient Babylonia marriageable maidens gathered before the temple to be offered in wedlock to the highest bidders.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervan Dale Cross are pictured cutting the cake, following their recent marriage in Centre Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Mary Jean Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ferguson, Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Cross, of Foxboro.

CROSS — FERGUSSON

Centre Street United Church, Belleville, was attractively adorned with baskets of assorted chrysanthemums and palms and ferns on Saturday, February 15th at 3.00 p.m. for a lovely, double-ring wedding, when Mary Jean Fergusson, of R. R. 4 Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Fergusson, became the bride of Ervan "Dale" Cross, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Cross. The Reverend W. E. G. Dovey, officiated.

The traditional wedding music was provided by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, guest pianist, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Muriel Belch, as she rendered "Because", "I Love You, Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert J. Ferguson, was radiant in her bridal gown of white, filmy nylon net over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice glowing with cuppype sequins, and having a bolero with long, pointed sleeves, and pointed collar. The floor-length skirt of nylon net was accented with bands of nylon and lace. She wore a half - pillbox style headdress of matching nylon and net, and carried a white Bible, the gift from the church, accented with red, Sweetheart roses and rosebud - knotted, white satin streamers.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Beth Ferguson, as maid of honor, wearing a powder blue crepe over taffeta, fashioned on princess lines in waltz - length, with matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses mingled with white 'mums.

Mr. Gerald Mindle, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while R. R. 1, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Thomas Le Grow, also of Toronto, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a bridal supper was held at the Orange Hall, Belleville, to which the LOBA ladies of 350 catered.

The bride's table, which was placed beneath cascading streamers of pink and blue with pink bears, was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an archway of lilies-of-the-valley.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with white standards of assorted, colored chrysanthemums and white bells.

For the wedding trip to eastern points, the bride travelled in a rose-colored, knitted suit, with black accessories, and blonde fur jacket. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cross will reside at 602 Spadina Avenue, Toronto.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a dinner at the New Queen's Motel, by the girls of the Income Tax office staff, of which she is a member. The Income Tax staff Association presented her with a jewelry set of china. A shower was also held at Centre Street church, when she was the recipient of many lovely gifts. At a presentation held by the LOBA 350, she was presented with a tid-bit tray of hammered aluminum; and with a silver cream and sugar tray set by the Juvenile Lodge 233, of which she is past president.

THE SACK GETS ROYAL APPROVAL

The controversial sack look gets the stamp of royal approval as Queen Elizabeth, left, and Princess Margaret watch the races at Sandown Park, wearing the latest fashion line. Bri-tish women, who have been cautious about adopting the sack design, will now follow the example of the royal fashion-setters.

The Belleville branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association held its regular meeting on Tuesday morning in the E.O.D.F. hall, with Mrs. E. Veley, president, in the chair.

The first part of the meeting was given over to business, after the reading of the minutes by Miss F. J. B. Herdman, secretary, a number of timely subjects were discussed, among them, the coming convention to be held in Toronto in April. A delegate was chosen to represent the Belleville branch, but all members who could were urged to be present at as many sessions as possible.

Sister Mary Bibiana, a member of the council, brought some highlights from the recent council meeting held in Toronto.

R.M.T.A. ADVANTAGES

After the business meeting, Mr. Robert Bell was called on to speak to the teachers on "The Advantages of Belonging to the R.M.T.A. Association." Mr. Bell outlined the objectives of the Association and stressed the importance of all working together, gathering information from each other, and being able to talk over mutual problems. Belonging to the Association in small centres, the opportunity of meeting and hearing the leading musicians of the country, the history, among them the different examiners.

Mr. Bell stated that "Perhaps the highest ideal that such an Association as ours can attain is the co-operation of teachers in establishing the musical standards of a community. It is our duty to support an organization which does so much towards encouraging the dignity and importance of music as a profession."

FLOWER GIRLS NOT IN RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you advise that I have the little flower girls stand in the receiving-line? The flower girl is my niece, and the other is the groom's niece, and both my family and his family would like to have the two little girls "receive" with the groom's relatives. However, this I do not want, unless it is the correct thing for me to do. Your advice, please?

— J. M.

Flower girls and other child attendants should not be in the receiving-line.

INVITATION TO GROOM'S AUNT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married quite soon, a small wedding and reception in our home. I am planning to write all the notes of invitation (none to be telephoned), and I have drafted the notes to my close relatives and intimate friends, following the form you published about a month ago. But my daughter's fiance has given me names and addresses of several of his relatives who don't seem a special problem: they do not know us, may even not recognize our name. Would you be so kind as to suggest the form for this kind of invitation I is to write? Thank you, if you will.

— Mother.

Here's a proper form for these special notes of invitation:

Dear Mrs. Lane,

Our daughter, Helena, and your nephew, Phillip, are being married at four o'clock on Saturday, t h e third of May, and my husband and I hope so very much that you and your husband will be with us on this happy occasion. The wedding and the very small reception following will be here in our home.

Cordial greetings to you both, and we are looking forward to meeting you on the third.

Sincerely,

Katherine Clark

UNIFORM JEWELRY WORN BY BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

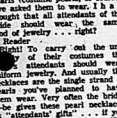
At my wedding late in April I am going to have a maid of honor (my only sister) and six bridesmaids. I've chosen their costumes, they've told their fittings, and all are enthusiastic about them. three of the bridesmaids have expressed the wish to wear their own necklaces rather than the single-strand pearls (costume pearls, of course) I've asked them to wear. I h a v thought that all attendants of the bride should wear the same kind of jewelry. right?

— Reader

Right! To carry out the uniformity of their costumes the bridal attendants should wear uniform jewelry. And usually the necklaces are the single strand of pearls you've planned to have them wear. Very often the bride-to-be gives these pearl necklaces as "attendants' gifts" . . . if you haven't already given them, that's why wouldn't this idea be the perfect solution to your quandary?

THANKING THE HOUSE-KEEPER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:



My friend and I spent all day Saturday visiting a home where there is a housekeeper who has been there for several years, taking charge of the home and t h e two children, ever since the mother of the children passed away. When we were leaving, my friend made it proper just to say a word-bye to the housekeeper as well: thank the man of the house. I thought it was polite to thank her too. Will you please settle our discussion about this?

— Reader

Your point of view was right, kind and gracious. The housekeeper, particularly one who has been for so long such an important member of the household, should have been asked for her part in the hospitality and for the thoughtful plans she undoubtedly made for your comfort and pleasure.

Fashion Switch

Canadian women are accepting with favor the new chemise silhouette look in fall fashions. A Canadian Press survey shows the trend popular across the country and a fashion upheaval appears evident. Three Montreal couturiers are shown here discussing a spring ensemble. Left to right are: Raoul-Jean Foure, president of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, Montreal model Jacqueline Gilbert, Eve Lyn, designer of the ensemble, and Frances Davies. (CP Photo.)

Chemise Silhouette Reigns Supreme Fashion's Forecast

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"The new you" is fashion's forecast for Canadian women in 1958.

The chemise silhouette reigns supreme, it was shown in a Canadian Press survey of department stores and spring shows across the country. A fashion upheaval is evident from coast to coast.

Styles from evening wear to sportswear run the gamut of 20 silhouettes ranging from the over-blouse look, which displays a bodice-shaping that follows the relaxed line of the chemise, to the figure-free look with its long loose-sheath line.

SKIRTS SHORTER

Skirts are shorter—16½ to 17½ inches from the floor—and vary from the harem skirt caught up at hem with bow and the tarot skirt with a bow or flounce at the knee to the bell-shaped skirt. Pleats are reappearing for the first time in many years.

Waist lines fall into three classes: the directoire, higher than normal; the normal waistline and the banded hop waistline.

Fabrics range from Harris tweeds to hop-sacking. New materials include "harmner and nailu," a loose spongy weave. Colors are vivid with blues, tangerines, pale beiges, mint greens and reds taking the spotlight.

Suits emphasize bloused backs over tapered skirts. Jackets are shorter and necklines smartly set away. Coats accent the tapered line with low-placed belts.

Hats are feminine and appealing and are made to balance the costume look. Youthful rollers, turbans, Breton and cloches all accent the mood of the 1920s. Biggest accessory news is the rose-long-stemmed or cabbage.

SPEEDY DELIVERY

Newfoundlanders are going for the chemise in a "big way," store officials report. They say: "We are right in the swing of fashion for the first time as new styles, which usually reach Newfoundland centres months after they have been adopted on the mainland, are already on the market."

Women can't make up their minds about the sack in the other Atlantic provinces. Merchants report that late afternoon dresses in the chemise silhouette however are beginning to sell. with long ropes of pearls typical of the 1920s. Stores expect a rush later in the season.

The costume look in clothes for both morning and evening wear appeals to Quebec women. A suit may look like a suit but chances are that underneath is a blouse or jacket that comes off, revealing a dress.

It's the middy look for the younger set in Ontario as the bateau neckline overblouse with a slim skirt takes over. Prints are in brilliant splashes of color—some are leashed in with a belt while others follow the shoe - string line.

MODIFIED VERSION

In Manitoba, merchants report women are showing some buyer resistance to the chemise. Dresses and suits are shown mainly in modified versions. One Winnipeg woman told a store official she would have to pay the bill herself if she bought a sack dress —these were her husband's last words on the subject.

The modified chemise, which has a gentle shaping, is "really selling" in Alberta, says a department store official in Edmonton.

In Saskatchewan and British Columbia the chemise with the figure-free look reigns supreme. Bcwed, tucked or banded, the Edwardian two-piece outfit is also popular.

Stanley F. — Six years ago I was divorced from my first wife and remarried. We have two children and have had a very successful marriage, except for one thing. My wife can't seem to make a friendly relationship with my son by the first marriage.

My son, Al, is now 17. He is a fine boy and seems to get along well with everyone. Friends have told me that when he is out he is often the life of the party. When I am alone with him, we get along pretty well, but when he visits my home he is missed around.

I feel that my wife doesn't try hard enough to make Al feel at home. When he comes she is always tence and nervous. She does not make enough of an effort to talk to him and she always seems to have too much to do to sit quietly with him. As a result, Al avoids visiting us and this makes me very unhappy.

June F. — How can I be anything but tense and nervous on Al's visits when I know that everything about me and this home is going to be reported back to his mother? When Al was here at me, he seems to be all ways trying to size me up or to see if I make some mistake. I know he does this because stories have come back to me from a friend of his mother's.

On top of this, I know that my husband is watching me every minute and at the end of Al's visit he is going to give me a lecture on everything I did wrong. If I tell him that conversation is a two-way street and I can't talk to somebody who just answers with "yes" and "hmmm," Stan says that Al is only a child. The responsibility is all mine.

I feel I've done my best and that's all anyone can do. I can't beg Al to be friends.

EDUCATION WEEK

Belleville is fortunate in being chosen as the city to officially begin "Education Week." On Monday at 8.30 p.m. in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium, Dr. Goldring, the director of Education for Ontario will speak. Admission is by ticket only. Several ticket will be available at the close of his meeting.

Mr. Benson introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Don MacKinnon, probation officer of the Juvenile and Family Court for the county of Hastings.

Mr. MacKinnon gave an account of how the court came to be in existence and how the officers were appointed. He gave the causes of juvenile delinquencies as follows: lack of parental control, influence or incentive in the home, lack of outside interests or the money to pursue the same, poor reading habits, poor movies and mental dullness.

DANGEROUS AGES

The most dangerous ages are from 13-14-15 and grade eight seems to have the largest percentage of offenders.

Mr. MacKinnon gave several reasons for family differences and his main objective is to dissolve these differences and bring harmony into the home. Several cases, both serious and amusing were cited.

Mr. E. W. Whyte thanked Mr. MacKinnon for an interesting glimpse into the work of a probation officer.

feels some disloyalty to h i s mother if he shows friendliness toward June. Possibly June feels some guilt for her responsibility in depriving the boy of his father. Probably both prefer to shut out thoughts of the separate areas of Stanley's life in which each is a stranger.

In addition, Stanley must accept his own guilty, uneasy feeling toward his son and try to avoid shifting the responsibility for them on his wife. If he placates of a burden upon her, she might be less tense and nervous about these visits.

Having accepted the difficulties of his situation, Stanley might perhaps be able to go about trying to improve it by creating a more comfortable background for these meetings. If he took his son and his wife for occasional night out at the theater or to a community gathering, there might be less strain on everyone. Constant conversation with "yes" and "hmmm" is not regarded and some food for talk would be afforded by the outside circumstances.

Safety as Applied to Boats Is Matter of Common Sense

What is meant by safety as it applies to the use of small boats? Simply, it is primarily a matter of common sense added to a basic understanding of the performance limits of the boat being used.

Every year hundreds of lives are lost in North America by drowning. Many of them are the result of boating accidents. This year, don't take chances: know the basic rules of water safety.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with safe load limits, the following may be of some assistance:

Boat Length	Passengers
10 ft.	two (410 lbs.)
12 ft.	three (575 lbs.)
14 ft.	four (740 lbs.)
16 ft.	five (975 lbs.)

Overpowering of small craft can be prevented by following the boat and motor manufacturer's recommendations for maximum safe power for your boat.

Just as courtesy and good judgment are important when driving a car along the highway, respect for marine traffic regulations are vitally important, too. If you see someone "hot-rodding" give him the universal "thumbs down" sign of disapproval. If that doesn't get results, jot down the registration number on his boat and report him to port authorities.

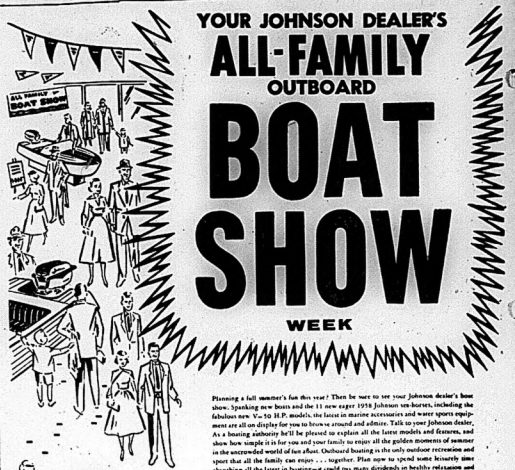
Above all, make sure your boat carries a life jacket or safe-cushion for each person aboard. If an accident should happen, remember to stay close to the boat; don't leave it behind and strike out for shore.

Outboard Marine Products Known for Power, Durability

Outboard motors being displayed at Booth's Radio and Television and Jack Goyer's marine shop are the products of Outboard Marine Corp. of Canada at Peterborough.

The Johnson and Evinrude motors, known for their rugged durability and power, are shown for '58 in a variety of models, from the light three horsepower job to the 250-lb., four cylinder 50 h.p. motor.

This year has produced the biggest outboard motor advance in marine history. The V-design, proven to excel all other cylinder arrangements in the outermost field, has been adopted by Johnson and Evinrude because of its low-line, power-packed qualities.



Probably the most spectacular advance among outboard motors is in the noise abatement. Outboard Marine Corp. has developed a new silencing method which reduces noise level of their products to no more than is found in the ordinary family automobile.

LIGHTS ESSENTIAL

Running lights are as important to safe boating as life jackets and safety cushions. If you propose to be out on the water after dark this summer, better check with Booth's and Goyer's for the latest in lighting equipment. It's an offence to operate a boat after dark without bow and stern lights operating.

New Fishing, Pleasure Craft, Last Word in Water Travel

Spring is just a few weeks away and already boating enthusiasts are getting the "bug" to be out on the Bay of Quinte again. Now is a good time to go out into the garage or down in the basement to check on things your boat and motor need.

Have you got a supply of shear pins, cotter pins and spark plugs? What about those tarnished or rusted fittings? Paint? What about a trailer?

Perhaps this year you are in the market for a fiberglass boat and motor. Booth Radio and Television and Jack Goyer's marine shop are having a display of the latest boats, motors, accessories and trailers starting Friday night and continuing all next week.

Booth's, for instance, is showing a 13-foot fiberglas gem of a five-passenger runabout. Complete with deck, fittings and foam rubber cushioning throughout, this Capri by Princecraft is truly a masterpiece of marine construction.

Booth's also has a complete stock of Evinrude motors, from 3 h.p. up to the powerful V-4, 50.

Also on display at Booth's will be boats of cedar stripping, moulded plywood, aluminum, plywood and fiberglas. All told about nine boats will be shown.

Jack Goyer is featuring the same line of boats as Booth's, except he is keeping his fingers crossed that the fiberglas and aluminum boats arrive in time for the show.

Goyer Marine is displaying Johnson motors, from three h.p. to 50.

Of course, fittings and other boating accessories can be got at Goyer's, too. Both Goyer Marine and Booth's are equipped to handle repair work and both stores have expert advisers on their staffs.

What pastime is associated with boating? Why, fishing, of course!

Goyer's and Booth's both have a fine assortment of tackle for the novice and expert angler. Incidentally, these stores are good places to learn the latest data regarding fishing regulations.

Whether you are in the market for a new boat or are "just looking," boating enthusiasts from the Quinte district are bound to enjoy the exhibit of 1958 boats and motors beginning Friday evening at Booth Radio and Television and Jack Goyer's Marine Shop.

Back-To-Russia Move

The Doukhobors fled from Russia more than 50 years ago to escape Czarist persecution. Now the 2,000 members of the radical Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors in British Columbia may return to Russia to escape what they call persecution in Canada.

Spokesmen for the Freedomites, who have been in the Soviet Union negotiating for land, have said they plan to recommend that their followers return to Russia and settle in one of three areas far beyond the Ural Mountains.

One possible choice of the Freedomites is the Omsk area, main centre of which is the city of Omsk 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow. Omsk has a population of more than 200,000 and lies in the midst of a wooded steppe.

Another possible choice is the Altai region, another 600 miles southeast of Omsk. It is a mountainous country of fertile valleys. They are reported to hold great mineral wealth The chief centre of the Altai region is the town of Barnaul.

Of the Canadian population of 20,000 Doukhobors, most are orthodox, integrated into Canadian life and not involved in the protest movement.

The Sons of Freedom claim they are persecuted for their religion in Canada. They don't believe in taxes of course—they don't vote and they refuse to send their children to public schools because of their conviction that the schools teach militarism in defiance of their pacifist beliefs.

The B. C. government has committed up to 100 Freedomite children to a special school at New Denver, B.C. The background to this move began last year after unsuccessful efforts by the Freedomites to have their children released.

Spokesmen for the sect who have visited Russia say the Soviet government has promised them sanctuary and freedom from all state interference. (CP Newsmap).

Sunday School Lesson

'That They All May Be One'

By ROY L. SMITH

In face of a widespread disposition on the part of churches to merge and become great denominations, perhaps a fresh word concerning the difference between Church union and brotherly unity may be in order.

It is one of the peculiarities of human nature that all men do not worship in the same stimuli in the same way. There are those people, for example, who experience great sense of spiritual uplift in the midst of an informal worship service which is characterized by considerable noise emotional outbursts. Then there are those who because of a different mental make-up, are greatly irritated by "noise" and find their spiritual satisfaction in a majestic liturgy. To attempt to bring both groups together in one service would mean a sacrifice by both. The ideal would be that each of the two groups become concerned about a great moral issue, while they are confronted and they can achieve a unity that is magnificent.

THAT ALL MAY BE ONE

The prayer attributed to Jesus which is in a group that "they all may be one," is a magnificent concept of Christian unity, but it does not require that all the churches shall surrender their traditions and customs and engage in common forms of worship.

In a certain city in the northwest there was a variety of churches, each with its own manner of worship, and its own doctrinal traditions. The local ministerial association had created a rather half-hearted program of community service in the name of all, but the total witness was far from convincing.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 2: "One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism" John 17:20-26; Ephesians 4:1-16.

Then came a great tragedy in which hundreds were killed, injured and vast suffering ensued. Into the breach stepped the United Church women, with an improvised program of relief. Instantly the denominational affiliations of the people interested in Christian unity where church union was an impossibility and, perhaps for the first time, a necessity.

As representatives of a merciful Christ they were all as one.

THEY BRIDGED A GAP

In one of our great cities the pastor of the Protestant Church and the rabbi of a great Jewish congregation became warm friends. One day, in a burst of good will, the rabbi offered his pulpits for a "Sabbath service" and preach the sermon. And, to make the matter more inclusive, the official board of the church were requested at the time later to attend the service in the synagogue and hear the rabbi preach. Then one Sunday morning the entire official membership of the synagogue sat in a body in the Christian Church, a guests, and joined with a Protestant congregation in worship. A little later the rabbi was invited to conduct the devotional service of a great conference of the Universalists.

No one sacrificed any conviction, no one surrendered any priceless belief, no one evaded any issues. It was only that all of them—good men and women—discovered how much he had in common with those of the other group.

There is something very religious in the work of bridging gaps which separate honest and good men from one another.

The religious leader or teacher who attempts to set one group of Christians at the throats of another group of Christians is as much an enemy of Christ as if he were an outright unbeliever.

Ten Sports Men Put Her To Bed

Have you any idea how many people—short people, tall people, fat people, thin people —it takes to put a newspaper to bed? Well, in the case of the Toronto Daily Star, the number runs up in the thousands. There are ten sports writers alone who scramble with lastminute copy every time we go to press. Then there are photographers—lots of them, because the Star uses more and better pictures than any other Canadian daily paper. And that figure doesn't include the hundreds of wire-service writers and photographers around the world whose work appears regularly on the pages of the Toronto Star. You may think this sounds like a lot of people and a lot of effort for something as 'frivolous' as sports news, but it's just part of the Star's policy of bringing you complete coverage of anything, anywhere, that might be of interest to you. That's why you can count on the Star for all the news . . . all the time!

Violent Crimes Show Greatest Increase in Large Industrial Areas of Toronto, Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Crime and population, like twin thermometers, are rising all across Canada in a traditional pattern.

Violent crime shows the greatest increase in the last year in the large industrial areas such as Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal, where a total of 38 persons were slain.

In the smaller cities, the problem is an increase in forgery and crimes by night—housebreaking, shoplifting and safecracking.

WINDSOR AN EXCEPTION

Only one instance of a marked decrease in the incidence of crime was found by Canadian Press reporters making a cross-Canada survey. Windsor, Ont., with general unemployment complicated by labor strife, reported no major crimes during 1957. Civic officials there support criminologists in most other major centres across the country in their contention that unemployment has had little major bearing on crime.

"People who are honest remain honest whether they are employed or not," said Windsor's police chief Carl Farrow.

Evidence of organized crime was reported from the Prairies. Both Moose Jaw and Edmonton police said gangs were operating in their areas in 1957 — cheque forgers in the South Saskatchewan city and safecrackers in the Alberta capital.

In each area, the problem was different. In the Maritimes, only Halifax lists a heavy increase in violent crime, showing five murders during 1957—but none the previous year. However, four of the killings were persons burned to death in a fire which police said was set. A suspect is held.

"No cause for alarm in the general crime picture," say Maritimes police.

HOLDUPS INCREASE

But police are alarmed in the Montreal area.

"There are numerous holdups these days, mostly by armed youths roaming the streets," says Judge Wilfrid Lazure of Court of Queen's Bench in Montreal. More and more criminals are "going to the gun" and firearms are becoming easier to get. Complicating the problem is a shortage of police, blamed on low pay and low morale in a force racked by scandal and investigation. Special squads have been formed to fight the wave which saw 43 bank holdups in Montreal in the last year.

Special squads has been the answer from Toronto police also. In Toronto, no separate lists of bank holdups are kept, but there were so many in 1957 that a special 16-man squad was formed at the year-end to combat the outbreak. The wave continued, the squad was increased to 14 and responsible civic officials warned criminals police will shoot at holdup men.

Ottawa remained in her unique position. Crime was constant during 1956 and 1957. No banks have been held up and nobody has been murdered there in at least six years. Most civic authorities agreed: Crime is not a major factor in the civil service community.

Bank holdups and murder decreased in Winnipeg, but generally, crime increased. "I don't know what caused it. I suppose it's stresses and strains; living up to modern demands," said Police Chief Robert Taft.

An increase in the number of false pretences cases in Regina was reflected in Moose Jaw, where swindlers with forged Identification papers moved in and took advantage of easy credit to rob merchants.

NO WINTER UPSURGE

Crime remained "fairly constant" throughout the year in the Calgary area, without the winter upsurge seen in many other districts. Police declined to give comparative figures, but said a safecracking that the oil city experienced its greatest increase. There were 19 safes blown, compared with 11 the previous year and Chief Constable H. F. E. Anthony said a nest of expert crackmen had been tied in.

Only in British Columbia was unemployment labelled a major crime cause. Mervyn Davis, executive director of the John Howard Society, said "most people here have no alternative but to choose between starving, borrowing and stealing." He blamed advertisements painting B.C. as a land of promises for attracting transients from other centres hit by unemployment.

In no area was juvenile crime reported out of control or even out of proportion. Nowhere would responsible officials comment on the outlook for this year ahead. Most had little idea why certain offences were increasing while others dropped off.

Guns and violence were used more frequently in 1957 than ever before. There were a record 316 armed robberies, easily beating the modern record of 177 set in 1956. There were 14 murders compared with 12 and 43 banks were held up, compared with 38 in 1956. A most sensational crimes occurred in Montreal in 1957—a gang of Montreal branch was robbed of an undetermined sum from its safety deposit vault. Estimates went as high as $8,000,000, steadied around $1,000,000. Last March, Andre Doblois, 24, turned himself into a human bomb and attempted to rob a bank. Police sharpshooter Joseph Ferron fired a shot into Doblois' neck, leaving him paralyzed and unable to trigger the bomb. He died in hospital.

In other spectacular cases, Jean Gagnon, 36, died of poison administered by a woman who thought she was feeding him a sleeping powder. The woman was never found. And four bank employees were robbed, with $14,000 from a credit union, were caught by a police who stopped them for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

TORONTO

Police worked as a metropolitan force for the first time in Canada in 1957. From a protective force for a population of 667,706, Toronto police became Metropolitan Toronto Police at the beginning of last year and expanded from 1,500 men to 2,300 by amalgamating with 12 adjacent forces. Protection was extended to nearly 1,500,000 persons. There were seven murders in Toronto proper last year, compared with nine the year before. However, there were eight others in other parts of the metropolitan area in 1957. Robbery, shopbreaking, housebreaking and car theft all increased. Central headquarters fingerprinted 6,658 persons for the metropolitan area in 1957, compared with 4,980 for Toronto alone the previous year.

"The current wave of lawlessness is a spasmodic outbreak," said Magistrate C. O. Bick, police commission chairman. "Unemployment may have something to do with it, but only as a contributing factor."

Criticism of recent changes in the Criminal Code of Canada was voiced by Chief Anthony, his force faced with an increase in murder, robbery with violence, shopbreaking and safecracking. "Parliament, in its wisdom, has seen fit to amend the vagrancy sections until they are practically useless in the matter of preventive policing. We must await the commission of an actual crime." Mayor William Hamilton said that with 16,000 unemployed in a city of 260,000—compared with 9,000 a year earlier—"one would feel that during the winter months there would be a tendency to more housebreakings and shopbreakings. This may be of short duration, however. Basically, I don't think this is one of the city's major problems." Federal figures show the metropolitan areas of Calgary and Edmonton grew faster than any of Canada's 15 metropolitan areas between 1951 and 1956. Edmonton gained 43.3 per cent in population, Calgary 29.5.

VANCOUVER

Crime surged markedly late in 1957, rising from August onward —one of the earliest late-year increases in history. Violent crimes reported rose to 19,556 from 17,510 and were up all across the board. The picture, with 1956 figures in brackets: murder 9 (7); robbery 82 (81); robbery with violence 256 (160); breaking and entering 3,472 (2,220). Police are being taken from other duties, such as traffic, to swell patrol forces during peak crime hours.

"We're robbing Peter to pay Paul," said Police Chief George Archer. As for 1958, the chief's comment was typical:

"Wait and see. . . we don't know."

Texan Starts Snowman Hunt

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) A Texas millionaire's expedition, complete with pointer dogs, today was moving into the Nepalese Himalayas in a bid to snuff out the mystery of the "Abominable Snowman."

A message received here said the Tom Slick snowman safari left the Indian frontier Monday on its long-shot mission to find out whether the legendary creature exists.

Members of the expedition hope the dogs will point the way to the "human-like" snowman, if they can shoot movies of it or, if really lucky, bring one back alive.

According to legend, the great, furry creature of the mountains has supernatural powers, including the ability to kill anyone with a glance.

Accuse Govt. of Mistrusting Youth in Asking Guarantors For New Student Loans

Policy of Active Pacifism Given Some Support

TORONTO (CP) — A policy of active pacifism was supported by two ministers at a United Church meeting Thursday night.

The attacks on warmakers came from Rev. George Caird, principal of the United Theological College in Montreal, and Professor C. Wright Mills of Columbia University, New York.

Mr. Caird told the International affairs dinner of the church's board of evangelism and social service that nuclear weapons involve horrors out of proportion to any cause, no matter how just, and obliterate the argument that war is the lesser of two evils.

Professor Mills said:

"To define the world struggle as a struggle between religious and atheistic forces, as (United States Secretary of State John Foster) Dulles has again recently done, is surely mere uninformed idiocy.

"On both sides among leaders atheists are found as members of all the world's religions—and also many hypocrites, religious and otherwise."

RAP SEX IN ADS

In earlier discussions, the board passed a resolution urging the Canadian advertising advisory board to adopt a code of ethics that would keep advertising within the bounds of decency.

Said the resolution:

"A blatant use of the sexual motif, which degrades manhood and creates disrespect for womanhood, is reprehensible and condemned.

"Legislation should not make use of pictures that display scenes of cruelty, violence or bloodshed.

The board said advertisers should use their influence in the presentation of movies, radio and television to make sure that what is shown or broadcast isn't reduced to the "lowest moral level" in order to reach "the largest number of people."

WANT MANDATORY PLAN

Another resolution asked that the federal government make the projected health insurance plan mandatory to all. At present it will be compulsory only for employees of concerns with a staff of 15 or more.

The board also said patients at government-inspected homes for the aged should be covered by health benefits.

General secretary Rev. A. Dudley Ward said Christian and other churches in Canada and the United States should unite in an appeal for economic and social solidarity between the two countries.

BARBARA ANN ROBBED

CHICAGO (AP) — Police said Barbara Ann Scott, former Canadian world figure-skating champion, and her husband, Tom Wood, Thursday reported burglars stole $16,000 worth of furs, clothes and jewelry while the Kings were vacationing in Arizona recently. The couple said the theft was discovered Feb. 21 by officials of their apartment building.

Police Probed 850 Traffic Fatalities in '57

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police investigated 850 traffic fatalities in 1957 compared with 808 in 1956.

OPP commissioner E. V. McNeill's annual report was tabled in the legislature Thursday by Provincial Secretary Dunbar, showing the number of accidents climbed to 28,230 from 27,372 and injuries to 9,772 from 10,486.

"It will be observed, however," the report says, "that the number of passenger and commercial motor vehicle registrations were up in 1957 by more than 75,000 over 1956 and there were an additional 120,000 licensed drivers."

Prosecutions under the Highway Traffic Act dropped by 25,000 to 99,376.

Approximate per cent of the effort of the OPP force was concentrated on the problem of highway safety and everything possible was done during the year to curb dangerous and careless driving on highways policed by our personnel . . .

Persons convicted by courts for traffic offences totalled $1,557,-

The OPP made 14,169 liquor prosecutions, winning 13,198 convictions, or 93.2 per cent. The prosecutions under the criminal code with 9,229 convictions.

Including traffic cases, there were a total of 130,507 prosecutions and 118,361 convictions. Another 1,009 juvenile prosecutions were made, with 835 convictions.

New U.S. Team Enters Stalled Talks on Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has changed its team to press for a showdown on the deadlocked disarmament talks.

James J. Wadsworth, now deputy U.S. delegate to the United Nations, replaces Harold E. Stassen as chief negotiator. Backing him up is a panel of four advisers with distinguished careers in public service: Gerard C. Smith, Gruenther, Robert A. Lovett, James J. Wadsworth, Walter Bedell Smith, now all in private life.

Their appointments by State Secretary Dulles, with President Eisenhower's approval, were announced Thursday night.

At the same time, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced that Russia set off two nuclear explosions Thursday, making three this week. No details were given except that they were fired within the Arctic Circle and had power about equal to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

RUNS FOR GOVERNOR

Stassen stepped out of his disarmament post to seek the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania after a series of policy disagreements with Dulles.

Stassen also reported to have contended that the U.S. should offer additional concessions to Russia in the bargaining, but Dulles disagrees.

Stassen originally was named as a special assistant to Eisenhower, but his work later was transferred to the state department and supervised by Dulles.

The announcement that Wadsworth would "act under the direction" of Dulles indicated Dulles will have control of all disarmament policy.

MINISTER IS HORSE BREEDER

He says his interest in horses stems from a childhood association with them. (CP Photo).

Will Liquidate Central Boards In Poland

WARSAW (Reuters) — Economic planner Stefan Jedrychowski said Thursday that central boards controlling individual industries are hampering the Polish economy and will be liquidated.

Jedrychowski, addressing the 11th plenum of the Communist party's central committee, said these boards will be replaced by councils grouping together interdependent industries in a more rational manner.

Factory managements and workers councils also will be given more power. Both these industrial organs will become responsible juridically to the government in their work.

Jedrychowski also said that despite difficulties the workers councils, created after October, 1956, to give workers more voice in the running of industry, had produced positive results and helped raise production.

Jedrychowski said private trade revenue increased 34.2 per cent in 1957, but income tax paid by private traders increased only 29 per cent. This year a general system of licensing will be introduced to rationalize the policy of developing crafts, private trade and small private industry.

Observers interpreted this as a move to restrict the spread and speculative scope of private trade.

Aerial Ladder Used in Rescue

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT. (CP)—Police and firemen used an aerial ladder Thursday night to rescue a Toronto woman who fell into the Niagara River gorge.

The woman, identified as Ruby May Harper, about 25, was reported in good condition in hospital.

The fire truck's aerial ladder with a large basket on one end was extended over the gorge and then lowered into position for a fireman to place the woman in it.

Police said the fall was reported by Guy Smith. He said he noticed the woman walking along the edge of the gorge. When he looked again she had disappeared.

Scurvy Found Among Toronto School Children

TORONTO (CP) — Scurvy, a disease many people thought passed on with the square-rigged sailing ship, has been discovered in Toronto school children.

A survey by nutritionists at University of Toronto carried out two years ago of 4,425 grade eight pupils showed that 31 per cent weren't getting enough citrus fruits and 67 per cent weren't getting enough fresh vegetables.

Scurvy is caused by lack of vitamin C. It causes loose teeth, bleeding gums, tender and bleeding skin and eye trouble.

The survey was made public Thursday.

Dr. Barbara McLaren, director of the faculty of household science at the university, said bad diet habits can't be blamed on family financial difficulties. Many school girls would get more than enough money to buy proper food but they don't know how to spend it wisely.

No such gun fight ever did develop in the United Auto workers union's strike against the Kohler, Wis., company. The strike began Feb. 24 and is still going.

The special Senate committee is checking into who was responsible for numerous acts of violence during the strike. Wed the bitter contract dispute the company and the union blamed each other for the outbreaks.

Chairman John H. McClellan (Dem., Ark.) called Police Chief Waldemar Caphelle of Kohler, Wis., to be made available for witness factory, and other witnesses would be asked "about any violence against strikers and the violence against nonstrikers."

UAW President Walter Reuther, in a statement prepared for the Senate labor committee, charged that "the company has made shocking provocations for war, and under the guise of a civilian defence program actually armed and equipped a private army. . . ."

Its equipment, he said, included machine-guns.

Redstone Missile Sent From Pad

CAPE CANAVERAL (Fla.) (AP) — A Redstone ballistic missile roared away from its firing pad at mid-afternoon Thursday.

The missile was visible for more than two minutes as it streaked into the southeast. It vanished in a short thin trail of white smoke or vapor and observers were unable to determine whether it had blown up there or had sped onward unseen.

The Redstone, one of the U.S. Army's ballistic weapons, also was powered by a single rocket four-stage Jupiter-C space rocket.

PWLLHELI, Wales (Reuters)—A young housewife has turned down an offer of £200 for a 10 shilling note that is blank on the reverse side. Mrs. Jean Scaife, who discovered the printing error when she drew the bill from a local bank. Russia Claims Progress in Race To Tame H-Bomb

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today staked a new claim in the current international race for a successful industrial application of the hydrogen bomb.

An announcement in the official Communist newspaper Pravda says Soviet scientists have achieved a controlled thermonuclear reaction in laboratory experiments.

The announcement says the reaction took place at a temperature of "more than 1,000,000 degrees Centigrade." This compares with a temperature of 5,000,000 degrees announced by British last month following similar experiments.

Researchers in the U.S. have achieved temperatures of 20,000,000 degrees but for much shorter periods of time than the British scientists. The Soviet announcement did not specify the period of time in the Russian experiments.

Today's claim is made in an article by Academician Ivan Kurchatov.

Declaring that thermonuclear power is "the principal power" of tomorrow, he claims that the first model of a magnetic thermonuclear reactor was designed in Russia, by Academicians Andrei Sakharow and Igor Tamm, in 1950.

This laid the basis of Soviet research on hydrogen power, and "Soviet physicists and other scientists and engineers are designing nuclear reactors."

Probe Charges Company Kept Private Arsenal

Plan to Federate 3 Arab States, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait And Bahrein, Is Announced

BOMBAY (Reuters)—A plan to federate three Arab states—including the two largest oil producers in the Middle East—was announced today.

Sheikh Mohammad al Khalifa, uncle and chief adviser to the ruler of Bahrein, said the merger would include the powerful Arab states of Saudi Arabia and the two British-protected states of Kuwait and Bahrein in the Persian Gulf.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait together produce more than 100,000,000 tons of oil a year. Foreign oil companies have extensive interests in all three states.

WILL HELP PEACE

The sheikh said such a new federation would contribute to peace and stability in the Middle East as would the two new groups—the United Arab Republic (of Syria and Egypt) and the Arab Federation (of Jordan and Iraq).

Sheikh Mohammad was speaking in an interview on his departure after a month's private tour of Egypt, during which he visited Prime Minister Nehru.

In Cairo, meanwhile, Crown prince of Yemen arrived today with authority to unite his Red Sea kingdom with the United Arab Republic.

RUSSIA APPROVES

Prince Mohammed el-Badr announced that he has the full approval of his father, King Imam (Ahmad) to agree to such a merger, and it empowered to sign an agreement with President Nasser.

Britain and the Yemen have long been exchanging charges and counter-charges of aggression in their dispute over Yemen's claim to Britain's Aden protectorate.

In Baghdad, Iraqi Premier Abdul Wahab Mirjan today turned the other cheek to an attack by Nasser and pledged that Iraq will continue to stand by Jordan and Syria.

Mirjan expressed surprise at Nasser's speech Thursday night in Damascus promising to "fight with all conventional stooges" in Iraq and Jordan.

Montreal Church Leaders Assail Immoral Shows

MONTREAL (CP) — Ten Montreal religious leaders Thursday night issued a joint public declaration denouncing "immoral and indecent" literature, magazines and stage shows.

It was the first time leaders of all major faiths had made such an intitiative in an anti-immoral crusade.

The 400-word manifesto said: "There is a material progress in the last few years which is accompanied by "an open and flagrant attempt to flood the public with journals, magazines, literature and representations of all kinds which, in our opinion, tend to contribute to the corruption of a whole generation."

Must Locate Missile Bases Close to Prime Soviet Targets

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States has—or soon will have—a 1,500-mile-range ballistic missiles.

If these missiles are to play any effective part in the free world's military strategy — to deter warfare through the threat of retaliation — they must be based in Britain that's far farther afield than Canada.

But now, with only a few American missiles in Britain, the West could hurt Russia more severely than the Soviet Union was damaged in 1941-45 by Germans. And, presumably, Russia could destroy Britain.

The British decision is therefore a courageous one which will mean further strengthening of the West's defences.

It is a decision which Canada, even in the missile age, has escaped for reasons of geography.

Intermediate - range missiles could not reach prime Russian targets from bases in Canada.

But intercontinental missiles will be able to reach Soviet targets from the U.S., making their basing in Canada unnecessary.

Suggest Board To Set Alberta Teachers' Pay

EDMONTON (CP) — An Alberta royal commission has recommended a uniform province-wide salary scale for teachers and withdrawal of the right to strike over pay disputes.

It calls for the setting of a three-man government board to have full jurisdiction of teachers' salaries. Three board members would be binding on both teachers and school trustees.

The report was tabled in the legislature Thursday by Education Minister Manning who said later outside the house "that the principle of legislation to implement it at this session, if at all."

The commission said it found detailed evidence which "clearly indicates that the present system of teachers' salary negotiations is inadequate and outmoded.

It is productive of inordinate delays, of ill-will and antagonism between

The uniform scale would eliminate the local bargaining which is "distasteful" to teachers, the commission said. It would provide teachers' measure of security of tenure, of wage sale and the supply of teachers.

It also probably would increase salaries.

"It is completely feasible to establish a scale or scales of salaries for teachers in this province," the report says. "In this regard the evidence is conclusive."

Legislatures Discuss Subjects From Racing to Education

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Financial plans, on topics from education to horse racing, were announced, tried and criticized in the provincial legislatures Thursday.

Provincial Treasurer C. E. Greenlay of Manitoba announced that the Liberal-Progressive government has guaranteed $600,000 in bonds to allow construction of a new horse racing track in Winnipeg to be completed for the 1958 season.

Initial construction costs of the three - quarter mile Assiniboia Downs race track have been set at $2,500,000 to $3,000,000. About $1,190,000 has already been spent on it.

In Edmonton, education-finance debate in the Alberta legislature was adjourned after a struggle on parliamentary procedure.

A CCF resolution seeking federal government action to "relieve the financial crisis in education" is before the House. The CCFF asks that grants be made to provinces "without encroaching in any way on the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces in this field."

The procedure dispute came up over a Social Credit amendment calling for reallocation of taxation fields to give provinces adequate sources of revenue.

Education Minister Hinman highlighted debate in the Alberta legislature sitting.

In Saskatchewan, CCF Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines announced increases under the Automobile Insurance Act in insurance premiums for new and old vehicles and reducing rates for some models in between.

Insurance rates for 1957 and 1958 cars have been increased by $10 to $30, $35 and $40. Some 15,000 owners will be affected.

Progressive Conservative Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia said the previous Liberal government initiated deficit spending in 1956 "many years" as an attempt to retain power.

The Tories have over a $3,600,000 deficit in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1957, erupted in the House Wednesday. Liberal party says the other spent imprudently.

In the New Brunswick legislature, notice was given that a report of the New Brunswick forest development commission will be considered in the House next Wednesday.

The report has 39 recommendations for adding the island's forest industry.

Tricky Chicago Rat Grounds Big Airliner

CHICAGO (AP) — A tricky rat that has grounded a 44-passenger airliner at Midway Airport since Tuesday has officials of United Air Lines up in the air on how to catch him.

The rat, named Rudolph, has upset the best efforts of mechanics and an exterminator to get him out of the fuselage. He has refused the set out to bait him and has avoided all other traps.

"This Convair will not leave the ground until he is captured," said an airline spokesman.

Mechanic Stubb Rudolph is having a ball dodging in and out of hiding places provided by the fuselage.

"He's not in the passenger compartment proper," said a spokesman. "We could probably poison him, but then it might mean taking the whole plane apart finding him after he died."

Approve Request To Expropriate Certain Lands

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Thursday approved Premier Frost's request to expropriate adjacent land of 11 Kingston homeowners.

Unanimously, the legislature's planning local dispute was necessary to free all private members' bill given seizond reading approval-in-principle — by the Kingston.

Authority to exempt Stratford Shakespearean Festival from local taxes except for local improvements was approved for Stratford city council.

Incorporation was approved for the Saskatchewan Women's Christian Association and for the Ontario Dietetic Association.

Under studies were given second reading:

The city manager form of government would be permitted Belleville (Ont.) Township. Grantham Township would be allowed to have a council comprising a reeve, deputy reeve and seven councillors;

Tech Township near Sudbury would be permitted to supply water to six mining companies;

London township would be able to institute a pension plan for its employees. Westminster Township would be permitted to sell its municipally-owned telephone system. Reorganization of Metro College in London would be authorized.

REPORT FRIDAY

OTTAWA (CP) — The report of the royal commission on copyright will be made public Friday.

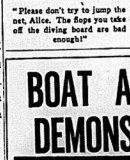
The three - man commission, headed by Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia, was appointed in June, 1954, to investigate Canadian laws on copyright, patents, trade marks and industrial designs.

Campy Believes He Will Walk And Even Play

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Roy Campanella, Los Angeles Dodgers catcher who suffered a broken neck in a car crash Jan. 28, believes he will walk again and even may play baseball.

Matt Burns, a Dodgers official, said he talked with Campanella at Glen Cove Community Hospital and found him optimistic.

"He's the most cheerful fellow you ever saw," said Burns. "He listens to the radio and watches television and he has heard all these reports. He refuses to agree at all that he won't walk again and even believes he may play ball again."



The hospital has issued no report on his condition since last week's bulletin said there was no change. Campanella is paralyzed from his chest down.

Bruins Recall Bob Armstrong

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins Thursday night announced the recall of defenceman Bob Armstrong from their Springfield farm club.

Armstrong, sent down a month ago, returns to bolster the National Hockey League team's defence. Fernie Flaman will make the trip to Chicago and Detroit but it is doubtful he will play because of a knee injury. Leo Boivin, another defenceman, is working out but when he will be able to return to action is a question mark.

Armstrong will join Bruins in Chicago for the televised Saturday afternoon meeting.

"Please don't try to jump the net, Alice. The flops you take off the diving board are bad enough!"

Son of Dixie Signs Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Fred Walker Jr., whose grandfather, father and uncle all played major league baseball, was signed to a bonus contract Thursday by St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards said they outbid 10 major league clubs for the 20-year-old righthanded pitcher.

The signing price was not revealed but it was thought the Cards might have given him as $50,000 for the six-foot-one, 185-pound hurler. He was assigned to Houston of the Texas League.

The boy's father is Fred (Dixie) Walker, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Fred's manager at Houston will be his uncle, Harry Walker. The grandfather was Ewart (Dixie) Walker, a pitcher with Washington Senators from 1909 to 1912.

The residents of Warroad decided he should see his three sons in action in the world hockey championships they took up a public collection. They gathered about a dollar a head, enough for Papa Christian to make the trip to Norway.

Today he will see his three sons Roger, 21, Billy, 19, and Gordie, 28, play for the United States against Poland. It will be the first time he has seen the three play on the same team.

Palmer Protects Stroke Lead in Rouge Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Husky Arnold Palmer, steadily whipping his golf game into shape for the Masters tournament, battled an ambitious field today to protect his one-stroke lead in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open.

The 28-year-old Latrobe, Pa., player, who said he was pacing himself this year for an all-out bid to win the Augusta, Ga., tourney, took only 27 putts Thursday for a sizzling five-under-par 67.

Palmer faces tough competition and a jinx that has knocked out the first day leader in the last five tourneys here. Not since 1952, when Jackie Burke won, has the 18-hole leader been on top at the end of 72 holes.

One stroke back of Palmer were Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, and Otto Grenner of Tenafly, N.J.

The best score turned in by the co-dingest of seven Canadians was a 71 by Bob Wylie of Calgary. Al Balding, Toronto, had 72. Jerry Magee, Toronto, 74; Johnny Henrick, Ottawa, 77. Murray Tucker, Toronto, 78, Robert Dean, Cornwall, 81, and Rudy Horvath, Toronto, 82.

Ken Venturi of San Francisco and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., each had 69, while Eddie Griffiths of Youngstown, Ohio.; Bill Ogden of Chicago and Tec Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were bunched at 70.

A Mere $739,000 Gold-Crusted Baseball Team Would Collect Huge Payroll

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It would take a yearly payroll of nearly three quarters of a million dollars—$739,000, to be exact—to field baseball's "gold dust" team, composed of the highest - paid players at each position.

The team is so select that Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators, the 1957 American League home run and runs-batted-in king can't make it. The reason: Roy has signed for a paltry $36,000.

Bulging with banknotes and talent, here is the game's all-dollar-mark team of 1958:

Outfielders—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox, $125,000; Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees, 72,000; Willie Mays, San Francisco Giants, 65,000.

1b—Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals, 100,000.

3B — Ed Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, 40,000.

SS—Al Dark, St. Louis Cardinals, 40,000.

C—Yogi Berra, New York Yankees, 50,000.

P—Warren Spahn, Milwaukee, 66,000.

P—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, 42,500.

Manager—Casey Stengel, New York Yankees, 85,000.

Total pay, $739,000.

Trappers Tie Bulldogs 3-3

NORTH BAY (CP) — North Bay Trappers Thursday night came from behind a three-goal deficit to tie Windsor Bulldogs 3-3 in an OHA-NOHA Senior A game.

After a scoreless first period, Windsor pumped in three second-period goals. Trappers evened the account in the third and the teams battled through a scoreless overtime period.

Lou Bendo, Ches Warchol and Bob Brown scored for Bulldogs. Trappers' marksmen were Pete Babando, Johnny Robenic and Gull St. James.

The tie moved Bulldogs and Trappers into a third-place tie with Sudbury Wolves.

Irish Clip Hamilton Cubs' Unbeaten String

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

High - flying Hamilton Cubs' second-place team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Thursday night had their unbeaten streak snapped at 12 games by Toronto St. Michael's.

The 4-2 win took the Toronto squad into a tie for third place with their across-city rivals, Toronto Marlboros. Each has 53 points six fewer than Hamilton.

Fifth-place Peterborough Petes handed Guelph Biltmores their 33rd defeat of the season, 4-1, in the loop's only other game. The defeat left Biltmore's in the cellar and took Petes 10 points ahead of Barrie Flyers.

AWARD TROPHIES

Gino Ubriaco, with two, Darryl Sly and Tom Micallef tallied for St. Mike's. Gerry Sullivan scored both the Cubs' goals.

Between periods, Sullivan was given the James Norris Trophy as the Cubs' best defensive forward, while Murray Oliver was named the most popular player. Dave Amadio was selected for the Jack Adams Trophy as the team's best defenceman.

Petes took a 2-0 first-period lead against Biltmores, adding single goals in the second and third periods.

Ortez, Tibbs Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Undefeated Carlos Ortiz isn't taking Tommy Tibbs lightly tonight despite the Bostonian's 43 defeats.

Ortiz, a 21 - year - old New York, is an 8-5 favorite over the 23-year-old Tibbs for the television (NBC, 10 p.m. EST) 10-rounder. It marks the Madison Square Garden main event debuts for both.

Tibbs, an aggressive little fellow has won five straight, including a decision over the once great and still formidable Willie Pep.

Tibbs, who has become a winning fighter in the last two years, has an even 43-43-3 won-lost-draw record. He has scored 11 knockouts and has been stopped three times. Ortiz' record is 24-0 including nine knockouts. He can hit hard with either hand.

BOOST MINIMUM WAGE

Canadiens Win National League Championship In Record-Tying Time

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The "cold" war is over. Now the shootin' one starts. The McFarlands, fresh from a week's rest and in excellent fighting trim are ready and rarin' to go in their best-of-seven joust against the CKLC's from Redden-ville.

The Macs have been working out strenuously all week and got some extra exercise off their chest when they played their Picton counterparts in a 13-3 tussle in Picton the other night and emerged all hands topside and healthy.

The Macs won the league title as far as the schedule runs—but everything ends there. This is a new league, a fighting one. No holds are barred and all teams start from scratch. The CKLC's finished on the bottom of the schedule heap, but that hasn't tended to dull their claws any. If anything they will be sharper, especially when the "prey" wears a Belleville uniform.

So this department anticipates a wing-ding series with the pesky cusses from Mike Rodden's ballwick. The Kingston team have tossed monkey wrenches into the Belleville playoff machinery on more than one occasion before, but they're not going to do it this time if Ike and the crew can help it.

Manager Drury Denyes said today that the team is in fine shape physically and fully intends to rack up its first victory in the inaugural playoffs clash with the foe from Kingston tonight. If they can make that a "double" when the teams meet in Kingston tomorrow night, everything will be hunky-dory on the banks of the Moira.

The Pembroke Lumber Kings and the Cornwall Chevies go at each other's hockey throats tomorrow night in Pembroke with the second game scheduled for Cornwall Sunday afternoon. And the Sparks, like the Macs, have had the "Indian" sign on their semi-finals foemen all season, but as was said before, this is a brand new league, starting from scratch. And it looks like a dilly from here.

THE SAGA OF SAD SAM

They call him Samuel the Sad, last name Pollock. He seldom smiles even when talking of his beloved Ottawa-Hull Canadiens junior hockey club.

Below-par attendance at the new Hull Arena had not caused Sam's doleful countenance to crease with mirth wrinkles. So with first looser, one Scotty Bowman, Samuel decided to operate a boost-the-crowd gimmick. They dubbed it the "Pot o Gold."

To get around the legal wrinkles, this was the set-up. Each fan gets a ballot to estimate the crowd at this game. Whoever guesses closest goes into a hockey quiz. the winner getting the chance to take away the semi-financial loot. The quiz winner can keep all the silver he can tote off the ice. The idea behind the idea was to fill the barges with nickels. Doesn't take many to weigh a few pounds.

Samuel was assured by experts that the biggest guy in the world could lug off $800 in five-cent pieces at the most. That, Samuel decided was a long shot. There could be a boy old grandmother, a scrawny girl, or a weak male in the crowd who would be the quiz winner. Shucks, the best he or she could lug off would not amount to much.

Came the big night, and slack and alas, only 700 odd souls sported the big seating capacity of the arena. Oh, well, figured Sam and Scotty, we can't be out too much. They tested one bag of coin and found it easier to slide along the ice. And why make it easy. So they lilted the idea by laying a carpet on the ice for the winner.

Then the big moment. The crowd was 726. One guessed 725 and two others 727. All three were males. Two were of the slight, anaemic type, the third looked like a bulldozer that walked like a man. He weighed about 290 pounds.

But all was not lost, thought Samuel. Mebbe this guy is all muscle and no "quiz." That would let him out. A few minutes later Samuel's ears curled. The big lug knew more about hockey than the league statistician. He won handily.

Sam's face kept getting longer and longer. The big winner, Jean LaFond of Hull, put all the coins in one bag, and with scarcely a grunt heaved it to a shoulder. The players and the crowd cheered.

But he began to slip and slither on the ice, so he returned to the "loading platform." He took out a lot of the coin in scoopsful and then walked off with the big bag hangin' at the seams with silver, while the rafters rang with the whoops of the players and fans. Sam's face was long. That loot amounted to over $1,000 mostly in nickels.

There was sadness in Sam's mien. "Everyone else draws a mere slip of a girl or a tottering old man—and I get a weightlifter." Then someone told him LaFond had taught foundry work at Hull Tech and that added more anguish to Sam's overcrowded mental load.

"Yeah," he moaned, "that figures. I'd have to get a guy who's been practicing ten lifting slaves."

Sam was deep in the depths. It seems the gate didn't come up to what the big fellow lugged away, then there was rink rental, referees, advertising, salaries, travelling expenses and what have you.

But Samuel does not give up easily. He has already planned two give-away-a-car nights for Hull and Ottawa and is considering another "Pot-o-Gold" night. You see, Samuel figures there is only one guy like Jean LaFond in Canada.

Won Title in Sixty Games With 4-1 Defeat of Leafs; Reserve Strength Big Factor

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The cogs that kept the Montreal hockey machine rolling smoothly all season have driven it to the National Hockey League championship.

The battered Canadiens suffered heavy injuries this season, especially to stars, but when they defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 Thursday night they clinched the title in record-tying time.

Two years ago the Montreal clinched first place in their 60th game Feb. 25. The Habitants were two days off by the calendar but Thursday night's game was also their 60th.

The victory lifted Montreal 23 points ahead of the New York Rangers who have 11 games left. It was Montreal's 10th title since the league was organized in 1917.

LEAF HOPES FADE

Toronto's slim hopes of making the playoffs were further diminished by the loss. Leafs trail fourth-place Boston Bruins by six points and lead Chicago Black Hawks by two.

Montreal's reserve strength has kept the team flying despite injuries to Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Jean Beliveau, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Doug Harvey, Jacques Plante and others

It was these lesser-known reserves who hit the score-sheet to clinch the title.

Montreal's third line, a highly effective unit that came through admirably when injuries hampered the other two lines, combined for the first two goals. Claude Provost scored his 16th with Phil Goyette and Andre Pronovost helping and Goyette scored his sixth with the other two aiding.

Don Marshall, the handyman who has played at every forward position, scored his 21st from a spot on left wing with Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau.

REunion successful

Marcel Bonin, who filled in so well for Richard's 45-game absence on a line with Henri Richard and Dickie Moore, was reunited with them and picked up his 11th goal.

Brian Cullen got Toronto's only goal, his 18th, in the third period.

Leafs tried hard, firing 32 shots at Montreal's Jacques Plante. Toronto's Ed Chadwick stopped 29 shots.

The hard-shooting Provost is having the best of his three seasons in the league. The 24-year-old Montreal native scored 14 and 18 goals in his previous campaigns but is only 16 and 14 assists. He has 37 assists this season.

Pronovost, 21, has 12 goals, two better than his total last season, and Goyette, 24, who only played 14 games for Montreal last year, has 29 assists.

Braves Collected Series Wampum; This Is 1958

BRADENTON Fla. (AP)—Nine unsigned Milwaukee Braves have been told by club president Joseph Cairnes they have already been compensated for winning the world series and must face reality in contract talks.

Cairnes said Thursday night some of the balking players are "shooting for the moon, and we feel they're asking a lot more than they're worth."

"What's more," he added, "they're using the world series as a talking point."

He said he felt they were paid for series wins when they received $9,000 each after beating the New York Yankees.

HARD BARGAINER

Cairnes has established a reputation as a tough man at the bargaining table. He carried the burden almost single - handedly when the Braves drew a deficiency earlier in the winter with the Milwaukee County board for use of County Stadium. The talks produced a pact that will pay the county $400,000 a year, or about half of what it sought.

A few hours after Cairnes arrived here Thursday a break appeared in the ranks of the unsigned Braves when second baseman Red Schoendienst agreed to terms. It was reported he got a raise and will receive about $40,000 for his first full season with Milwaukee.

Other Braves unsigned are pitchers Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Bob Buhl and Don McMahon, infielders Johnny Logan, Frank Torre and Felix Mantilla, and outfielders Bob Hazle and Wes Covington.

They will be classed as holdouts unless they agree to terms by Saturday when the club opens spring drills for all hands.

Hershey Bears Whip Indians, Back on Top

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Hershey Bears moved into first place in the American Hockey League by defeating Springfield Indians 3-1 in an overtime game Thursday night.

Arnie Kullman, veteran centre, drove a 30-foot shot into the Indians' net to give Bears the victory. The win put Hershey two points ahead of the idle Cleveland Barons who had shared the top spot.

Cal Gardner scored for Indians in the first period and Bob Solinger tied the count. Bears took the lead in the second period when Len Haley scored unassisted. Indians tied the count and sent the game into overtime when Jack Caffrey scored.

Colorful Indian Papooses Enter Young Canada Tourney

BRANTFORD (CP) — Spectators at the Young Canada hockey tournament in Goderich next month may be accorded the pepping a little when the Sour Springs team marches onto the ice wearing beaded headbands and starts into a war dance.

They would be even more surprised if they realized the boys were using borrowed sticks, pads and some skates, and had practiced their razzmatazz on the natural ice of ponds, sloughs and creeks.

These antics, however, are not unusual for Sour Springs, the only Indian team in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

WON CHAMPIONSHIP

The team is composed of boys of the Six Nations tribes and last season they won the Brantford Schoolboy Hockey League championship in a struggle with nearly 30 teams.

That was one time the boys did make it a point to get in some orthodox practice. They drove into Brantford from the Six Nations reserve and rented an arena.

Coach Oliver Smith, a schoolteacher on the reservation, has most of the boys as his pupils in class as well as on the ice.

WANTS COMMUNITY CENTRE

Coach Smith yearns for a community centre and an arena for the young people of the reservation.

"It would mean so much to them," he said. "Our young Indian people should have just as full an opportunity for development in every way as any other group."

In the meantime, the boys will try to scrape together enough money to rent some indoor ice so they can become a little more familiar with playing on a properly marked surface.

NO RACING TODAY

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Bowie race track, handicapped by the elements for the past 10 days, has called off today's racing program to give its ground every time to heal some of the ruts in its weather-beaten racing strip. Saturday's program definitely will be on, including the $20,000 added Southern Maryland Handicap.

To Debut in World Tourney Saturday Against Poland While Russia Meets Norway

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Canada's well - balanced Whitby hockey team and Russia, the top favorites, watched from the sidelines today as the world hockey championships opened in Oslo's big Jordal Amfi outdoor arena with virtually all of the 10,000 seats sold out days ago.

The Canadians and the Russians drew byes on the opening day of the 10-day tournament which ends March 9. They meet between darkhorse Czechoslovakia and Finland at 8 a.m. EST.

Winding up the first day's competition were games between Norway and Sweden at 11:30 a.m. EST and Poland and the United States at 3 p.m. EST.

The Canadians and the Russians make their bow Saturday. The lightly-regarded Poles will be the opposition for the Norway-Sweden game.

MEET ON LAST DAY

The consensus was that Canada and Russia probably will decide the championship when they meet on the final day, Sunday, March 9.

The 28-game tournament is a round-robin affair among eight countries, with each team meeting the other once. In the event of a tie for first standings the winner will be determined on goal average.

Czechoslovakia, Sweden, the defending champions who upset the Russians in Moscow last year, and the United States were expected to give Canada and Russia their stiffest competition. Norway, Poland and Finland were expected to fight it out for the last three places.

The Russians, who surprised the world by winning the championship from Canada in their first try in 1954 will be out to make it three world and Olympic titles in five years. Seven European experts long familiar with the Canadian calibre are underplaying the Russians are stronger than ever and can do it.

CANADIANS IMPRESS

But Canada has sent over a powerhouse that has made a tremendous impression during a lengthy unbeaten exhibition tour.

Canada has not won the world championship since 1955 when Penticton Vs smothered the Russians 5-0 at Krefeld, Germany in the final game to end up with an 8-0 record.

After winning the Allan Cup last year, Whitby was picked as Canada's representative in the 1958 tournament and strengthened by the addition of several former National Hockey League players including Sid Smith, who became player-coach, and Jean-Paul Lamirande.

The Russian sent a team to tour Canada last November with some of the members of their championship team in the lineup. Whitby defeated them 7-2. The Russians wound up with a 5-3-1 record.

Manager Wren Blair of Whitby was outspoken after the selection and said that if the Canadians are beaten at Oslo, then the only answer will be to send a professional team.

From what they saw during Whitby's exhibition run on the Continent, resulting in 14 straight victories and 162 goals scored against 19 allowed, most experts were willing to lay their money on the Canadians.

Vsevolod Yakushev, the Russian coach, got a chance to size up the Canadians on the Jordal Amfi ice when they won an exhibition from the Norwegians 5-0. He said the Canadians are much stronger. "There are professionals among the Canadians and they know how to play this game."

The Canadians are more than a match for the Norwegian arena where all the games will be played. The ice surface is goal-sized—it measures 180 feet by 90 feet—and it is so well enclosed that it seems almost like an indoor rink.

Canada's schedule (all times are eastern standard):

Saturday, March 1 (8 a.m.)—vs Poland

Sunday, March 2 (2 p.m.)—vs Norway

Monday, March 3 (11:30 a.m.)—vs Finland

Tuesday, March 6 (11:30 a.m.)—vs Sweden

Quebec Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A statement issued somewhat enigmatically by Frank Carlin of Montreal Royals was proved correct in every respect when the wrong Thursday night. But the general manager of the Quebec Hockey League club didn't mind, really, for a few days ago Carlin glumly told reporters: "It seems we just can't hit third place. Whenever we win, Quebec wins. And when Quebec loses, we lose, too."

Royals handed Aces' a 6-3 defeat at Quebec for their sixth win in seven games, a victory that gave them 32 points and possession of third place, a point ahead of Aces.

In another game at Chicoutimi, Shawinigan Cataracts scored three times in the final period to beat the league-leading Saguenens 4-1 and consolidated second place, five points behind the pace-setters.

TRIVIAL OFFENCE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—An appeals court today set aside the conviction of Claudio Arrau, world-famous Chilean pianist, for offensive behavior in a Sydney men's room last June. Judge Charles Roony found that the offence had been proved, but said it was of a trivial nature and recommended "no conviction." Arrau, then in Australia on a concert tour, was fined £3 last August after a police testified that the pianist winked at him in the men's room of a Sydney park.

Orioles Keep Eye on Doby

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Baltimore Orioles are taking every precaution to see that outfielder Larry Doby isn't bothered this season by pulled muscles that have limited his effectiveness in the past.

Dr. Edwin Mayer, team physician, Thursday ordered Doby to start taking Vitamin E pills.

Doby, who received Purple Heart awards for his service in the Pacific during World War II, also was ordered to start taking Vitamin E pills.

Doby has been especially susceptible to pulled muscles and if we can help him there is no telling how much it will mean to the club."

Astonishing 20,700 fans, Old Pueblo finished eighth in what was billed as a final major tuneup for the three-year-old division before the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby March 8.

The time was 1:49 4-5 over a fast track.

Quiz and Musical Shows Only Ones Using Live Music

BY CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Did you know that with a few exceptions the only television programs using live music these days are quiz shows and, of course, musical variety? Do you care?

If you have observed the fact or at least noted the tinny and repetitious quality of some of the canned music heard on television then you'll delight the heart of every musician—and especially of Paul Taubman.

Taubman currently is the musical director of three quiz shows on CBS-TV — Twenty-One, Tic Tac Dough and Dough Re Mi—and of the CBS-TV daytime serial, Edge of Night.

MOOD CHANGING

The producers of quiz shows realize what an integral part an orchestra plays in creating the mood of a program," he said. "Can you imagine on Twenty-One, for example, how deadly that 15-second trek forward of a contestant would be without music?

"Supposing, after Charles Van Doren won that $129,000, he'd just turned around and walked out without a heraldic fanfare of trumpets. It would have fallen flat.

"It's too bad that the producers of more dramatic shows don't awaken up to the beneficial dramatic effects of an orchestra instead of tape music."

BENNY'S A BOOSTER

If U.S. Steel Hour is the only regular dramatic show now regularly using live music, says Taubman, and Jack Benny, who's man of great know-how, wouldn't be caught dead using tape on his show." Besides the variety and musical programs, while Wide World and the Jack Parr Show are two that enhance their entertainment value, Taubman believes, by using music that's fresh instead of from a can.

Of 26,000 musicians in New York today, only about 200 a week are employed on television. Reason: Since radio also has turned to tape as its chief source of music, there are innumerable fine musicians who simply cannot find employment in their chosen field.

Despite he many arguments that can be raised for live music as better than taped music on television, it's unlikely that TV will be drastically changed in the near future. The reason is simply this: It's cheaper in the can.

BIG INDUSTRY

Canada's meat packing industry had total sales of $869,000,000 in 1956, up $50,000,000 from 1955.

Raintree County, Near Shelved Now Doing Good Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — MGM expects Raintree County to bring in $5,000,000 domestically, and the company appears to be surprised. It shouldn't be.

Film companies have a tendency to become panicked by early misgivings and poor reports of a movie. That was true of Red Badge of Courage, which MGM virtually scuttled. The film was slashed to ribbons and thrown away on the bottom half of a double bill. In the original John Huston version it surely could have made a good return on the art circuit and later-done at least fair in general release.

The picture did poorly in its initial run here, being overpriced and opening at a time when movie business was in the doldrums because of Asian flu, etc. A cruel joke was making the rounds about the man who called the theatre to ask what time Raintree was going on. When would you like to see it? was the answer.

PROVES ITSELF

But now the picture is proving itself. It is doing fine business in subsequent runs, and at more reasonable prices. Critics have praise big awards at my neighborhood house, where it is still running after three weeks.

MGM had nothing to be ashamed of with Raintree. It is no Gone With the Wind. But what is? It gives a good picture of the northern side of the American Civil War, so seldom seen in films. It has some great photography and good performances, including the best one Liz Taylor ever gave. Eve Marie Saint makes a job that merits Academy recognition.

ALL PARTY

At Summerside, P.E.I., Mr. Diefenbaker said his government has accomplished what the Liberals merely thought of during 22 years in office.

"In eight months we have done things that the last government talked about with for 22 years," he contended before an overflow audience of 900 in a theatre.

At Ancaster, Ont., Finance Minister Donald Fleming denied that the U.S. is retaliating against Canada because of the 15-per-cent diversion policy. He said former Liberal health minister Paul Martin had made this claim.

At Harrow, Health Minister Monteith said if his party is returned it will be able to assist any province that has a hospital plan prepared by July of this year.

Mr. Monteith told an audience of about 500 in the vegetable-growing district that the government had put a 12-cent floor price on sugar beets Dec. 16 and an embargo on frozen peas to aid farmers in the area.

At Tecumseh, former Liberal Cabinet minister Paul Martin said if he were still health minister agreement concerning a national hospital plan between the federal government and six provinces would have been signed.

Mr. Martin said it was a "tragedy of the first order" that this had not yet been done. He also said tuberculosis and mental illness should have been included in the plan.

The 34-year-old member for Essex East for the last 23 years was unopposed for reconfirmation. He told 2,000 persons the government's proposed price stabilization plan for agriculture should include soya beans and corn.

In Powell River, B.C., Works Minister Green said the Liberal election campaign is based on the fantasy that only one man is capable of contributing to the cause of peace.

He said the Liberal slogan appears to be "peace and Pearson but Pearson Diefenbaker Fleming and External Affairs Minister Smith both are working for peace and for Canadian leadership in the United Nations, NATO and the Commonwealth.

WOULD END REGISTER

8. Exemption of the present copyright register in Ottawa and repeal of registration provisions in the present Copyright Act. Registration now is voluntary and is useful only for complicated legal situations that might arise in actions for infringement. Such allegations might be bypassed by amendments to the present act.

9. Extension of copyright protection to all residents of Canada on unpublished work. At present it is limited to citizens or nationals of countries that have signed international agreements in which Canada participates.

10. Substantial changes in the legal remedies for copyright infringement, based in many cases on provisions of Britain's present Copyright Act. This would include requiring the plaintiff—rather than the defendant, as at present—to prove his case where copyright is at issue.

11. Royalties for recorded musical and other works should be based on playing time, at a rate of one-quarter cent a minute, with a minimum of two cents for each work. At present, the royalty is two cents a side of each record.

12. Copyright in unpublished original literary, dramatic or musical works should extend for 75 years after death of the author or 100 years after the work is made, whichever is the longer. The present term is until publication plus 50 years.

13. Copyright in photographs should be extended to 50 years from the time the photo was taken. At present it is 25 years from the making of the original negative.

14. On published engravings, the term should be 56 years from publication or the author's death, whichever is longer. On unpublished engravings, it should be 75 years after the author's death or 100 years after the engraving is made, whichever is longer.

15. Only the originating station of a network broadcast should have to pay a performing right fee.

Besides Mr. Justice Ilsley, other members of the royal commission are Guy Favreau, assistant deputy justice minister, and W. W. Buchanan, member of the tariff board.

The commission also studied industrial design, patents and trade marks, and its recommendations on these will follow later.

It said in its 181-page copyright report that the CBC sought establishment of its "broadcasters' right" and also that this right extend to rediffusion—the picking up of a broadcast at a receiving point for simultaneous retransmission to subscribers.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, which also sought establishing a broadcasters right, dissociated itself from the rediffusion proposal of the CBC. CARTB represents most private broadcasters.

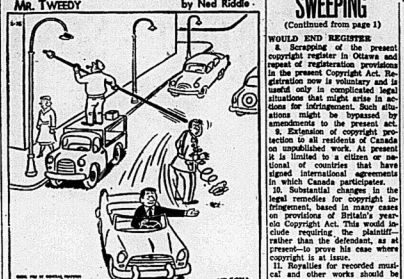
The commission recommended against creation of a copyright fee for rediffusion.

On the question of a publisher's right to present typographical arrangements, the commission said it is against creating a new copyright "unless the need is conclusively demonstrated."

The commission said the term of copyright on published works, recommended earlier, is desirable that Canada's term corresponds as closely as possible with that in the U.S.

It backed continued participation in the Rome copyright convention which ensures each member country will extend to subjects of other member countries the same treatment its own nationals are given. The main advantage seen by the commission in signing the Universal Copyright Convention is to get a better copyright deal for Canadian authors dealing with the U.S.

The U.S. is not a member of the Rome convention but subscribes to the Universal Copyright Convention. Instead of ratifying the universal treaty, Canadian authors would seek protection in the U.S. by simultaneously publishing in both countries to obtain protection in the U.S.



The commission said that to bring Canada under the terms of the universal convention the principle of making full copyright protection automatic upon printing in Canada would have to be abolished.

It proposed only a small change with regard to ownership of copyright. The owner would continue to be the author or orders commissioning the work done by an author as an employee or on commission for a hired work. This could be someone else should rest with the author altered by written agreement between the two parties.

Profiles of Party Leaders

John Diefenbaker

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker revels in a good political fight. If things are dull, he's likely to provoke one on his own.

That fact has created lively controversy around the tall, lean Saskatchewan lawyer all along the rags-to-riches political trail he has blazed since arriving in the Commons 18 years ago.

The result has been an unusual amount of public interest and argument centred around the Progressive Conservative government which the 62-year-old prime minister formed last June 21, his party's first time in power here in 23 years.

ATTACKING ROLE

During the abbreviated life of the 23rd Parliament, with a minority Conservative government, he reacted to opposition attack by launching counter-attacks. After 17 previous years in opposition, it would have been out of character for him to be content with a defensive role.

John George Diefenbaker learned his politics the hard way through 15 years of political defeats before his first election to the Commons in 1940. Twice he failed in bids to win the party leadership in 1942 and 1948.

Finally, in December, 1956, he won the leadership of a party that held scant hope of gaining power in the election looming ahead. Yet six months later he sparked Conservatives to victory at the polls, toppling the Liberals in one of the most vigorous campaigns in recent political history.

He became Canada's first prime minister whose paternal ancestry was neither British nor French, and the first war veteran to head the federal government.

Great-grandfather Diefenbacher came out from Holland around 1815 to settle at York — now Toronto. Grandfather George Diefenbacker, a noted Western Ontario carriage maker, dropped the "c" from the name more than 60 years ago. His mother's people were Scottish. Great-grandfather George Bannerman, from Kildonan, Scotland, was among Lord Selkirk's colonists who made the rugged trek to Manitoba's Red River settlement in 1813-13.

URGED NEW POLICY..

John Diefenbaker has repeatedly voiced pride in this ancestry. Yet his first Commons speech was a plea for establishment of a Canadian citizenship, and abolition of the census practice of registering Canadians by their paternal ancestry.

Born in Ontario's Grey County and raised in Saskatchewan, his boyhood was filled with reading of history and biography that whetted his imagination. He once told a reporter he aimed at becoming a lawyer because so many of the great figures in political history were lawyers.

He often tells the story of how, as a 14-year-old newsboy in Saskatoon peddling the old Manitoba Free Press Telegram, he once chatted at the railway station with a distinguished traveller, Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier. That set him dreaming of high public service.

"The achievement of that hope has not been disillusioning," he said last fall, after his first taste of life in the prime minister's busy office in Parliament hill.

That first taste, if satisfying, also involved a vast amount of work with the cabinet—more than 12 hours a day at the office, countless visitors, the burden of endless decisions.

AN EASIER PACE

The early pace has since eased off. He rises any time between 6 and 7 a.m. at the prime minister's residence at 24 Sussex Street, overlooking the Ottawa River from a mile downstream from Parliament Hill.

Normally, he starts the day with a snack in a kitchenette which is part of the Diefenbaker private quarters on the second floor, does some homework and then has a substantial breakfast before going to the office around 8:30 or 9 a.m.

His day still is filled with a steady stream of visitors—a few of them personal friends whom he has invited to drop in. These unscheduled visits sometimes upset the routine carefully planned by his staff.

"You can't keep him on schedule at all," one of his secretaries recently remarked, with resignation.

But he can get back on schedule with a quick sandwich lunch, brought in to his desk. This happens about half the time.

LIKES TV WRESTLING

He has managed to keep most weekday evenings free of work and normally he goes to bed early, at 10 p.m. or even earlier, except on nights when he sits up to watch one of his favorite television programs—wrestling.

A non-drinker and non-smoker, he has for years followed his Baptist upbringing and abstained from working on Sundays. However, the pressure of the prime minister's duties has caused him to ease that rule although he still refuses to make any political appearances on Sundays.

He is a man of high nervous energy. The prospect of a political fight in the Commons can set him almost hopping in his seat, eager to jump into the fray.

But he can also relax, easily and quickly. His ability to drop off to sleep under almost any circumstances stood him in good stead during last year's election campaign, when he made more than 100 speeches during a tour of more than 20,000 miles.

His favorite sports are fishing and duck hunting. Relating with friends, he loves to spin yarns about his political or courtroom experiences, often employing a gift of mimicry to do a devastating take-off on some other figure in public life.

PRAIRIE BOYHOOD

His favorite stories are those of the Prairies, where he went as a boy of eight when his school-teacher father, William T. Diefenbaker, moved from Ontario to a rural school near Fort Carlton, in western Saskatchewan. That was in 1903. Two years later his father opened a homestead a few miles west across the North Saskatchewan River; breaking ground on virgin soil littered with buffalo bones.

When John was 14, his family moved to Saskatoon where his father became land titles clerk and, later, a federal customs official for 20 years.

John entered the University of Saskatchewan in 1913, went overseas in 1916 as a lieutenant with the 196th Western University Battalion and was invalided home in 1917.

He finished his law school training and opened practice in 1919 in the small town of Wakaw, but two years later he moved his practice to Prince Albert. His home has been there ever since.

EARLY DEFEATS

His first taste of political campaigning was in 1925 when he lost in Prince Albert to a Liberal in the federal election that year. Next year, when Liberal leader Mackenzie King ran in Prince Albert, young lawyer Diefenbaker ran against him and lost, polling little more than half of Mr. King's total.

Mr. Diefenbaker didn't make another attempt at federal politics until his winning one in 1940 in Saskatchewan's Lake Centre constituency. But in the interim he tried twice for election to the Saskatchewan legislature, losing both times by narrow margins. The second time, in 1938, he was provincial Conservative leader.

His first wife, the former Edna Brower, died in February, 1951. They had no children.

In December, 1953, he married the former Mrs. Olive E. Palmer, a widow. She was a daughter of the pastor of the Baptist Church in Saskatoon that the Diefenbaker family attended.

Sons of Freedom Ranks Are Split Over Migration

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — A split in the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor ranks over proposed migration to Russia has prompted several Freedomite families to end their education war with authorities and have their children in regular public schools.

Doukhobor observers said the breakaway is the most significant move to date away from the fanaticism of the hard core of the 2,500-member sect.

It came as the Freedomites awaited the return of a Russian delegation to Russia. Reports from Moscow have indicated the delegation will recommend that the sect relocate in southwestern Siberia.
